BOSTON'S SUBWAY.

On Saturday, September 3, 1898, Boston's subway, constructed under authority given by Chapter 428, Acts of 1893, Chapter 548, Acts of 1894, Chapter 440, Acts of 1895, and Chapter 500, Acts of 1897, was completed and opened to the public for travel.

Its construction has been in charge of a commission, of which two members, Hon. George G. Crocker, Chairman, and Horace G. Allen (who took the place of Albert C. Burrage, resigned in 1896), were appointed by the Governor, and the other three members, Charles H. Dalton, Thomas J. Gargan and George F. Swain, were appointed by the Mayor. The Chief Engineer is Howard A. Carson, with B. Leighton Beal as Secretary of the commission.

The estimated cost of the subway was $5,000,000, of which $4,000,000 was for construction and $1,000,000 for real estate. While the exact figures cannot be given at the present time, the actual cost for construction will be less than $3,800,000, and for real estate less than $1,000,000.

Work was begun on the subway at the Public Garden on March 28, 1895, and the first portion of the undertaking, extending to Park street, was completed and in operation on September 1, 1897, and on September 30 of the same year that portion from Pleasant street to the part already in use was placed in operation.

The area of the subway can be best shown by the statement that in general its width is twenty-four feet for two-track sections and forty-eight feet for four-track sections. It contains two tracks from the junction of Shawmut avenue and Tremont street to the junction of Boylston and Tremont streets, and from the entrance at the Public Garden to the junction of Boylston and Tremont streets; from the latter point to Park street, four tracks; two tracks from Park street to Scollay square, down Cornhill to Adams square, and on Hanover street from Washington street to Scollay square; three tracks on Washington street from Adams square to Hanover street, and four tracks on Washington street and under the old Boston and Maine property, from Hanover street to the terminus near Travers street.

Its length is a mile and two-thirds, and its trackage, reckoned as single track, is about five miles.

The operating company pays for its annual rental a sum which shall never be less than $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the cost. The number of car-trips per annum, reckoning each passage of a car from one entrance of the subway to another, as one trip, and from any entrance of the subway to a loop within the subway and back to an exit at the same point at which it entered, as two trips, shall be charged at the rate of five cents per trip, and if at any time the amount so computed shall exceed $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the cost of the subway, then the amount of annual rental shall be based upon the toll system instead of on a percentage of the cost.

DEATH OF EX-MAYOR LINCOLN.

Hon. Frederic W. Lincoln, who was the sixteenth and eighteenth Mayor of Boston, died at his home in Dorchester on Tuesday, September 13, in the eighty-second year of his age. Mr. Lincoln was born in Boston, on February 27, 1817. Having served his apprenticeship, in 1839 he became a maker of nautical instruments, and continued in that line of business for over forty years.

In 1847 and 1848, and again in 1872 and 1874, he served in the Legislature of Massachusetts.

In 1858 Mr. Lincoln was elected Mayor. He served as Mayor during the years 1858-60, and again in 1863-66—seven years in all. He was Mayor for a greater number of years than any other incumbent, Josiah Quincy, who served for six years continuously, i. e., 1823-28, being the only other person to occupy the Mayor's chair for five years or more.

Of the six ex-Mayors now living, two—Messrs. Prince and Matthews—held the office for four years.

Mr. Lincoln was Chairman for several years of the Massachusetts Board of Harbor Commissioners. He was Chairman of the Board of Overseers of the Poor of Boston from 1867 till 1878, when he became Treasurer of the Board, which office he continued to hold till the time of his death.

Mr. Lincoln was prominent in financial, charitable and educational affairs, as well as in politics.

The Lincoln School in South Boston, which was dedicated in September, 1859, was named in honor of Mr. Lincoln, who was then Mayor. The City Hall, dedicated September 17, 1865, was completed during Mr. Lincoln's sixth term of office.

APPOINTMENT OF ART COMMISSIONERS.

In accordance with Chapter 410 of the Acts of the Legislature, 1898, His Honor the Mayor has appointed the following-named gentlemen to serve as members of the Board of Art Commissioners: Samuel D. Warren, representing the Museum of Fine Arts, for five years; Charles A. Cummings, representing the Boston Art Club, for four years; Arthur A. Carey, representing the Trustees of the Boston Public Library, for three years; C. Howard Walker, representing the Boston Society of Architects, for two years, and F. W. Chandler, representing the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for one year.

ORGANIZATION OF BOARD OF ASSESSORS.

The Board of Assessors, at a meeting held on Tuesday, September 13, 1898, organized by the election of Frank A. Drew as Chairman, in place of Joshua S. Duncklee deceased, and George A. Comins as Secretary, in place of Mr. Drew.

Both members of the Board entered the employ of the Assessing Department in the early seventies, Mr. Drew in 1872 and Mr. Comins in 1874, and, in various capacities, have had continuous connection with its service.

DECISION REGARDING THE FRANKLIN FUND.

By the will and codicil of Benjamin Franklin, one thousand pounds sterling were donated to the Town of Boston, to be let out under certain conditions upon interest. It was provided that this fund should be managed under the direction of the Selectmen, united with the ministers of the oldest Episcopalian, Congregational and Presbyterian churches in the town, and at the end of one hundred years, one hundred thousand pounds of the trust, which would have accrued in that time, should be laid out by the managers in public works, "which may be judged of most general utility to the inhabitants, such as fortifications, bridges, aqueducts, public buildings, baths, pavements, or whatever may make living in the town more convenient to its people, and render it more agreeable to strangers resorting thither for health or a temporary residence."

The bequest was accepted by the town at a meeting held June 1, 1790, and the money was paid over in March, 1791. In 1822 the City Charter was adopted, and from that time on the Mayor and Aldermen, with the ministers of the three churches mentioned in the will, acted as managers of the fund.

A meeting of these managers was held December 28, 1893, and an order was passed, setting apart from the fund $322,490.20, with its accumulations, for the purchase of a piece of land and the erection of a Franklin Trades School, under the direction of such department of the city as would be charged with the erection and furnishing of buildings in the City of Boston.

The money was paid over to the City Treasurer in 1894, but by Chapter 449 of the Acts of 1895 the Architect's Department of the City of Boston was abolished, and although at various times the managers passed votes in connection with the purchase of land for a school, no money, except a few hundred dollars to defray the expenses of the architect and managers while visiting trades schools in other cities, was ever paid out from the City Treasury for that purpose.

On March 26, 1898, on petition of the Mayor, the will was filed and recorded in the Registry of Probate, and a few months later the Corporation Counsel filed a petition in the Probate Court asking for the appointment of trustees under the will, designating as such the Mayor and Aldermen, with the ministers of the above-mentioned churches.

This was followed by petitions of the Citizens' Association of Boston and the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth, asking the appointment, as trustees, of four other persons, besides the ministers.

A hearing was held on February 11, 1897, and on March 18, 1897, the Probate Court appointed as trustees Henry L. Higginson, Francis C. Welch, Abraham Shuman and Charles T. Gallagher, together with the oldest ministers of the Episcopalian, Congregational and Presbyterian churches. The court assumed that the managers were trustees and that when the town became a city there became a vacancy in the trusteeship.

The case was then carried to the Supreme Judicial Court, and in an opinion of the court by Judge Allen, August 30, 1898, it was decided that there was no vacancy in the office of trustee, as the City of Boston, as the successor to the Town of Boston, continued to be the trustee under the will, and, there being no vacancy, the appointment of the petitioners as trustees was void.

The following is the full text of the decision:

There can be no doubt that the title to the fund now in question was at the outset in the Town of Boston. The gift was to the inhabitants of the town, in trust for the purposes specified, and was to be accepted by them. It is afterwards spoken of in the codicil as the donation to the Town of Boston, and again as the donation to the inhabitants of Boston.

It is now well settled that a town may, in its corporate capacity, accept a gift of real or personal estate left to it in trust for charitable purposes, and may act as trustee and execute the trust. Drury v. Natick, 10 Allen, 169, 182. Webb v. Neal, 5 Allen, 575. Nourse v. Merriam, 8 Cush. 11, 19. Green v. Putnam, 8 Cush. 21. Worcester v. Eaton, 13 Mass. 371. Vidal v. Howard, 2 How. 127, 190. 2 Dillon Mun. Corp. §§ 567-573.

The City of Boston is the same municipal corporation as the inhabitants of the Town of Boston were. By being incorporated as a city, the identity of the municipal corporation was not lost. Property held by the inhabitants of the town in trust would pass to the city on the same trust. No action of any court was necessary in order to vest the title to such property in the city; and the same duties would rest upon the city as rested upon the town. This was clearly established in Girard v. Philadelphia, 7 Wall, 1, where the granting of a new city charter and the repeal of the old one, and the enlargement of the area of the city from two square miles to about one hundred and twenty-nine, were held not to affect the city's title to property held in trust, or its capacity to execute the trusts. Again in Broughton v. Pensacola, 93 U. S. 266, it was held that rights of creditors were not lost by a change of charter, the court saying, "It will be presumed that the Legislature intended a continued existence of the same corporation, although different powers are possessed under the new charter, and different officers administer its affairs." See, also, Mobile v. Watson, 116 U. S. 289. Shapleigh v. San Angelo, 167 U. S. 646. Town of Kahoka Case, 35 Fed. Rep. 32. Devereux v. Brownsville, 29 Fed. Rep. 742. State v. Natal, 39 La. An. 439. Amy v. Selma, 77 Ala. 103. 1 Dillon Mun. Corp. §§ 171, 172.

It is, however, contended by the plaintiffs that even although the city may hold the title to the fund in trust, and be in that sense a trustee, yet the duties of the persons referred to in the will as managers are such as also to constitute them trustees, with a right of possession and control of the fund. Some of the provisions of the will tend to support this view, but an examination of the whole of the provisions relating to this bequest, and to the similar bequest to the City of Philadelphia, leads us to the conclusion that the managers were not intended to be trustees. After making detailed provisions in respect to the gift to Boston, Dr. Franklin says: "All the directions herein given respecting the disposition and management of the donation to the inhabitants of Boston I would have observed respecting that to the inhabitants of Philadelphia; only as Philadelphia is incorporated, I request the corporation of that city to undertake the management agreeable to said directions." The distinction in his mind appears to have been Philadelphia, being a city, could manage the fund through its existing officers or boards, while the inhabitants of the Town of Boston assembled in town meeting, could not well pass upon the details of the management, and hence he provides, in the first instance, that the fund "shall be managed under the direction of the selectmen, united with the ministers of the oldest Episcopalian, Congregational and Presbyterian churches in that town." Afterwards he says that "it is presumed that there will always be found in Boston virtuous and benevolent citizens willing to bestow a part of their time in doing good to the rising generation by superintending and managing this institution gratis." A provision follows that "there may in time be more [money] than the occasion in Boston shall require, and then some may be spared to their neighboring or other towns in the said State of Massachusetts who may desire to have it, such towns engaging to pay punctually the interest and the portions of the principal to the inhabitants of the Town of Boston." And still later he adds: "I hope however that if the inhabitants of the two cities should not think fit to undertake the execution they will at least accept the offer of these donations as a mark of my good-will, a token of my gratitude, and a testimony of my earnest desire to be useful to them even after my departure. I wish, indeed, that they may both undertake to endeavor the execution of the project." There could be no pretence that the corporation of Philadelphia or any boards of officers of that city were intended to be trustees, as distinct from the city itself; and we think there was no intention to make the Selectmen of Boston, or the three designated ministers, or the virtuous and benevolent citizens who might aid in superintending and managing the fund, or institution as it is called in the codicil, trustees of the property in a legal sense. They are nowhere called trustees. No provision is made for any formal appointment, or succession to the title when new persons of the classes described should act as managers. Formerly, on the appointment of a new trustee, a conveyance of the property to him was necessary, but now the vesting of title without such conveyance is often provided for by statute. It may be that the founder of a trust could provide for the succession to the title without a formal conveyance; but the absence of all provision for such succession, or for any formal appointment or ascertainment of the ministers who were expected to serve, and the provision respecting the other persons who might take part in the superintendence and management, tend to negative the idea that any of the persons so designated or referred to were intended to be trustees. The case in this particular is quite different from Drury v. Natick, 10 Allen, 169, where it was expressly provided that the town should choose five trustees at the first annual meeting after the decease of the testatrix, and every fifth year thereafter, who should hold office for the term of five years. In the present case, the duties of the managers, though in some respects like those usually exercised by trustees, are not such as necessarily to imply technical trusteeship. These duties bear some relation to those of visitors of a charity. The managers were publicly intended to assist rather than to supplant the inhabitants of the town in the administration of the fund. It is not necessary at this time to define the extent and limits of their authority. It is enough to say that the City of Boston is the trustee, as successor to the inhabitants of the Town of Boston, and that there is and has been no vacancy in the office of trustee. The Probate Court assumed to appoint the plaintiffs as trustees on the theory that there was a vacancy. It did not assume to appoint them as managers, and the statutes confer upon that court no jurisdiction to appoint such managers, and the power of a court of equity to appoint such managers, under its general jurisdiction over charities, need not now be considered. The plaintiffs assert no title except under their appointment as trustees, and this title fails. The selectmen and the ministers were never as individuals entitled to the possession and control of the fund, as against the town; nor are the plaintiffs entitled to such possession and control, as against the city.

For these reasons, in the opinion of a majority of the court, the entry must be: Petition dismissed.

The new charter of Montreal, Canada, grants full municipal suffrage to such women as occupy houses subject to taxation, either as owners or lessees.

APPRECIATION OF SERVICES.

The following letter has been received by His Honor the Mayor from Dr. E. H. Bradford of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association:

Boston, September 7, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY.

Mayor of Boston.

MY DEAR MR. QUINCY: You may be interested in hearing of the excellent conduct of Dr. Shea of the Board of Health, who volunteered to take charge of the relief ship "Lewiston," which the Volunteer Aid Association despatched to Montauk to bring off the soldiers of the Ninth Regiment.

Not only did he show great promptness at Montauk, and energy in securing the patients, and in having them brought properly on the ship, but at the time of the accident to the steamship, as I have learned from others than Dr. Shea (who would be too modest to tell the story himself), he took command of the situation, compelled the crew to behave as they should, landed the soldiers on a lighter, and ordered a special train, and by careful management brought his sick soldiers to town, delivering them in time for their breakfast, six hours ahead of the time they were expected.

I do not know that we of the Association can ever thank him for what he has done; but he deserves the gratitude of all citizens of Boston, as well as of the State.

Yours very truly,

E. H. BRADFORD.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that it is desired to establish an eligible register from which a selection may be made to fill an existing vacancy in the grade of fireman, at a salary of $720 per annum, in the custodian service at Boston, Mass.

Eligibility for appointment will be determined from an examination into each applicant's experience, ability and character as a workman and physical qualifications for the work to be performed.

Applicants must be citizens of the United States, and under the regulations of the Treasury Department must be between the ages of twenty-one and thirty years.

Persons who have suffered the loss of an arm or leg, who are ruptured, or who have other serious disability, are considered physically disqualified for appointment to the custodian service.

This examination is open to all reputable citizens of the United States who may desire to enter the service, and who comply with the requirements, without regard to race or to political or religious affiliations. All such citizens are invited to apply; but attention is invited to the fact that it is the practise of the department in filling vacancies in the custodian service to give preference to eligibles who are legal residents of the place or vicinity where the vacancy exists. Applicants will be examined, graded and certified, with entire impartiality and wholly without regard to any consideration save their ability as shown in the examination.

Persons desiring to enter this examination should apply to the Secretary of the Board of Examiners at the post-office in the city above mentioned, for application blank, Form 1052, which should be properly executed and at once forwarded to the Commission at Washington, D. C.

BRITISH CONSULAR REPORTS RELATING TO BOSTON.

Two reports of Sir D. Colnaghi, the British Consul-General in Boston, have been published recently by the British Foreign Office. The "Trade of Boston and District for the Year 1897," published July, 1898, constitutes "No. 2147, Annual Series Diplomatic Reports." It contains a succinct and conveniently arranged review of the commerce of Boston and Portland for the year 1897.

"No. 472, Miscellaneous Series of Diplomatic and Consular Reports, Foreign Office, August, 1898, page 21," is entitled "Fire Department of Boston, U.S.A." It contains an appreciative and well digested account of the organization and peculiarities of the Boston Fire Department.

STREET DEPARTMENT, SEWER DIVISION.

September 9, 1898.

MR. BENJ. W. WELLS, Superintendent of Streets.

DEAR SIR: In answer to the enclosed communication received from the Board of Aldermen, viz.:

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be requested to inform the Board of Aldermen the cause of delay in constructing a dam across Wood Island Flats, East Boston, I would state that there was an appropriation made by the City Government of $3,000 to do this work, and this division proceeded to draw up plans, specifications and contracts for this work, and also received bids which are still unopened.

After this division drew up the plans we discovered that these flats belonged to private corporations instead of to the State of Massachusetts, and we requested the East Boston and Maverick Land Company for permission to construct the dam.

We also attended hearings, and met the representatives of the company, but as yet they have not forwarded us the desired permission to construct the same. This dam will cost between $4,000 and $5,000 to build, and this division does not feel justified in going in on private property without permission being granted us by the parties interested, and this has not yet been obtained.

Very truly yours,

C. R. CUTTER,

Deputy-Superintendent Sewer Division.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

A few months since an appropriation of $75,000 was made to cover a portion of the expenses of street watering. This appropriation was not intended to represent the whole expenditure, but it was made on account to enable the work to go on, pending the determination of the number of lineal feet of street frontages within the portion of the city to be watered under the assessment plan and the determination of the exact amount required. The work of computing these street frontages has just been completed, and it now appears that the total sum which will be raised by assessment will amount, at five cents per front foot, to $138,511. It is very necessary that the difference between this sum and the $75,000 already appropriated should be appropriated at once, in order that the Assessors may include the amount in the tax bills for the current year, and I therefore recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

I transmit with it an estimate from the City Auditor of an additional revenue equal to the sum to be appropriated.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

AUDITING DEPARTMENT.

City Hall, September 12, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: I hereby estimate that the receipts from street watering assessments, under the orders passed by the the City Council, will amount to $138,511 during the current financial year.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES H. DODGE, City Auditor.

Ordered, That the sum of $63,511 in addition to the sum heretofore appropriated for the purpose, be hereby appropriated for watering the streets and portions of the streets which the city, by vote approved by Mayor, April 18, 1898, determined should be watered during the current year at the expense of the abutters.

The order was passed. Communications and order sent down.

Funds Received for Water Works.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 12, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

The City Treasurer has advanced the sum of $5,000,000 received from the Metropolitan Water Board on account of the claim of the city for damages for the taking of its water supply system, for current expenses, instead of borrowing that amount in anticipation of taxes, and this sum will be restored to the credit of this account early in November, so that it will then be available for other proper disposition. The Treasurer desires to follow the provisions of Chapter 427 of the Acts of 1898, although this act has not yet been accepted by the City Council, and to invest this sum in future issues of bonds of the city, instead of placing bonds to said amount upon the market and carrying this large sum on deposit in banks, as he would otherwise be obliged to do. The authority of the City Council is necessary in order to enable this to be done, and I therefore recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City Treasurer be authorized, with the approval of the Mayor, to invest from time to time the whole or any part of the sum of five million dollars ($5,000,000) received from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts on account of damages caused by the taking of lands, waters and other property by the Metropolitan Water Board together with any other sums which may be received on such account, in any bonds of the City of Boston which he has been, or may hereafter be, authorized to issue; and the Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to transfer the bonds so purchased to the Sinking-Funds Commissioners, to be held and managed by them as a separate fund, the interest from which shall, so far as required, be paid to the City Treasurer and used to meet the balance, if any, required for the purposes to which the income from the water works of the city may be applied according to the provisions of Section 1 of Chapter 427 of the Acts of 1898, and if any year the total income from said fund shall exceed the amount required to be so used, the excess shall be added to the capital of said fund.

Passed under a suspension of the rule. Sent down.

Baths Department Income.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 12, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

At the beginning of the financial year orders were passed authorizing the crediting to the appropriations for certain departments of the receipts of such departments for various purposes. The authority then given did not cover the Baths Department, and as this department has now received a considerable sum for the use of towels, suits, etc., I desire to ask for the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That all amounts received by the Bath Commissioners for the use of towels, suits, etc., and for laundry work done for other departments, be credited to the appropriation for Baths Department.

Passed. Sent down.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL.

On Thursday, September 8, 1898, a special meeting of the Common Council was held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 8 o'clock. President Connolly in the chair.

The meeting was held in pursuance to the following call:

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 6, 1898.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL:

You are hereby requested to assemble in the Council Chamber, City Hall, on Thursday, September 8, at 8 P.M., to act upon the loan appropriation for the Bath Department passed by the Board of Aldermen, and to transact such other business as may come before you.

Respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

The following messages were received:

Discharge of Fireman.

OFFICE OF THE FIRE COMMISSIONER,

Bristol Street, September 2, 1898.

HIS HONOR, JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: Complying with the request of the Honorable Common Council for my reason for discharging Fireman F. Coyle, I would respectfully report that without warning he deserted his post and forsook his comrades in this department, where he well knew that at any moment his services might be needed in battle with that enemy which, at all times, is ready to take advantage of any weakness in our line; but, if on his return he can show mitigation of his offence, I shall gladly give him benefit of any doubt.

Your obedient servant,

H. S. RUSSELL, Commissioner.

Placed on file.

Loan Appropriation.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 8, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I desire to call your attention to the fact that the balance of the appropriation for the incidental expenses of the City Council only amounts, on September 1, to $3,407.12, and that the appropriation for contingent expenses of the Board of Aldermen to seventy-one cents, and that the balance of the reserved fund, which is the only source from which such appropriations can now be increased by transfer, only amounts to $241.71; transfers amounting to $24,000 have been made from the reserved fund to the Baths Department and the Public Buildings Department—$17,000 to the former and $7,000 to the latter—by vote of the Finance Committee, and such temporary advances from this fund cannot be repaid until the loan appropriations heretofore requested for such departments are passed.

Under authority of the recent order of the City Council, the City Hospital is incurring, and will incur, considerable expenditures, roughly estimated to amount to $15,000, in taking care of sick and wounded soldiers, and these expenses are to be charged, under such order, to the appropriation for City Council Incidental Expenses; I am informed that such expenditures already amount to more than the present balance in such appropriation, and I am at a loss to know how provision can be made for the payment of further expenses, unless the City Council will place the Baths Department and the Public Buildings Department, through the passage of necessary loan appropriations, in a position to return to the reserved fund the advances which they have received.

Over 200 sick and wounded soldiers have already been received in the City Hospital, and probably at least as many more are to be expected; every possible arrangement has been made for their proper care and comfort, and no expense has been spared for this purpose. A portion of the expense may be received back from the general government, but a very large portion of it will not be repaid and must be borne by the city. I trust that the Common Council will show by prompt action that it is not only willing to pass a bare order authorizing expenditures for the care of soldiers, but that it is willing to demonstrate its sincerity by making it possible for the necessary funds to be provided in the only manner which is now possible.

The city must not and cannot discontinue its free care of sick and wounded soldiers; but unless the Common Council will make it possible for the money to be provided, it will be necessary for me to appeal to the public to contribute the necessary funds, as this work cannot continue unless some provision is made for meeting the expense.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The message was placed on file, and the question came on the passage of No. 5 on the calendar. (See THE CITY RECORD, page 505, order accompanying message of Mayor relating to Special Loan Appropriation for Baths Department.) Fifty members not voting in the affirmative, the order was rejected. A motion was carried that reconsideration be assigned to the next meeting.

Appropriation for Street Improvements.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 8, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Superintendent of Streets, relative to the need of authorizing at once further loan appropriations for street improvements, if any work is to be done this autumn, and I again desire to emphasize the recommendations in favor of such appropriations which I have heretofore made.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

STREET DEPARTMENT.

City Hall, September 8, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: I beg to submit the following statement, showing the appropriations made for Street Department, Paving Division, new and reconstruction work (exclusive of maintenance) from 1891 to 1898, inclusive:

Appropriation.	Amount.	Total.

Specials.....
Street Improvements.....	*$181,480 00	181,480 00

*$13,960.00 for each of thirteen wards.

From the foregoing table it will be noted that in past years a considerable sum of money has been allotted to each ward under the designation of Street Improvements, and in addition special loans have been made for streets, the cost of which would exceed the total allowance for any one ward. The appropriation made this year for street improvement or reconstruction work, as you will note, is only $181,480, and this apportioned amongst thirteen wards. For the remaining twelve wards no money has been provided. The special appropriations referred to as made in past years cover large and important work, for which the ward appropriation was not sufficient.

The attention of the Common Council has also been called to the fact that certain streets in the downtown district are in such a condition that immediate and thorough work is required; for instance, the section of Tremont street, from Boylston street to Pleasant street occupied by the subway; Commercial street, from State street to Cross street; Kilby street, from State street to Milk street, and Howard street, from Court street to Bulfinch street. In addition to these streets the greater portion of the downtown district has not been paved for over twenty years. During this time the placing under ground of wires, etc., has ruined the pavements.

I fully appreciate that there is not a sufficient sum available this year to do any great amount of work required; but the streets mentioned above are in such condition that it is absolutely necessary that some action be taken. There is before the Common Council an order passed by the Board of Aldermen, under date of July 16, 1898, accompanied by a message from Your Honor, appropriating $125,000 for new paving work, to be spent under the direction of the Superintendent of Streets. From this sum the streets mentioned above could be taken care of, and a small amount of general work done, where most necessary, in the wards now without an appropriation. The season for proper street work is fast passing by, and as no work of a permanent nature can be done without first giving notice to the corporations and others having underground structures, it is absolutely necessary that action in this matter should be taken at once.

I would also call your attention to the difference in amount of money made available this year and in the years shown in the table above—$181,480, against an average of $866,947.81.

In certain cases, where public safety and the requirements of travel rendered action absolutely necessary, I have deemed it proper to use maintenance money, thus reducing the amount available for street repairs, cleaning, etc.

I would call your attention also to the fact that the maintenance appropriation for the Paving Division was materially reduced by the unusual demands made upon it in consequence of the great snowstorm of last February; so that it is not possible from this fund to comply with the absolute and urgent calls made by the citizens on the department. In every ward at present unprovided with money there exist conditions which should receive prompt attention. These cannot be corrected unless appropriation is made therefor by the City Government.

Yours very respectfully,

BENJ. W. WELLS,
Superintendent of Streets.

Ordered printed, and assigned to the next meeting.

Veto of Carriage Order.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
City Hall, September 8, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I return herewith, without my approval, the accompanying order providing for the appointment of a special committee "to make arrangements for providing free carriage rides for soldiers detained at the various hospitals in this city," and providing the sum of $500 from the reserved fund to be expended for such purpose, under the direction of the Mayor. While the object may be a worthy one, I can see no occasion for the appointment of a special committee for this purpose, and the failure of the loan appropriation for the Baths Department, makes that department unable to repay its advance of $17,000 from the reserved fund, and leaves the balance in that fund at only a few hundred dollars.

I am ready, however, to take such steps as may seem desirable to provide the free carriage rides suggested.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The message was ordered to be printed, and assigned for one week.

Drug stores are said to be decreasing in the United States. According to a paper read before the American Pharmaceutical Association, at its recent meeting in Baltimore, the total number of drug stores in the country was 36,664 in 1896, 36,463 in 1897, and only 35,467 in 1898. The decrease varies in different parts of the country from 1.8 per cent. in Pennsylvania in the last two years to 24.6 per cent. in Texas. The competition of the department stores and the cutting of prices in proprietary medicines are the reasons assigned for the decrease.

Within the same period the number of wholesale druggists fell from 296 to 284.

THANKS OF VISITING FLEET.

The following letter has been received by His Honor the Mayor from Captain Higginson:

U. S. S. MASSACHUSETTS,

Boston, September 7, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor of Boston.

SIR: Allow me to thank you for the part the authorities of the city have taken in the reception of the officers and men of the visiting fleet. The cheers of the people at every block during the parade, and the flowers strewn in our path all indicate that the deeds of the navy have been warmly appreciated by the people of Boston. The passion for the sea being in their blood, as well as in their history, they cannot fail to respond to the brave actions of "the men behind the guns" during the late war.

After all our hardships and battles it is indeed a pleasure to find that our work is so warmly appreciated and heartily commended.

Very respectfully,

FRANCIS J. HIGGINSON,
Captain U. S. N. Commanding.

VALUATION OF REAL ESTATE IN STATE OF NEW YORK.

The University of Chicago is about to open a College of Commerce and Politics. The University of California has voted to establish such a school, and the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin are planning to do likewise.

The history of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, dates from 1768, when a few prominent merchants of the city formed an association which they called the Chamber of Commerce in the City of New York. In the year 1770 the organization was granted a royal charter; but little, however, was accomplished, owing to the stormy times of the Revolution.

After the war the Chamber applied to the Legislature for an act of re-incorporation, which was passed. A new start was made, and the association grew, both in members and power. Its membership now numbers nearly 1,000, and the Chamber has become a force, not only commercially, but in matters of political and social importance.

DEATH OF DR. SAMUEL ELIOT.

Samuel Eliot, LL.D., formerly Head Master of the Girls' High School, and Superintendent of the Public Schools of Boston, died at Beverly Farms, on Wednesday, September 14, in the seventy-seventh year of his age.

Dr. Eliot, who was a nephew of Hon. Samuel Atkins Eliot, seventh Mayor of Boston, was born in Boston on December 22, 1821. In 1839, he graduated with high honors at Harvard College. In 1856, he entered the faculty of Trinity College, at Hartford, Conn., of which institution he was President during the years 1860-1864.

In 1872, Dr. Eliot was elected Head Master of the Girls' High School, in which capacity he continued to serve the city till 1876, when he resigned. On January 22, 1878, he was chosen Superintendent of Schools, in succession to the late John D. Philbrick. August 1, 1880, he resigned the superintendency. Dr. Eliot was a member of the School Committee for three years, i.e., 1885-1888. In the period, 1866-1872, he was an Overseer of Harvard College.

Dr. Eliot was influential in the management of the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind for a period of thirty-five years—being a Trustee for nine years, and then President of the corporation for twenty-six years till his death. He was President of the Corporation of the Massachusetts School for the Feeble Minded from 1877 till he died.

He was one of the original Trustees of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and a member of its Executive Committee from 1888 till his death. At the time of his death, he had been a member of the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital for thirty-two years, and Chairman of the Board for twenty-six years, and a Trustee of St. Paul's School, at Concord, N.H., for more than forty years.

Few men of his generation have been so active and useful in the educational, charitable and religious affairs of Boston, as Dr. Eliot.

ACTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL ON DEATH OF EX-MAYOR LINCOLN.

Both branches of the City Council met at noon on Thursday, the fifteenth instant, to take action on the death of ex-Mayor Frederic W. Lincoln.

The following resolutions, introduced in the Board of Aldermen by Alderman Charles, were passed by a unanimous rising vote in each branch:

Resolved, That the City Council learns with deep regret of the death, at the ripe age of eighty-one years, of Hon. Frederic W. Lincoln, Mayor of this city from 1858 to 1860, inclusive, and from 1863 to 1866, inclusive. The unprecedented length of service which the citizens of Boston accorded to Mr. Lincoln as their chief magistrate is a sufficient testimony to his ability and conscientiousness as a public servant, and his sterling worth and unassuming modesty of character were known to all. The City Council gratefully recognizes the long and varied services rendered to the city and to the public in many capacities by Mr. Lincoln, and appreciates the fact that this service continued even up to the time of his death.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of Mr. Lincoln, and that a committee of four members of the Board of Aldermen, with such as the Common Council may join, be appointed to represent the city at his funeral.

The following orders were passed by both branches of the City Council:

Ordered, That City Hall be closed during the time set apart for the funeral of the late Hon. Frederic W. Lincoln.

Ordered, That the City Messenger be requested to cause the flag on City Hall to be placed at half-mast until after the funeral of the late Hon. Frederic W. Lincoln.

Ordered, That any expense incurred in connection with the funeral of the late Hon. Frederic W. Lincoln be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed. Sent down.

The following-named gentlemen were appointed a committee to attend the funeral of ex-Mayor Lincoln:

Messrs. Lott, Conry, Presho and O'Toole, of the Board of Aldermen; and Messrs. Madden of Ward 5, Millar of Ward 1, Cuddy of Ward 8, Kasanof of Ward 9 and Howard of Ward 10.

The Street Department of the City of Boston invites proposals for building about 1,260 linear feet of sewer work in Oakridge street, and outlet in Morton street, Dorchester District, Boston, Mass., according to the office copy of the contract and plans, which may be seen at the office of the Superintendent of Streets, City Hall, Boston, Mass.

The bidder must use the form to be obtained at said office, furnish a bond satisfactory to said Superintendent for faithfully doing the work, and leave at said office, on or before 12 M. of Thursday, September 29, 1898, his bid and a certified check for $500, which is to be the property of the city if the contractor fails to carry out his proposal.

LETTER FROM MAYOR QUINCY TO MR. KEITH.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 14, 1898.

B. F. KEITH, Esq., Keith's Theatre, Boston.

MY DEAR SIR: I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your contribution of $1,000, to be applied at my discretion toward meeting the expenses of maintaining public baths, and to express my personal, as well as official, appreciation of your generous gift. It is particularly gratifying to me to learn that the liberal policy which has recently been adopted by the city in the provision of public baths has so strongly appealed to a private citizen as to lead to a voluntary offer of such substantial support.

While I regret that the city has apparently been placed, through the action of a minority of the members of one branch of the City Council, in the attitude of declining to make proper financial provision for the maintenance of bathing facilities which have proved of such widespread beneficence during the summer season, it is highly gratifying, both to the members of the Bath Commission and myself, to learn that individual citizens are ready to step into the breach. Your gift will be applied, by vote of the Bath Commission, to meet the expense of opening six baths on Sunday, September 18, and Sunday, September 25, and then toward the maintenance of indoor baths at the Cabot-street bath-house and the East Boston gymnasium.

In accordance with the discretion which you have allowed me to make some other public application of a portion of your contribution, if I did not deem it was all required at the present time for baths, I desire to say that I have concluded to give half of the sum to the Music Commission, to provide free indoor concerts during the coming fall and winter. I have been very glad to find in conversation with you that your views upon the practicability and importance of developing free popular music in this city are so much in sympathy with those which have been formed by the Music Commission and myself, and, as the appropriation for music is now practically exhausted, your gift will be of great use in enabling us to arrange for some indoor concerts.

Again expressing my thanks for your liberal recognition of, and for your sympathy with, the new policies which the city is endeavoring to carry out for the promotion of cleanliness, exercise and reasonable recreation, and consequently of the health and well-being of the masses of the people, I am

Yours very truly,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SALT-WATER FIRE SERVICE.

A test of the new system of salt-water supply for the Fire Department was made on Saturday, September 10, certain hydrants being supplied by Fire-boat No. 44, which was stationed at Central Wharf. From a hydrant near the Custom House a stream of water was derived that rose 150 feet into the air. The stream thrown from a hydrant in Post Office square attained a height greater than that of the New York Life Insurance Building.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL POLICE OFFICERS.

The Superintendent of Streets sent the following letter to the Mayor on August 25, 1898:

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: In explanation of the enclosed letter asking your approval of the appointment as special police officers of certain employees of the Street Department, the following statement as to the necessity for this action should be forwarded, together with application, to the Board of Police, who have the authority to make such appointments.

If the foremen of the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Divisions could act with some authority and power, I believe it would be possible to bring about a much better enforcement of the ordinance in regard to throwing paper and rubbish into the street.

The duties of the regular police seem to be such that they have not been able to give much assistance in this matter.

These foremen also, from the nature of their duties, are thoroughly posted as to the needs and conditions, and, following the work in their respective districts from day to day, they are in a position to know the source of the immense amount of waste and rubbish thrown in the streets, and could, I believe, very largely bring about the reform which has been sought and urged for so many years.

It is desirable that the drawtenders and their assistants in the Bridge Division be given police authority, so that matters can be properly controlled on the bridges. At the present time, it is not possible to prevent improper action on the part of vessels passing through and teams passing over the bridges.

In relation to the application of the Ferry Division, I would say that efforts have been made from time to time to secure the assignment of officers for police service on the boats; but, owing to the cost, the Board of Police have not been able to furnish these men.

If a certain number of gatemen and responsible employees of the Ferry Division were empowered to act as special officers, the objectionable conduct on the part of rowdies and drunkards, which sometimes occurs, particularly on the late boats, can be overcome. There are also times when it is very necessary that gatemen should have the support of police authority.

As this matter is important, allow me to suggest that you give it your early and personal attention.

Yours very respectfully,
BENJ. W. WELLS,
Superintendent of Streets.

In accordance with the above recommendation of the Superintendent of Streets, and the approval of the Mayor, the following-named employees of the Street Department have been sworn in as special police by the Board of Police:

AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL POLICE OFFICERS IN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. The Board of Police for the City of Boston may, subject to the provisions of Sections 13 to 20 inclusive of Chapter 103 of the Public Statutes, appoint railroad police, and may upon the written application of any officer or board in charge of a department of the City of Boston, approved by the Mayor of said city, appoint special police officers for such department.

Sect. 2. Said Board may, if it deems it expedient, on the application of any corporation or person that said Board may deem responsible, appoint special police officers to serve without pay from said city, and the corporation or person applying for an appointment under this section shall be liable for the official misconduct of the officer appointed on such application, as for the torts of any servant or agent in the employ of such corporation or person.

Sect. 5. This Act shall take effect upon its passage. [Approved April 2, 1898.]

DISPOSAL OF CITY REFUSE.

On September 10 a contract was made by the Superintendent of Streets, on behalf of the City of Boston, with the City Refuse Utilization Company of New York, through its legal representatives, for the disposal of all refuse collected by the city, excepting ashes, garbage and street sweepings. The contract is for ten years, the city having the right to purchase the plant at the end of five years. The company is to receive $5,500 per year for disposing of the refuse.

The contract for constructing a one-story building, of brick and iron, at Fort Hill wharf, having a frontage of about seventy-five feet on Atlantic avenue, with a depth of seventy-five feet on the water-front, has been awarded to Jones & Meehan. It is expected that the plant will be ready for use by December 1, 1898.

REPORT ON OUTDOOR CONCERTS.

Following is the report of the Superintendent of Public Buildings on the outdoor band concerts:

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: The success of the Boston Municipal Band and the outdoor concerts given this season under the direction of the Music Commission has been beyond the expectation of those interested.

Early in the season the Music Commission turned over to this Department the minor arrangements connected with the outdoor concerts.

During the season thirty-five regular concerts were given by the Municipal Band, one concert and parade June 17; three concerts on July 4, and a quartet concert on August 2. In addition to these concerts two other concerts were given by the Germania Band, one on Boston Common and the second at Franklin Park. The latter employed the services of nine musicians and largely took on the character of solo concerts.

So far as the number of spectators were concerned the general opinion of those who have managed similar concerts in the past is that never have such great audiences gathered outdoors in the City of Boston. In the matter of attendance I should judge that the most popular concerts of the season were given on Boston Common. Here during the season it is estimated that 192,100 spectators were present. There was no difficulty in properly handling these vast crowds. After the first Sunday only a comparatively few police officers were on duty and the employees of this Department had no difficulty in preserving order.

The greatest number of spectators on the Common gathered on July 4, when nearly 20,000 gathered to enjoy the music. The smallest gathering was 3,000 on a rainy July night, and notwithstanding the inclement weather the people remained to the end of the concert.

Nearly 5,000 chairs, by order of Your Honor, had been provided early in the season, and as far as possible these chairs were for the use of women and children. Tickets for the same were distributed to the wholesale and retail business houses, to church societies and charitable organizations, with the request that they should be delivered to women and children as far as possible. The request met with hearty response among those who received the tickets. Yet, either before or during the progress of the concert, whether provided with tickets or not, women and children have always been given the preference in the matter of seats.

The concerts at the Marine Park were very popular and rarely attracted less than 7,000 and frequently more than 10,000. A careful estimate of the number who enjoyed the outdoor concerts would be 330,000.

The outdoor concert season began on June 26 and closed September 11.

During the entire season not an accident occurred and not an arrest was made during the progress of the concerts, either at Boston Common, Marine Park or the other sections where concerts were given.

JOHN DROHAN,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

NEW LAW REGARDING SEWERAGE WORKS IN BOSTON.

Mr. Wells, Superintendent of Streets, has issued the following statement, through the press, in explanation of the new sewerage assessment law:

The general subject of the future development and maintenance of existing sewers in Boston has for some years past been a serious problem to the officials charged with this branch of the public work. In the early days, sewers were built by private individuals, with outlets into tide-water, without supervision or plan by the city. Later, all sewerage works were undertaken under the direction of the city, although private sewers were still allowed to be built, but entrance into the main public sewers was made under the supervision of the Sewer Division. As time went on, the immense amount of sewage poured into the harbor and docks created such a foul condition of things, that, in 1887, the Main Drainage System, now in operation, was devised and constructed, and gradually all house sewers in the city are being connected, so that the sewage is all carried to sea, either through the Moon Island System under the direction of the city, or the Deer Island System under the care of the Metropolitan Sewerage Commissioners.

The general direction of the development of sewerage systems in this city in past years has been without much regard to the relation which each bears to the others, and in many cases the demands of a growing territory were not properly foreseen. In the outlying or suburban sections of the city, the surface water had been cared for through the natural channels and water-courses. No provision being made at that time for the carrying of this surface water in the sewers, the sewers were built, and adapted in size, for house drainage only; and with the growth of the territory in many cases have become overburdened even without the addition of storm water. In the building up of these sections, these water-courses were fast becoming obstructed or obliterated; and thus the problem how to care for the surface water of very large areas was forced upon the Department for some immediate action.

Prior to the passage of the new act—which this statement is but an introduction to and explanation of—the Sewer Division of the Street Department was allotted a sum for maintenance and construction which made the relief called for impossible, the amount of money available being so limited. It was necessary, in order to construct any large sewerage work, to obtain through the City Council a special loan out of the regular borrowing capacity of the city. This, except to a very limited extent, it was impossible to obtain, so that conditions most dangerous to the public health and comfort, which had existed for years, remained without remedy.

The necessity for adequate and proper sewerage works is so self-evident that I believe the citizens, who are called upon to pay the assessment, if they give the matter proper thought and study, will recognize the value of the new law.

For instance, the Main Drainage Works, which are to the whole system of sewerage in the city what the heart is to the body, were found on the incoming of Mayor Quincy to be in a most deplorable condition. The pumps, running day and night for many years, had received little or no attention, and no repairs were possible, for the reason that the City Council could not appropriate sufficient moneys for the purpose. The capacity of the pumping plant was nearly reached; and so also at Moon Island the sewerage basins were already overtaxed. Thus the care and disposal of the city sewage as it increased was a most serious proposition.

The entire plant has now received a thorough overhauling, engines, pumps, boilers and the building itself. A new 70,000,000 gallon pump is being designed, and additional reservoirs at Moon Island being constructed; so that the danger which has threatened the sewerage system of the city for some years is averted and the problem solved.

The most pressing piece of work which was taken in hand under the possibilities of the new act was the Canal-street relief sewer, which is the main sewer for the older and settled section of the city, which for years had been in such condition that the health of the entire district was endangered, and for over twelve years had in each annual report of the Sewer Division been referred to, and an appropriation for the rebuilding sought. The overflows at Kemp street, Shamrock street and Mt. Vernon street were in such condition that whole districts were flooded, and sewage backed up in time of storm.

The Harrison-avenue district and the South Cove district needed immediate attention. Rosemont-street relief sewer was also a pressing need. Connections with the Metropolitan System in Charlestown and East Boston were urgent for the reason that the shores and docks of these sections, which under the old system of outlet sewers were in a terrible state of foulness, were each year becoming worse.

The development of the surface drains and brooks in the outlying districts, such as Tenean brook, Canterbury branch of Stony brook, Lauriat-avenue district, Oakland Garden district, Goldsmith brook and Shepard-street brook were pieces of construction which under the old law it was impossible to undertake, although immense areas were suffering and calling for relief. As a result of all these conditions, and to solve the problem which was forced upon the Department, a careful and extensive study was made of the sewerage systems of other cities in this country and abroad, and of their method of providing sufficient funds for the proper conduct of the work. The assessment system has been in operation in some of the larger foreign cities for many years past, and to some extent in cities of this country.

As a result of this study, what afterwards became Chapter 426 of the Acts of 1897 was formulated, introduced into the Legislature and referred to the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, who, after careful consideration and hearings, reported favorably, and the act was passed.

This act in substance provides that the City Council of the City of Boston shall annually appropriate sums not exceeding $1,000,000 in any one year for constructing sewerage works in the city, and shall also appropriate, to be met by annual charges, such sums as the Mayor of said city shall deem sufficient for maintaining and operating the sewerage works. All sewers, drains, pumping stations and other works for the collection or disposal of sewage or surface or ground water in said city shall be included in the term sewerage work as used in the act. It further provides that the Board of Street Commissioners, with the approval of the Mayor, shall order the construction of sewers or drains; that streams or water-courses within the limits of said city may be filled up or diverted, widened, deepened, paved or covered by the order of said Board. Said Board is authorized to make takings for sewers, water-courses, etc. The Superintendent of Streets or such other officer as the Mayor of said city shall from time to time direct shall carry out such orders. The Treasurer of said city, to meet the expenses incurred in constructing any sewerage works, shall from time to time and on the request of the Board of Street Commissioners, issue bonds. The Board of Street Commissioners, with the approval of the Mayor, are empowered to annually determine just and equitable sewerage charges to be paid by estates of said city for the construction, maintenance and operation of the sewerage works, as caused by said estate, the amount of use thereof, if any, by the estate or its occupants, and the benefit received therefrom by the estate.

Early in the year, the Board of Street Commissioners authorized the Superintendent of Streets to submit to them a study and plan of making assessments under the act, and the subject was taken in hand by the Sewer Division of the Street Department. A special force of department engineers and expert assistants with a sufficient clerical corps prepared in detail the plans and figures, which were later submitted to the Board of Street Commissioners, and accepted by them, with the approval of His Honor the Mayor, and of the city Law Department.

The preparation of the plans and figures involved an immense amount of detail work. Much information, however, which is of value, aside from its relation to the sewerage charges, was collected and compiled. The areas, frontages and valuations of every estate in the city, and more complete data as to the sewer and water connections than had before been on record, were obtained. Now that the plan has been worked out and books of record opened, the labor of compilation for future years will be very much less. After delivering to the Board of Street Commissioners the figures and plans for the present assessment, the Street Department has no further connection with the work of assessment, as this will be handled for the future entirely by the Board of Street Commissioners. The Street Department, however, in connection with the Board of Street Commissioners' work, has detailed an engineering force to prepare plans and obtain working data necessary for assessments.

The system of assessments put into operation, covering the expenditure of the past year, is as follows:

The assessment was divided into two parts:

First, maintenance and operation; second, construction.

For the first part, the maintenance and operation, the City Council allowed $350,000. One-quarter of that amount is assessed on all the estates of the City of Boston on the basis of land valuations, for the reason that all the estates in the city derive some benefit from sewerage works, through the maintenance of sewers, water-courses and catch-basins which care for the surface water from the streets, and also for the benefits they receive from the use of public buildings, which are exempt from assessment. The remaining three-quarters is based on the water-tax, and in this city it has been found that the proportion which this assessment bears to the water-tax is about one to five.

There are something over thirty classes of water-takers, and allowance is made in each special class for such amount of water as is not returned to the sewers. The proceeds of this assessment are used for the care and maintenance of all the sewerage works.

Class 2, construction, is divided into three classes:

The first class is composed of main drainage, main channels, and other large works of which the whole city derives a part of the benefits. This is assessed on all the estates according to their land valuations.

The second class of sewers, which are designated as district sewers or sub-mains, are assessed on district areas, the engineering force of the Sewer Division having divided the entire city into distinct drainage areas; and for the purpose of sewerage works each district is carried in a separate account.

Third—Lateral sewers, which are assessed on frontages to the amount of $1.25 for each assessable foot, any cost in excess of this amount being charged on the district area; and, in case of any sewer costing less than $1.25 per foot, the area is credited with the difference.

The assessment for construction is the amount of the sinking-fund charges and interest on thirty-year bonds.

This, in a general way, explains the method of determining the sewerage charges. It may be that in practice the plan as adopted may not be perfect in all its details, and some changes may be necessary in future assessments. The assessment, however, is determined by the Board of Street Commissioners each year, so that any defect in the present plan can be corrected, and but slight hardship entailed by any assessment of the past year.

As stated above, owing to the inability of the city under the old sewerage law to provide the necessary moneys to properly care for and extend its sewerage system, many large and difficult problems must be met and taken care of at the outset. In a few years, however, these larger works of construction will have been accomplished, the city provided with a perfect and comprehensive system of sewerage works, and the annual charges be greatly decreased.

An increase in the tax rate would in no way cover the field of work which this sewer act provides for. The sewer tax is directly proportioned to the benefits received, and falls upon those who receive such benefit. An increase in the tax rate falls on every tax-payer, whether the direct gainer by the disbursement of the moneys assessed or not.

Respectfully referred to the School Committee, by direction of His Honor the Mayor, for report.

THOMAS A. MULLEN, Secretary.

Referred to the Committee on Rules and Regulations.

The Superintendent of Schools presented the resignations of nine teachers. The appointments, recommended by the Superintendent, of eleven special assistants, seven temporary teachers, were laid over under the rules, as were the appointments, on probation, of twenty teachers. The confirmations, recommended by the Superintendent, of seven teachers in high schools, and of twenty-eight teachers in other schools, were laid over under the rules. The appointments of two masters and three principals of evening drawing schools, submitted for approval by the Superintendent, were laid over under the rules. On the same officer's recommendation, leave of absence was granted to fifteen teachers. Under suspension of the rules, the appointments of one temporary teacher and one teacher on probation were confirmed.

Mr. Strange, for the Committee on School-houses, reported that on July 19, the Board approved the expenditure of $2,000 for improvements in the sanitariums of the Dudley School-house, and of $4,250 for improvements in the sanitariums of the Charles Sumner School-house. The cost of making these improvements will somewhat exceed the sums named, and your committee now recommend that the Board approve additional amounts, as follows:

Dudley School-house: Improvements in sanitariums, additional, $400.

Charles Sumner School-house: Improvements in sanitariums, additional, $750.

Accepted, and the recommendation of the committee adopted.

On recommendation of Mr. Strange, for the same committee, it was Ordered, That the Committee on School-houses be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute a contract with D. A. Horgan & Co., in the sum of $2,335 for making improvements in the sanitariums of the Dudley School-house, said Horgan & Co. being the lowest bidders.

Mr. Eaton, for the Committee on New Buildings, reported that under authority granted by the Board, May 10, they have advertised for and received proposals for the construction of the new East Boston High School-house. The plans and specifications for this building were approved by the Board with the understanding that its cost should not exceed $200,000, and as all the bids received were in excess of this amount, they were necessarily rejected. Subsequently, at the meeting of July 19, an order was introduced in the Board that this restriction be removed, which was referred to your committee for consideration. Since then the plans and specifications have been very carefully gone over, and certain changes made therein which will considerably reduce the cost of the building without impairment of its appearance or efficiency, and a proposal obtained from Mead, Mason & Co., the second lowest bidders, to undertake the general contract for the sum of $203,006, a reduction of $23,944 from their original bid. Your committee now estimate the entire cost of the building, including architect's commission, at $245,000, and recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute a contract with Mead, Mason & Co., in the sum of $203,006 for constructing the East Boston High School-house, said Mead, Mason & Co., being the second lowest bidders.

The order, after considerable debate, was rejected — Yeas, 8 ; nays, 8.

On motion of Mr. Eaton, for the Committee on New Buildings, it was ordered:

(1.) That of the amount granted to the School Committee under Chapter 408 of the Acts of 1895, as amended by Chapter 442 of the Acts of 1897, the following appropriation be made:

Old Gibson School-house yard, grading, $500.

(2.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute a contract with Thomas Minton, in the sum of $478, for grading and sodding around the two-room building in the yard of the old Gibson School.

(3.) That the vote passed by the Board, August 19, that the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute a contract with W. H. Keyes & Co., in the sum of $18,437, for grading the yard of the West Roxbury High School, said W. H. Keyes & Co. being the lowest bidders, be, and the same hereby is, rescinded.

(4.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute a contract with Mack & Moore, in the sum of $22,575, for grading the yard of the West Roxbury High School, said Mack & Moore being the second lowest bidders.

On the recommendation of Mr. Gallivan, for the Committee on Accounts, it was ordered that the instructors employed for September, 1898, be paid according to the schedule of salaries for 1897-98, as supplemented by any subsequent action of the School Board; it being understood that when the schedule for 1898-99 is passed such additions to or deductions from the salaries as may be necessary to conform to the new schedule, will be made in the salary due for October, 1898.

Mr. Gallivan, for the Committee on High Schools, offered the following:

Ordered, That the appointment of junior master in the Girls' High School be authorized.

Passed.

The Superintendent nominated T. H. H. Knight for the position.

Accepted, and the order passed.

Mr. Davison, for the Committee on Supplies, reported that, in their opinion, the price charged for Robinson's Short History of Greece (lately adopted as a text-book in the Latin Schools) is excessive. In consequence thereof the committee beg leave to present the following order:

Ordered, That the text-books used last year in the study of Greek history in the Latin Schools be continued for the present year.

Passed.

Mr. Eaton, for the Committee on New Buildings, reported that in order to bring the cost of the Baker-street Primary School-house within the appropriation of $30,000, your committee have made certain slight changes in the specifications, and have obtained a reduction of $1,098 from the lowest bid on the general contract. They recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute contracts in connection with the new primary school-house, Baker street, West Roxbury, as follows:

Building, G. M. Pratt	$24,830
Plumbing, Pierce & Cox	1,597
Heating and ventilating, Huey Brothers,	1,927

The said G. M. Pratt, Pierce & Cox and Huey Brothers being the lowest bidders.

Accepted, and the order passed, under a suspension of the rules.

On the recommendation of the same committee, it was ordered:

(1.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute contracts in connection with the new primary school-house, Thomas N. Hart district, as follows:

Building, Walter S. Sampson & Son	$36,600
Plumbing, Isaac N. Tucker	2,397
Heating and ventilating, the Fuller & Warren Warming and Ventilating Company	2,888

The said Walter S. Sampson & Son, Isaac N. Tucker and the Fuller & Warren Warming and Ventilating Company being the lowest bidders.

(2.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute an addition to the contract of John J. Flynn, for the construction of an addition of two rooms to the Bowditch School-house, in the sum of $198, on account of extra labor occasioned by unavoidable delay in obtaining face brick specified.

On motion of Mr. Hubbard it was ordered:

That the Committee on Truant Officers be authorized to report in print.

On motion of Mr. Paul, for the Committee on Evening Schools, it was ordered:

(1.) That Frank E. Barnard be appointed clerk of the Evening High School at a salary of four dollars ($4) per evening, to date from September 26, 1898, said salary to be in full for all services required of him by the Committee on Evening Schools and the Committee on Supplies.

(2.) That the Committee on Evening Schools be authorized to employ such additional assistance in the physical and chemical laboratory of the Evening High School as may be needed, at an expense not exceeding two dollars ($2) per evening.

On motion of Mr. McDonald, for the Committee on the First Division, it was Ordered, That Enos C. Leaverton, having been approved by the Superintendent, be appointed special teacher of the school on Spectacle Island, on probation, from September 6, 1898, and that his salary be at the rate of $400 per year, payable quarterly, said sum to be in full for all expenses connected with the school, except for books.

The Committee on Salaries reported as follows:

IN SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

September 13, 1898.

The Committee on Salaries, to whom was recommended, July 19, the whole matter of establishing a schedule of salaries for the year ending August 31, 1899, report that in the meeting of June 30 they submitted, at accordance with the Rules, their annual report, which was accepted and the orders appended thereto laid on the table. At the meeting of July 19, the orders were taken up for consideration at the instance of your committee, and the Board placed itself on record as in favor of continuing the present schedule of salaries for the ensuing year by a vote of 11 to 7. Subsequently, at the same meeting, the whole matter, as hereinbefore stated, was recommitted to your committee, who were confronted with the following situation:

First, the certainty of a deficit under the limitations of Chapter 400 of the Acts of 1898. This deficit was anticipated by the Board when at the meeting of March 22 a protest was entered against the passage of any bill that would prevent the School Committee from carrying out their agreement with the instructors in the public schools, as expressed in the schedule of salaries adopted in the summer of 1896. At the same meeting the Committee on Accounts reported that "no less than $2.80 on a thousand of the average assessed valuation of the city for the past five years will be needed to meet the net running expenses of the schools for the present financial year, $2.90 for the financial year 1899-1900, after which $3.00 at least will be required for subsequent years." The Legislature, however, saw fit to fix the limit of expenditure for the financial year ending January 31, 1899, at $2.80, for the following year at $2.85, and for subsequent years at $2.90, thus reducing the estimated amount necessary for the proper support of the public schools about $50,000 for the year ending January 31, 1899, and about $100,000 for the following year. The first section of the act referred to provides that "Any vote or appropriation requiring larger assessment than as above specified shall be void and said School Committee shall have no authority to incur any liability or make any expenditure in excess of such appropriation, anything in any statute to the contrary notwithstanding." In this connection it may be interesting, though hardly necessary, to quote the opinion of the Corporation Counsel as rendered in response to an inquiry, as follows: "Any member voting for an expenditure exceeding this appropriation renders himself personally liable therefor."

Second, from the action of the Board at its last two meetings, it is evident that a majority of the members are opposed to the reductions recommended in the report of this committee submitted on June 30. It is also evident that a majority is opposed to any change in the present schedule, believing that, notwithstanding certain inequalities and apparent injustices, it is manifestly unwise to undertake the making of a new schedule at the present time. A still greater objection to a general change of salaries this year arises from the fact that unless relief is secured at the next session of the Legislature, a deficit of approximately $100,000 for the financial year ending January 31, 1900, will probably render necessary the adoption of a new schedule of salaries.

At the meeting of July 26, a report was submitted by the Committee on Accounts showing that the estimated expenses of the committee for the year ending August 31, 1899, will exceed the available appropriation by the sum of $30,304.

To meet this emergency your committee recommend the discontinuance of compensation to training teachers, which amounts to about $4,500 per annum, and that the salary of every person (Superintendent, Supervisors, Secretary, Auditing Clerk, Instructors, Janitors, etc.) in the employ of the School Committee be reduced 10 per cent. from the amount due them for the month of August, 1899, with the exception of those whose salary for said month will be less than $60. In computing the proposed reduction no account is to be taken of any fraction of $10.

The saving thereby effected would amount to $15,500, to which should be added the $4,500 for the compensation of training teachers, making a total of $20,000.

If no additional kindergartens or manual training schools are established during the ensuing year, a further saving of about $3,000 will result, making a total of $23,000, leaving $7,304 to be saved in other directions, which your committee are assured can be done. Your committee believe that this assessment, which does not in any way change the present schedule, is absolutely fair, and does not touch instructors receiving small salaries, will be borne cheerfully by everyone concerned. Furthermore, should the Legislature at its next session afford the relief that is anticipated, or should the required saving be effected in other directions, the amount deducted from the salary of each individual for the month of August, 1899, can be added to his or her salary for the month of September, 1899, and in recommending such action, if it be found possible, to the following Board, your committee are convinced that the moral obligation thereby imposed will be cheerfully and readily recognized.

Your committee also recommend that the scale of salaries for teachers of sewing be rearranged to correspond with the maximum salary to be paid assistants in the grammar and primary schools during the ensuing year; and that the salary of the Assistant Principal in the Roxbury High School be somewhat increased, both of the recommendations being repeated from their report submitted June 30, and that the salaries of all other instructors continue in accordance with the schedule adopted in September, 1897.

Your committee recommend the passage of the following orders:

(1.) Ordered, That the salaries of instructors of the public schools be fixed for the year ending August 31, 1899, as contained in the following schedule, subject to a deduction of 10 per cent. for the month of August, 1899, as specified in Order 7:

EVENING SCHOOLS IN LONDON.

The evening schools maintained by the London School Board are known as evening continuation schools. This year, for the first time, no fees will be charged to pupils in attendance. Over £1,000 have been spent in advertising the following announcement:

School Board for London. Evening Continuation Schools. The new session opens on Monday, September 12.

In 303 schools instruction will be given in commercial, domestic, scientific, manual, literary and general subjects. There will be five special schools for science and art, three for commercial subjects, thirty-four centres for gymnastics, and twenty-one special classes in English Literature. No fees will be charged. Full particulars can be obtained from the school-keepers of any of the Board's schools.

Apart from the subjects of instruction, social gatherings, entertainments and lectures for the students and their friends are to be held in connection with many of the schools. Clubs have also been formed for football, swimming, chess and checkers. The school libraries are also open for the free use of students, and in some cases periodicals are provided by voluntary donations.

Messages from the Mayor.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL.

A special meeting of the City Council was held at 12 M., on Thursday, September 15, 1898, in pursuance to the call of His Honor the Mayor. (See page 533, THE CITY RECORD.)

The following message was received:

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 15, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

It becomes my duty to announce to you the death of Honorable Frederic W. Lincoln, an ex-Mayor of this city, at the advanced age of eighty-one years. Appropriate action will doubtless be taken by your bodies to express your sense of the loss sustained by the death of a man whose public services to the city, as chief magistrate and in other capacities, and whose private character, fully justified the respect in which he had been long held by his fellow-citizens.

Besides four years service in the State Legislature, as a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1853, and as Chairman of the State Board of Harbor Commissioners, Mr. Lincoln held the office of Mayor of Boston for a longer period than any other incumbent, having served for three years, from 1858 to 1860, inclusive, and again for four years, from 1863 to 1866, inclusive. No citizen of Boston has enjoyed a higher honor than that of being a second time called to serve as the head of the city to meet the various problems and difficulties with which the city was confronted during the Civil War. To Mr. Lincoln must be accorded the great credit of first securing during his term of office the co-operation of the United States authorities in the preservation and improvement of Boston Harbor, and he enjoyed the satisfaction of living to see the work which he had initiated again greatly extended within the last few years, and of witnessing the enormous growth of the commerce entering and leaving the harbor which he had the foresight to anticipate.

Mr. Lincoln was still in the official service of the city at the time of his death, having served since 1878 as the Treasurer of the Board of Overseers of the Poor, of which Board he had been the Chairman for the eleven years preceding.

The long and useful career of Mr. Lincoln may well serve as an example and inspiration to all who are engaged at the present time in the service of the city.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Sent down.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

A regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, at 3 P.M., Tuesday, September 27, 1898, Chairman Conry presiding. Absent—Aldermen Dyar and Norton.

Appointments by the Mayor.

Communications were received from His Honor Mayor Quincy, making the following appointments, subject to confirmation by the Board:

(1.) Nathaniel J. Rust and Ubert K. Pettengill, to be members of the Board of Commissioners of Sinking-Funds, for the term ending April 30, 1901.

(2.) John J. Sullivan, to be a Constable of the City of Boston, for the term ending April 30, 1899.

(3.) Walter Bryant, Hollis O. Thomas, and Frederick T. Wort, to be Weighers of Coal, for the term ending April 30, 1899.

Severally laid over, under the law.

Funds for School Repairs.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 27, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Committee on School-houses of the School Committee which will explain itself. The fact that a deficiency of something over $120,000 was incurred in the appropriation for repairs on school-buildings for the financial year 1897-98, was most unfortunate, and now gives rise to serious embarrassment. I provided for about $50,000 of this deficit by transfer at the close of the last financial year, and in the state of the finances of the city, I am reluctant to see any of the borrowing capacity of the city applied for school purposes; but after fully considering the situation in which the School Committee of this year finds itself and the very important and pressing character of the repairs needed, many of them being ordered by the Board of Health, I feel obliged to recognize the urgent character of the demand of the Committee on School-houses, and to earnestly recommend the passage of the accompanying loan order to make provision for meeting it.

Respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Mason Street, July 14, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: The Committee on School-houses beg leave to say that the amount available for the repairs of school-houses for the current year, under Chapter 400 of the Acts of 1898, amounts to $237,909. Of this amount about $38,000 was expended before the passage of the act, for indebtedness incurred for repairs made during the financial year ending January 31, 1898. The balance remaining is no larger than is absolutely necessary for keeping the school-houses in habitable condition during the remainder of the current financial year, and is insufficient to provide for those changes and improvements in the sanitation and ventilation of various school-buildings, the defective condition of which demands immediate attention.

The Committee on School-houses therefore request that the City Council provide for the payment of outstanding bills for repairs made during the past financial year, and amounting to about $40,000.

By order of the Committee on School-houses,

THORNTON D. APOLLONIO, Secretary.

Ordered, That the sum of $36,000 be appropriated, to be expended by the Public Buildings Department for alterations and improvements upon school-buildings of a permanent character; and that to meet the appropriation aforesaid the City Treasurer be authorized, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, to issue bonds of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

Use of Voting Machines Authorized.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 27, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Board of Election Commissioners, enclosing a copy of the certificate given by the Secretary, Treasurer and Auditor of the Commonwealth, and I recommend the passage of the accompanying order authorizing the Board of Election Commissioners to lease or purchase not more than four of the United States Voting Machines for trial at the State or municipal election, as suggested by said Board.

I have long believed in the great desirability of having all voting done by machine, if an apparatus could be secured which would answer all of the many difficult requirements, and while the practical success of any machine can only be determined after full trial, I have no hesitation, after having examined the machine in question with the Board of Election Commissioners, in view of the approval given to it by the above named State officials under the statute, in recommending that an opportunity be afforded for its trial in this city.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS.

Old Court House, September 19, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: The power to determine upon the question of adopting voting and counting machines in this city having been vested by the Legislature in this Board, by the provisions of Section 268, Chapter 548, of the Acts of 1898, we desire to inform your Honor that we have examined the voting and counting machine known as the United States Voting Machine, which has been approved by the State officials authorized by law so to do.

We are in receipt of a certificate of approval from the State Board, a copy of which is hereto annexed, and we concur in the opinion therein expressed, so far as the machine itself is concerned. But whether or not there is a public demand for voting machines, and if there is, whether under our laws as they now exist there are objections to this machine which we cannot now foresee, and which could only be discovered by a practical test, are questions which we do not care to pass upon; but in order to ascertain as far as practicable the sentiments of the public and the value of this machine on all of the questions involved, we would respectfully recommend that the voters be afforded an opportunity to give the said machine a practical test by its use in two voting precincts in this city at either the coming State or municipal elections.

Respectfully,

LINUS E. PEARSON, Chairman,
Board of Election Commissioners.

State House, August 19, 1898.

The undersigned, having examined the United States Voting Machine, in accordance with the provisions of Section 267 of Chapter 548 of the Acts of 1898, hereby certify their approval of said machine, as, in their judgment, furnishing a convenient, simple and satisfactory means of voting and ascertaining the true result thereof with facility and accuracy, special regard being had to the preventing and detecting of double voting, and securing to the voter a degree of secrecy in voting equal to that afforded by the use of the official ballot as provided by law.

Whether the use of more than one machine at each polling-place will be necessitated by the requirements of the Massachusetts Election Law that a voter shall vote separately, and not collectively, for the candidates of his choice, is a matter of doubt which can be determined only by experience.

(Signed)

WM. M. OLIN,

Jamaica Park, September 20, 1898.

The following is an abstract of the records of the meeting of the Board of Park Commissioners held September 20, 1898:

Voted, That the Superintendent be authorized to fill the swamp in the glade at Franklin Park, and to remove as many of the inferior willows as he may think necessary or desirable for its improvement.

Voted, That the Superintendent be authorized to grade and loam the gravel pits at Scarboro Hill, the park boundaries along Morton and Canterbury streets, Franklin Park, and the land adjoining Prince and Perkins streets, at an estimated cost of $12,000.

Voted, That the Superintendent be authorized to make working drawings, and advertise for bids, for a barn at Franklin Park at an estimated cost of $7,000.

The Chairman reported that he had twice during the summer called on Lieutenant-Colonel Mansfield regarding the restoration of Castle Island to public use as part of the park system, and a letter was addressed to the Secretary of War requesting information as to when Castle Island will be returned to the custody of the Board.

Voted, That the plan for proposed drainage of surface water into Muddy river at Brookline avenue, and extension of sewer to the Brookline line, this day received from the Street Department, be approved in its general form, in accordance with the agreement referred to in the vote of this Board of June 27, 1898, which limits the right of maintaining surface drainage into Muddy river to one year, and that the Secretary issue permits for doing the work in accordance with said plan, subject to such modification of line and location of manholes as the Superintendent may designate.

Voted, that the drive constructed along the west shore of Jamaica Pond, from Perkins to Prince streets, be named Francis Parkman road, in honor of the historian, whose dwelling and garden were at this place.

Voted, That the bids of W. A. Snow & Co. for erecting fences at Charlesbank and Copp's Hill Terraces, and of the Van Dorn Iron Works Company for erecting fence at North End Beach and fence and gates at Stony-brook Bridge, be accepted.

GEORGE F. CLARKE, Secretary.

28 Court Square, September 19, 1898.

The thirty-sixth regular meeting of the Pauper Institutions Trustees was held on Tuesday, September 6, at 11 A. M.

A letter from Mayor Quincy was read, expressing approval of the preparations for the reception of sick soldiers at the Long Island Hospital, where three wards, containing 101 beds, are ready for their reception.

Voted, That the Superintendent of Long Island be authorized to engage Miss Gragg, temporarily, in view of the extra assistance required, at a salary of $30 per month.

The Superintendent reported that he had heard from Dr. Bradford, of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association, that sick soldiers might be expected at Long Island at any time, to the number of about 100, and the Superintendent, in view of this fact, thinks it desirable to secure additional male nurses, and to raise the salary of those already employed. REPRESENTATION AT BRISTOL, ENGLAND.

The following letter has been received by His Honor the Mayor with regard to the recent visit of Hon. John W. Candler, as the representative of the City of Boston, on the occasion of the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science and the dedication of the Cabot Memorial:

BRITISH ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCE-MENT OF SCIENCE.

Bristol Meeting, September 7-14, 1898.

Bristol, September 22, 1898.

THE HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor, Boston,
U.S.A.

DEAR SIR: On behalf of the Local Executive Committee, I beg to return you many thanks for the honour you have done to us and to our city by sending Hon. John W. Candler as the representative of Boston.

Mr. Candler has quite won our hearts. His talent for business, his wide knowledge of affairs and his capacity for appreciating the main facts of a position have recommended him to our men of business, while his dignified bearing, his courtesy and his eloquence have endeared him to all classes of our community.

Mr. Candler leaves here with a full grasp of the situation; he knows the drift of opinion amongst our men of business here; he knows that Bristol is anxious to clasp hands with Boston, and to build up a trade which shall pass through the two ports, and increase in volume year by year to the benefit of both; he knows that our ambition here is to make the trade route between Bristol and Boston a well-beaten commercial track; he knows that we number men of enterprise amongst us, who are determined that Bristol shall secure all the advantages that her geographical position warrants, and he has told us that Boston, too, is in a similar position in this respect.

Under these circumstances, therefore, I sincerely hope that the visit of Mr. Candler to Bristol as the honoured representative of your great city may incite your citizens and ours to increased efforts to improve the business relations which exist between the two ports. I trust that Bristol may look more to Boston, and Boston may look more to Bristol, as being the ports which nature has fitted to be those through which a great volume of transatlantic trade may be conducted.

When Mr. Candler returns, you will have one to whom you may turn for advice founded on practical, personal experience of men and things on this side of the Atlantic, and on behalf of the business community here I again tender you our grateful thanks for the interest you have taken in our recent celebrations and for the choice of a representative who has been to us such a welcome guest.

I am

Very faithfully yours,

ARTHUR LEE.

MAYOR'S CIRCULAR.

The following circular to heads of departments was issued by His Honor the Mayor on October 1:

Circular No. 47.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.

TO THE HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS:

GENTLEMEN: You are hereby notified that Mr. Nathaniel G. Robinson has this day been appointed Mayor's Secretary.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS, NO. 2, OF THE DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS.

The Department of Municipal Statistics has issued the second number of a series of publications, analyzing the finances of the city. The entire series, when completed, will give a complete view of the income and expenditure of the city for the five years ending January 31, 1897.

For convenience and clearness of presentation the accounts of the city have been divided into four parts—(1) Ordinary Receipts and Expenditures; (2) Extraordinary Receipts and Expenditures; (3) Trust Funds; and (4) Book-keeping Items. Special Publication, No. 1, was an analysis of a portion of the first above-named account, namely, the ordinary expenditures of the city. Special Publication, No. 2, is a companion volume, and is an analysis of the ordinary receipts of the city for the same period.

The publication begins with a financial statement for the five fiscal years, 1892-1893 to 1896-97 inclusive, showing the division of the total receipts and expenditures of the city as between the four above-mentioned accounts. A series of five tables follows, summarizing the ordinary receipts of the city by fifteen principal items, namely: Taxes, liquor and other licenses, special assessments, judicial and other fees, fines, costs and forfeitures, services rendered, rents, labor and manufactures of inmates of institutions, sales of old material, sales of city property, interest, income of trust funds, overpayments refunded to the city, receipts from the State for soldiers' relief and miscellaneous receipts.

These tables show the gross income, the amount of such income refunded, and the net income by items. They also show what portion of the gross income was covered into the city treasury as a part of the general fund to be appropriated by the City Council and what portion was credited directly to department appropriations without yearly action by the Council.

The remainder of the work is devoted to a further analysis of each item of income. The receipts from taxation are treated in considerable detail in six tables. These tables show (1) the receipts from each tax for the five years; (2) the valuation of each class of taxable property and the number of polls assessed; (3) the amount of tax assessed upon each class of property; (4) the amount of each year's tax committed to the Collector and the amount collected, abated and uncollected; (5) the amount of the various warrants included in the tax for the year; and (6) the amount and percentage of collections of the tax levied upon the various classes of property. The other items of income are each treated in detail in such manner that each item may be checked by reference to the Auditor's Report of the corresponding year. The items included in each detail sheet will show the reader at once the significance of the totals which have been gathered together for each year in the summary tables described above.

THE TAX UPON VISITORS TO BOSTON INSANE IN STATE HOSPITALS.

Following is a paper on "The Tax upon Visitors to Boston Insane in State Hospitals," read at the Institution's Quarterly Conference, on September 30, 1898, by Philip Coombs Knapp, M.D., Secretary, Insane Hospital Trustees:

The course adopted by the City of Boston in caring for its insane, has for many years been the subject of criticism and condemnation by all who have been familiar with the subject. In 1839, a hospital was built at South Boston, the third in the State, to receive the city insane. In 1845, it was overcrowded and the next year some additions were made. This remained the only hospital for the city insane without further accommodations, until 1887, when the old institution for female paupers at Austin Farm was made over into a retreat for the quiet insane. In 1895 the old hospital at South Boston was finally abandoned and the patients transferred to the new hospital which had been built at Pierce Farm near Austin Farm. In the meantime, in 1892 and 1893 additional buildings had been erected at Austin Farm, so that when Pierce Farm was occupied the two institutions accommodated about five hundred patients.

The crowded condition of the South Boston Hospital, which began in 1845, led in 1865 to a movement for a new hospital. Land was taken at Winthrop and plans were drawn for a modern hospital to accommodate five hundred patients. This was defeated and subsequently the Danvers Hospital was built in 1878, especially to accommodate Boston patients. In 1857 the Boston Hospital by Act of the Legislature was forbidden to receive any State cases. In 1875 there were 198 of the city insane at South Boston, and 146 of the city insane in the State hospitals, who could not be accommodated at South Boston for lack of room. Inadequate as the provision was then, it has grown more inadequate as years go on, in spite of the additional accommodations of the hospital at Austin and Pierce farms. On the first of January, 1898 the Boston Insane Hospital had 519 inmates, about one-third of the city's insane. One thousand and eighteen insane persons belonging in the City of Boston were in the State hospitals, supported at the city's expense at a cost of about $180,000 a year.

These statistics are probably of little significance to the majority of people. If the insane be well-cared for what matters it whether they be cared for at Boston or Worcester or Danvers or Taunton? In fact, owing to the failure of the city government to make adequate appropriations for the Boston Insane Hospital it is probable that they have better accommodations and more comforts in the State hospitals than they do at Boston.

The objection, however, to this method of providing for the city's insane is that it involves an oppressive tax upon the people least able to bear it. The $180,000 appropriated for the support of the 1,018 people is distributed over the whole community. There is another tax, not entered in the treasurer's reports, which is unjust and falls only upon the poor.

The so-called pauper insane are usually not of the pauper class but they have been self-supporting up to the beginning of their sickness; in consequence of that sickness they have become dependent and must be supported by the State.

Those who recover usually return to work and cease to be a burden to the State. It is unjust; therefore, to class them with the paupers and criminals. During their sickness it is only natural that their relatives and friends should wish to visit them and that they should wish to receive such visits. Not only is such a desire natural and proper, it would be cruelty to prevent it. There are, of course, cases in which it is desirable for an insane person for a time to see no visitors, but such cases are the exception. The City of Boston, however, puts a burdensome and prohibitory tax upon this natural desire to visit a sick wife or husband, parent or child, brother or sister.

If wife or husband, parent or child, brother or sister be sick, it is certainly not unreasonable to desire to visit them once a month. Upon that basis what is the amount of the tax which the city exacts by sending its insane to the State hospitals? Of these 1,018 insane, 170 are provided for under special laws—the inebriates at Foxboro', the criminal insane at Bridgewater, the idiots at Waverly, and those boarded out in private families. Eight hundred and forty-eight are at the different State hospitals. If their relatives paid them one visit a month the cost in railway fares from Boston to these hospitals and back would be $14,705.28 a year. Furthermore, it would take fully half a day on the average to make the visit and return, which, if the visitor earns $1.50 a day, would incur a loss of $7,707, in the year—a total tax therefor of $22,412.28, the interest at four per cent. on $560,307.

Of course only a portion of this tax is paid. It falls chiefly upon the poorer classes, and it is so burdensome that it cannot be paid. The result is that it has a prohibitory effect, preventing the poor from visiting their sick relatives in the State hospitals. Many a time in the past year the Trustees of the Boston Insane Hospital have been urged to transfer a patient from some State hospital to the city institution, because the mother earning $3 a week, could never afford to visit her sick son, at an expense of one or two dollars and the loss of half a day's earnings; and many a time the Trustees, with the Boston Hospital overcrowded and realizing the impossibility of putting three persons in one bed, have been obliged to refuse.

The cruelty of this tax is obvious. The moral is equally plain. If this sum of $22,412.28 were added to the general tax levy it would add little to the general burden and it would pay the interest on a loan large enough to provide additional land and buildings at Austin and Pierce Farms to accommodate many of the insane now in the State hospitals. Fifty thousand dollars added to the tax levy would pay the interest on a loan sufficient to provide buildings to accommodate all the city's insane, while the money now appropriated to pay the board of these patients in the State hospitals, $180,000 a year, would more than provide for their maintenance in the city institution, and would leave a margin of profit toward the interest on the loan. The tax upon the poor, which they must either pay or neglect their sick, would be abolished, and the city would at last perform a long neglected duty.

NEW RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The new rules and regulations which were adopted June 30 by the School Committee (see THE CITY RECORD, page 347 and page 415), have been issued as School Document No. 11, 1898, under the title of Rules of the School Committee and Regulations of the Public Schools of the City of Boston. The publication contains 131 pages, viz.:

The document of 1898, as a whole, contains eight pages more than the similar document in 1897, the Index in the former being fuller than in the latter. The new rules and regulations are less voluminous than the old, the former being contained in 392 sections, covering sixty-five pages, while the latter are embraced in 348 sections in sixty-one pages.

The new rules and regulations do not go so far towards revolutionizing the organization of the School Committee as was originally proposed. (See article by Mr. A. Lawrence Lowell in THE CITY RECORD, page 136.) For instance, division committees have not been abolished, and a "School Faculty" has not been instituted.

Under the old rules there were fifteen standing committees of five members and four of three members each, in addition to eleven "committees in charge," consisting of five members each. Under committees in charge were included nine division committees, a committee on the Normal School and a committee on High Schools.

The new rules provide for only fourteen standing committees, each consisting of five members, as follows: On Accounts; Courses of Study and Text-Books; Hygiene and Physical Training; Legislative Matters;

Rules and Regulations; Salaries; School-Houses; New Buildings; Supplies; Evening Schools; High Schools; Normal School; Horace Mann School for the Deaf, and Truant Officers.

The committees whose names are printed in italics in the foregoing list are found in the old rules and regulations, as well as in the new. The old Committees on Drawing, Examinations, Kindergartens, Manual Training, Music, Nominations, Text-books and Elections have been discontinued.

As heretofore there are nine division committees of five members each, but they are no longer authorized to recommend the nomination or dismissal of teachers in their several districts.

The present functions of the Division Committees are set forth as follows in the new rules:

Section 52. The Division Committees shall visit the respective districts, schools, and classes to which their duties relate, and shall make written reports thereon to the Board in November, and may make reports at any other time.

Section 53. It shall be their duty to bring to the attention of the proper committee, the Superintendent, or other proper officer, all matters which, in their judgment, require criticism or suggestion.

Section 54. The committees in charge of the respective schools or districts affected may, by written permits, transfer pupils from one school or district to another.

The Committee on Courses of Study and Text-books is practically a new committee; that on New Buildings is absolutely a new committee on whom certain functions formerly belonging to the Committee on School-houses have been devolved. Their duties are set forth below.

Section 40. The Committee on Courses of Study and Text-books:

1. Shall take into careful consideration every proposition to change the courses of study, and no such proposition shall be acted upon by the Board until it has been referred to this committee and reported upon.

2. Shall see that no programme of a special study is put into use in any school until it has been considered by this committee and approved by the Board.

3. Shall pass upon every proposition for the introduction of a text-book; book of reference, globe, map or chart, before it is acted upon by the Board.

4. Shall make a printed report to the Board in April of each year.

Section 36. The Committee on New Buildings:

1. Shall, as herein provided, have general supervision over the construction of all new school buildings, and of additions to old buildings.

2. Shall consider the fitness of locations for school-houses, and after consultation with the Superintendent and the proper committee, submit to the Board such reports and recommendations relating thereto as they shall deem proper.

3. Shall advertise for school-house sites, receive proposals, and give public hearings with reference to the selection thereof, and perform the other duties prescribed in Section 1 of Chapter 202 of the Acts of 1897.

4. Shall nominate to the Board an architect or architects to design plans and supervise the construction of buildings to be erected, or upon which additions are to be made; but the services of the School-house Agent shall, so far as practicable, be availed of in such work.

5. Shall prepare plans for the erection of new school buildings, or for additions to old school buildings, and after such plans shall have been approved in writing by the Superintendent and the School-house Agent shall submit the same to the Board for its approval, together with careful estimates of the cost of the proposed new buildings and the additions to old buildings.

6. Shall consider, and report upon temporary accommodations for school purposes, and shall have authority in cases of immediate and pressing necessity, after consultation with the Superintendent and the appropriate committee, to provide such accommodations; all such contracts to be reported to the Board at its first meeting after the making of the same.

7. Except in case of pressing necessity for temporary accommodations the committee shall not make or authorize a contract of any kind until it has been approved by the Board.

8. Shall annually, in the month of December, after consultation with the School-house Agent, report to the Board in detail the expenditures made during the year for new school-house accommodations, with their opinion as to the condition and adequacy of existing school-house accommodations and recommendations as to future needs.

9. Shall report in writing upon all propositions for changes in district lines before they are acted upon by the Board.

Section 37. The Committee on School Houses:

1. Shall, as herein provided, have general supervision of the care, repair, furnishing, warming, cleaning, and ventilation of the several school-houses.

2. Shall not make or authorize any contract, except as provided in the following paragraph, for a sum exceeding $50, until it has been approved by the Board.

3. Shall, at the first meeting of the Board in June of each year, submit for approval separate estimates of such expenditures as this committee recommend to be made during July and August, and, after the approval of such estimates, may, during said months, authorize contracts and necessary changes therein, in accordance with such estimates, which contracts and changes shall be valid without submission to and approval by the Board; but, so far as practicable, contracts for all work to be done during July and August shall be submitted by this committee to the Board for approval before the adjournment for vacation.

4. Shall, subject to the approval of the Board, appoint and discharge the janitors of the several school-houses, and make such regulations as they deem necessary for their government, such rules to be printed and distributed to the principals of the schools and janitors.

5. Shall propose to the Committee on Salaries a scale for the compensation of janitors, which compensation shall be in full for all services rendered.

Section 38. Both the Committee on New Buildings and the Committee on School-houses:

1. Shall cause bids for all contracts, the estimated amount of which exceeds $500, to be solicited by advertisement in THE CITY RECORD, and at least two daily newspapers published in the City of Boston; such advertisement to state the time and place for opening the proposals in answer to said advertisement, and reserving in such advertisement the right of the committee to reject any or all proposals.

2. Shall require every such bid to be accompanied by a suitable bond, certified check or deposit of money for the faithful performance of such proposal, and shall keep all such proposals unopened until the time fixed in the notice for their opening, shall at such time open the proposals, and thereafter keep them and allow the public to inspect the same.

3. Shall not, after the execution thereof, alter any contract except by a writing signed by the School-house Agent, by the contractors, and by the sureties on the bonds, whenever their liability may be affected by such alteration; but no such alteration involving an additional expense of more than $100 shall be made until it has been approved by the Board.

4. Shall see that all contracts are faithfully performed and all penalties properly enforced for breaches of contract, unless the Board, on report of the committee, shall otherwise order.

5. Contracts shall in all cases be awarded to the lowest bidder, unless the Board shall, on report of the committee, for good cause shown, otherwise order.

Under the new rules, the Superintendent of Schools is given greatly enlarged powers, and charged with responsibilities formerly distributed among certain standing committees.

Section 57. A Superintendent of Schools shall be elected by ballot in the month of June, 1898, and biennially thereafter, who shall hold his office for the term of two years from the first day of September in the year of his election.

Section 58. The Superintendent shall be the executive officer of the School Board in all matters relating to instruction. He shall see that all regulations of the public schools and all orders of the School Committee concerning the supervision, instruction and management of the schools are executed. He may appoint such clerical assistants as shall be necessary, subject to the approval of the Board.

Section 59. He shall assign to each supervisor such duties as he thinks best, and he may delegate to any one or more of them any part of his authority, except such of it as relates to the appointment, transfer and removal of instructors and other officers, to the approval of plans, and to recommendations to the Board or other relations with it. Such delegated authority shall be exercised under the direction of the Superintendent, and he shall be personally responsible therefor. He shall have authority to make such arrangements, and give to the supervisors, directors, principals and instructors of special subjects such directions, not contrary to the regulations or orders of the Board, as in his judgment the welfare of the schools requires.

Section 60. He shall, after consultation with members of the Board of Supervisors, and subject to the approval of the Board, appoint, transfer and remove all directors, principals and other instructors, provided that in the case of subordinate instructors he shall also consult the principal of the school, if any, to which the action relates, and with the appropriate director if the action relates to his department.

He may appoint temporary teachers for a term not exceeding two months, such appointments to be reported to the Board at the meeting next following, but this period shall not be extended or renewed without the approval of the Board.

Section 61. He shall take into careful consideration every proposal to change the courses of study, and no such proposal shall be acted upon by the Board until it has been reported upon by him. No programme of a special study shall be put into use in any school until it has been considered by him and approved by the Board.

Section 62. He shall report upon all propositions for changes in the regulations before they are acted upon by the Board.

Section 63. He shall determine the forms of all registers, record-books, blanks, and cards used in the schools, and shall see that they are of uniform patterns. He shall make investigations as to the number and condition of the children of the city who are not attending the public schools, and shall endeavor to ascertain the reasons for such non-attendance, and to suggest and apply the remedies.

Section 64. Annually, in the month of March, he shall present to the Board, in print, a report, giving an account of the duties he has performed, together with such facts and suggestions relating to the condition of the schools, and the increase of their efficiency and usefulness, as he may deem advisable. He shall embrace in the report an abstract of the semi-annual returns of the public schools, and a schedule showing the number of teachers employed. He shall, in the month of September of each year, present, in print, an abstract of the semi-annual returns for the preceding half year.

Section 65. The Superintendent is authorized to dismiss the Grammar Schools one half-day in each term, and the Primary Schools two half-days in each term, for the purpose of advising teachers on the best method of instruction and discipline. He shall decide when there shall be but one session of the Grammar and Primary Schools on account of stormy weather.

Section 66. He shall render such aid and communicate such information to the various committees as they may require of him; and shall have a right to attend all committee meetings, and shall attend any meeting of a committee when requested to do so by the chairman thereof.

Section 67. He shall, except when the election or salary of Superintendent is under consideration, be present at all meetings of the Board, unless, by a three-fourths vote of the members present, the Board shall go into exclusive executive session. When present he shall have the same right as a member to take part in debate. He may propose to the Board or its committees, in writing, such action touching the schools as he may deem necessary.

Section 68. Any member of the Board may, in executive session, ask him any question relating to the administration of the schools.

Section 69. He shall consider and report upon such matters as may be referred to him to the Board or its committees; and he shall perform such other duties as the Board may require.

The new rules also provide for the appointment of a School-house Agent, a totally new officer, whose duties are prescribed as follows:

Section 103. The School-house Agent shall be the executive officer of the Board in all matters relating to the construction, furnishing, repair and maintenance of all school buildings and grounds. Before entering upon the performance of his duties he shall give a bond conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, payable to the City of Boston, in such penal sum as the Board may, on recommendation of the Committee on School-houses, determine.

Section 104. He shall have authority to order to be made, on his own responsibility, current minor repairs upon school-houses at an expense not exceeding in the aggregate a sum to be fixed from time to time by the Committee on School-houses, with the approval of the Board.

Section 105. He shall make a quarterly report of all needed repairs on school-houses, with an estimate of the cost thereof, and a monthly report of all his doings and expenditures, all of which shall be submitted to the full Board for its inspection.

Section 106. He shall certify to the correctness of all bills for expenses incurred for the construction, alteration, or repair of school-houses where an architect is not employed, and he shall have charge of all furniture and other school-house fittings in the possession of the Board.

Section 107. He shall be present at all meetings of the Committee on School-houses and of the Committee on New Buildings, and shall have a right to take part in the discussions.

Section 108. He may appoint such assistants as may be necessary, subject to the approval of the Board.

Section 109. He shall have the supervision of the janitors of the school-houses, and shall see that they carry out all regulations of the Board and directions of the Committee on School-houses, and shall report all cases of negligence or inefficiency to the Committee on School-houses. But nothing herein is to be construed as affecting or in any way impairing the responsibility of the principals of the schools for the control of janitors as provided in Section 198 of the regulations.

Section 110. He shall perform such other duties as the Board or the Committee on School-houses may from time to time prescribe.

The Metropolitan Park Commissioners have recently moved into new quarters in the Congregational House, fifth floor, 14 Beacon street.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held September 27 at Mason street at 7.30, with President Huggan in the chair, and all members present except Messrs. Bowdlear, Fleischer and Paul.

The following order, laid over under the rule at the last meeting, was passed:

Ordered, That the salary due Helena F. Leary, deceased, late primary assistant in the Washington-Allston District, be paid to her mother, Louisa Leary.

The Chair read the following:

(1.) IN COMMON COUNCIL.

IN COMMON COUNCIL.

September 15, 1898.

Referred to His Honor the Mayor.

TIMOTHY L. CONNOLLY, President.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.

THOMAS A. MULLEN, Secretary.

Referred to the Superintendent of Schools.

(2.) CHILDREN'S INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

32 Tremont Street, September 27, 1898.

TO THE HONORABLE SCHOOL COMMITTEE OF THE CITY OF BOSTON:

DEAR SIRS: The Trustees for Children who have charge of the Parental School of the City of Boston have voted that the teachers of the Parental School should be paid at the same rate as teachers of the Boston Public Schools of the same standing.

Mr. B. C. Day, who has had large experience in connection with schools and teachers, has been appointed Superintendent of the Parental School.

In view of these facts, the Trustees for Children respectfully ask your Board to consider the question of according to the teachers at the Parental School the same rights and privileges that accrue to teachers in the Boston Public Schools.

The Trustees find that the difficulty of obtaining first-rate teachers is partly dependent on the fact that time spent in a Parental School by teachers does not count to their advantage as time spent in Public Schools does.

The Trustees intend to provide teaching of a superior quality at the Parental School, and to do everything in their power to make it fulfil the demands of an ideal Truant School.

Respectfully your obedient servant,

CHARLES P. PUTNAM, Secretary.

Referred to the Committee on Salaries.

Old Court House, September 27, 1898.

THORNTON D. APOLLONIO, Esq., Secretary
School Committee.

DEAR SIR: The Board of Election Commissioners would respectfully request that they be allowed to place a voting booth occupying a space of about thirty by thirty in the yard of the Primary School, Adams street, Ward 24.

The lot connected with this school is very large and the space which we should occupy will be so small it could not possibly inconvenience the scholars, while it would be a great convenience to the Board, as we desire to place as many booths as possible in permanent locations. In this case, however, we should only expect the booth to remain until such time as the School Committee would need to use the lot for other purposes, when it would be immediately given up.

If you will kindly act upon this request at once it would be of great assistance to the Commission, as we are obliged to complete our locations at a very early date.

Respectfully,

Board of Election Commissioners,

L. E. PEARSON, Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on School-houses.

(4.) SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE.

September 23, 1898.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

I transmit herewith a communication addressed to me and asking for my co-operation in securing the erection in Paris of a monument to be dedicated to General LaFayette. As this communication embodies a request for the collection of money in the schools of the city, I submit it to you for your consideration.

Very respectfully,

EDWIN P. SEAVER,

Superintendent of Public Schools.

LAFAYETTE MEMORIAL COMMISSION.

Chicago, September 16, 1898.

PROFESSOR E. P. SEAVER, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIR: It is proposed to signalize the participation of the United States, in the Paris Exposition of 1900, by the erection in Paris, in the name of the youth of our land of a monument to the early friend and defender of our liberties, General LaFayette, the same to be unveiled and dedicated, July Fourth, United States Day, at the Exposition.

In this connection we send you herewith a prospectus of the proposed monument.

The idea of the erection of a monument to the patriot friend of Washington, by the children and youth of America, we believe will appeal not only to your pride as an American citizen, but to your patriotism as well. The plan of the Special Commission appointed by the Commissioner General, outlined in the prospectus, is largely a suggestion for guidance in the matter of your co-operation, so necessary to the success of the movement. It is desired where possible, to raise the fund for the monument by a general admission to school exercises, to be held universally on October 19, LaFayette Day, but where this is impracticable, particularly among the smaller children, the pupils should be asked to solicit from their parents or acquaintance contributions of from one to ten cents, to be donated to the fund from your school.

Your enthusiastic aid is so essential that the Commissioner cannot urge you too strongly to take the matter up in your community and in your school. Much depends upon your efforts, and we trust you will call to your aid such influences as the local conditions may suggest.

Very respectfully,

FERDINAND W. PECK,

Commissioner-General.

ROBERT J. THOMPSON,

Secretary LaFayette Memorial Commission.

Referred to the Committee on Rules and Regulations.

On motion of Mr. Lowell it was Ordered, That the Board authorize the employment of additional teachers in excess of the number or rank allowed under the rules, as presented by the Superintendent at the last meeting.

On motion of Mr. Lowell the appointments and confirmations presented at the last meeting were approved.

Resignations were accepted of six teachers.

The Superintendent presented the following appointments and confirmations for the approval of the Board, certified by him, as made in accordance with the rules and regulations:

(1.) Special assistants, ten; laid over, under the rule. (2.) Temporary teachers, fifteen; placed on file. (3.) On probation, nine teachers; laid over, under the rule. (4.) For confirmation, six teachers; laid over, under the rule. (5.) Transfer of one teacher; laid over, under the rule.

On the report of the Superintendent, leave of absence was granted to six teachers.

The Superintendent presented the following appointments, accompanied by written statements of the reasons for requesting a suspension of the regulations pertaining thereto: (1.) One special Assistant; laid over, under the rule. (2.) Seven temporary teachers; appointed under suspension of the rules. (3.) One teacher, on probation; laid over, under the rule.

On the recommendation of the Committee on School-houses, it was ordered:

(1.) That of the amount granted to the School Committee under Chapter 408 of the Acts of 1895, as amended by Chapter 442 of the Acts of 1897, the following appropriation be made:

Paul Revere School-house, furnishing, $7,000.

(2.) That permission be granted the Board of Election Commissioners to place a temporary voting booth in the yard of the Adams street Primary School, said booth to be removed at any time upon request of the Committee on School-houses.

On the recommendation of the Committee on New Buildings, it was ordered:

(1.) That the City Council be requested to transfer to the School Committee the Webb School-house on Porter street, East Boston, surrendered by the School Committee, April 14, 1896, the use of said building for school purposes again being required.

(2.) That the City Council be requested to transfer to the School Committee the Austin School-house on Paris street, East Boston, surrendered by the School Committee, February 12, 1895, the use of said building for school purposes again being required.

Mr. Eaton, for the same committee, reported that under authority granted by the Board, July 26, they have advertised for and received proposals for the construction of a new four-room primary school-house at Forest Hills. Finding that the cost of this building, on the basis of the bids received would exceed the appropriation by about $5,000, your committee felt obliged to reject all proposals for the main contract. Subsequently they have very carefully revised the specifications, and have obtained a proposal from G. A. Cahill, the lowest bidder, to undertake the general contract for the sum of $27,178, a reduction of $2,337 from his original bid. Your committee estimate the entire cost of the building, including architects' commission, at $32,430, which is in excess of the appropriation of $30,000. This building differs from the other primary school-houses lately placed under contract, in that the rooms are of grammar instead of primary size, as it is not improbable that it will ultimately become the grammar school of a new district. Your committee therefore recommend the passage of the following orders:

Ordered, That of the amount granted to the School Committee under Chapter 408 of the Acts of 1895, as amended by Chapter 442 of the Acts of 1897, the following appropriation be made:

New Primary School-house, Forest Hills, additional $2,500

Ordered, That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are authorized to execute contracts in connection with the new primary school-house, Forest Hills, as follows:

Building, G. A. Cahill $27,178
Plumbing, William N. McKenna . . . 1,550
Heating and ventilating, the Fuller &
Warren Warming and Ventilating
Company 2,158

On motion of Mr. Anderson, the report was recommitted; which vote was reconsidered later in the session on Mr. Eaton's motion — Yeas, 13; nays, 4.

The point of order was raised that the bids must be again called for on account of change in specifications, before the contract could be signed.

The Chair ruled the point well taken.

Mr. Coolidge appealed from the decision of the Chair.

By a vote of 4 to 10 the Board declined to sustain the Chair.

The orders were taken up separately and passed.

Mr. Huggan, who had resigned the chair to Mr. Lowell, moved that the board reconsider its vote to be found on page 456 of the minutes, whereby the board failed to authorize the Committee on New Buildings to execute a contract in the sum of $203,006 with Mead, Mason & Co., for constructing the East Boston High School-house.

Reconsideration was taken — Yeas, 13; nays, 7; and the committee was authorized to make a contract with Mead, Mason & Co., in the sum of $203,006, by a vote of yeas 15, nays 5.

On the recommendation of the Committee on High Schools it was ordered:

(1.) That the Board authorize the employment of a special teacher of phonography, book-keeping and typewriting in the Girls' High School, the salary of said instructor to be at the rate of $1,200 per annum.

(2.) That an additional assistant be allowed in the West Roxbury High School.

(3.) That a special teacher of phonography, typewriting and book-keeping be allowed in the Charlestown High School.

(4.) That a special teacher of phonography and typewriting be allowed in the Roxbury High School.

(5.) That a special teacher of phonography and typewriting be allowed in the East Boston High School.

(6.) That an additional assistant be allowed in the Charlestown High School.

Mr. Calderwood, for the same committee, to whom was referred, August 19, the appointment on probation of John Haynes, junior master in the Boys' Latin School, to date from September 6, 1898, reported that they have considered the matter and recommend that the appointment be approved.

Mr. Eaton for the Committee on New Buildings, offered the following:

Ordered, That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute contracts with the Fuller & Warren Warming and Ventilating Company, in connection with the extension of the heating and ventilating system at present installed in the Bowditch School-house, on account of the construction of a two-room addition to said building, as follows:

Necessary changes and extension of present system $310.

New apparatus to be installed in addition $425.

Passed, under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. Eaton, for the same committee, reported that on September 1, a hearing was granted by them on the request of a committee, representing the Building Trades' Council of Boston and vicinity, with regard to discriminating in favor of organized labor on school-house work. Subsequently at the request of your committee a definite statement in writing was submitted to them of the action desired by the petitioners, viz.: The insertion in all contracts of a clause providing that citizens of Boston, and Union men carrying a card of Building Trades' Council of Boston and vicinity be given preference in employment on such work, and that similar preference be exercised in favor of local bidders in the award of contracts. The committee were impressed by the arguments presented by the petitioners, but however fully they might be in sympathy with the efforts of organized labor to obtain just recognition in the distribution of public work, and the proposition that citizens of Boston and local bidders should be preferred in the award of contracts, where such preference does not prejudice the public interest, they feel that it is clearly not within their power to change the present form of contract upon their own responsibility, especially as the rules provide that all contracts shall be awarded to the lowest bidder, unless the Board shall, for good cause shown, otherwise order. They therefore report the matter to the Board for such action as may be deemed expedient.

Laid on the table.

On the recommendation of the Committee on the Eighth Division, it was Ordered, That the afternoon session of the schools in the Charles Sumner, Longfellow and Robert G. Shaw Districts shall begin at fifteen minutes before two o'clock and close at fifteen minutes before four o'clock throughout the school year.

On the recommendation of the Committee on Normal School, it was Ordered, That Larkin Dunton, Head Master of the Normal School, be granted a leave of absence, on half pay, from October 1, 1898, until August 31, 1899.

Mr. Hubbard, for the Committee on Truant Officers, reported that in consequence of the passage of Chapter 496 of the Acts of 1898, there is a question whether the truant officers who have been elected by the Board under the authority conferred by Chapter 498 of the Acts of 1894, can continue to act in that capacity without another election. They therefore nominate the following-named persons to serve as truant officers of the City of Boston, from September 1, 1898: George Murphy, Chief; George W. Bean, Henry H. Blackwell, James Bragdon, Frank Hasey, John T. Hathaway, A. M. Leavitt, James P. Leeds, David F. Long, John McCrillis, Amos Schaffer, William B. Shea, Warren J. Stokes, Daniel J. Sweeney, Charles E. Turner, Richard W. Walsh, John H. Westfall, Charles B. Wood and Charles S. Woodindale.

Accepted, and the nominations approved.

On the recommendation of the Committee on Salaries, it was Ordered, That the salaries of the truant officers be continued from September 1, 1898, at the same rate as heretofore, viz.: Chief truant officer, $1,800; truant officers, $1,300 per annum each, subject to a reduction of ten per cent. from the amount due for the month of August, 1899.

At 10.47 P.M. the Board adjourned.

APPOINTMENTS.

In accordance with the appointments made in July last, Mr. Thomas A. Mullen, formerly Private Secretary to His Honor Mayor Quincy, assumed the duties of Assistant City Solicitor on October 1, 1898, and Mr. Nathaniel G. Robinson, who has been Assistant Secretary, became Private Secretary on the above date. The new office of Corresponding Secretary will be filled by Mr. James A. McKibben.

Mr. Michael J. Dwyer, late Superintendent of the Marcella-street Home for Children, has been appointed Secretary of the Music Department of the City of Boston.

City Hospital Rules.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, September 29, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Trustees of the Boston City Hospital in reply to your order asking them "to so amend their rules as to empower the Superintendent of the City Hospital to honor the requests made by members of the City Council asking for admittance of relatives and friends to visit patients confined in the hospital."

Respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL.

September 26, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: The Trustees of the Boston City Hospital have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication, wherein you refer to them an order of the Common Council relative to the visiting of patients at the City Hospital, for such action as they deem proper.

The order passed by the Common Council is as follows:

Ordered, That His Honor the Mayor be requested to ask the Trustees of the City Hospital to so amend their rules, as to empower the Superintendent of the City Hospital to honor the requests made by members of the City Council, asking for admittance of relatives and friends to visit patients confined in the hospital.

The Trustees have given the request a careful consideration, and beg to offer the following reply:

They have long regarded the regulation of visitors to patients in the hospital as of great importance. It affects the welfare of the sick in the same way as the professional treatment, the giving of medicines, the nursing or rest and sleep; a neglect of the patients' well-being in this respect may absolutely neutralize otherwise beneficial treatment.

The present regulations regarding the visiting of patients provide that friends may be permitted to visit patients on week days, from 2 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon, but that no patient shall have more than two visitors on the same day. Relatives and friends of patients whose names are placed on the dangerous list are, however, permitted to visit them at other hours without special permission. The practice also exists of admitting visitors at other hours upon passes, which may be issued by any Trustee. This practice is supposed to be limited to relatives or near friends who are unable to visit in the regular hour and to cases of special necessity, and not exceeding two passes are to be given to visit the same patient in one day. The passes admit only between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 7 o'clock in the afternoon, "providing in the judgment of the Superintendent it will not be detrimental to the patient named or to the interests of the hospital."

The difficulty of making proper provision for the visiting of patients by their relatives and friends and at the same time of protecting the sick under their charge from the annoyance and dangers which would result from too much visiting, has been for a long time a subject of serious consideration by the Trustees. Requests for more liberal provisions for visiting, and earnest suggestions that more rigorous rules against visiting should be adopted, have alike from time to time been received.

Several months before the passage of the order of the City Council, the Trustees had instituted a special investigation of the subject for their own information and guidance. They requested from the members of the medical and surgical staff of the hospital, the house staff and the head nurses, answers to a series of questions as to the effect of visiting upon the patients and the work of the hospital. A summary of the reports received make up a document of thirty-two pages, and embrace the opinions of some of the ablest and best-known physicians and surgeons in the city, and of many persons of great experience in hospital management.

It was the almost unanimous opinion as expressed in these reports, that while a regular visiting hour afforded much pleasure and comfort to the patients as a whole, even then much harm was done in individual cases, of which instances in point were given. A large majority of the reports asserted that there was too much visiting outside of the regular visiting hour, and many suggested a further restriction of such visiting. The reports gave in much detail the effects produced by the visiting upon the patients and upon the nursing and care of the sick.

The size of the summary of these reports prevents its insertion here at length, but a few extracts from the reports are given, showing the effect of liberal visiting and the nature of the criticisms made:

A large number of visitors coming in even at regular visiting hours could not do otherwise than interfere with the nursing and care of the patients.—Dr. David W. Cheever.

There are a good many things done for patients in the way of personal attention which cannot be carried out with visitors in the wards. When a patient is critically ill, his strength is exhausted by seeing people with whom he wishes to communicate.—Dr. H. L. Burrell.

Patients weakened from any cause are often tired out and made worse by too much talking from friends and visitors.—Dr. G. W. Gay.

I think that a number of people sitting around the bed of a very sick patient is bad for all concerned, especially so, when in a small room difficult to ventilate at best.—Dr. V. Y. Bowditch.

An influx of visitors may interfere with the nursing and may be seriously disturbing to many very sick patients who are in need of sleep and rest.—Dr. A. L. Mason.

Large numbers of visitors cause disturbance and trouble in the wards and prevent other patients sleeping, and in several cases, patients have been almost exhausted after their visitors have left.—Dr. Arthur R. Perry.

Their sleep has been broken for the night, and the patient, tired out from too much talking, has been made nervous and exhausted.—Dr. Charles S. Knight.

The nurses prepare for the visiting hour, so that the nursing or care is not so seriously interfered with. Visitors allowed by special permission to visit patients outside of regular visiting hours, do interfere with the nursing and care of other patients, especially when the patient visited is in a room or ward containing two or more patients.—Miss Drown, Superintendent of Nurses.

Since there are certain things that cannot be done when a patient has visitors, their presence in the ward must interfere greatly with the work.—Miss Riddle, Matron South Department.

The regular visiting hour is something we expect, and therefore plan our work accordingly, but visitors coming outside of regular visiting hours do retard dressings, enemata, etc.—Miss Parker, Head Nurse.

The number of nurses on duty after six o'clock is usually smaller than during the day. If visitors are admitted to the wards after 6.30 P.M., it does greatly hinder the care and nursing of the patients.—Miss Worth, Head Nurse.

The Trustees also ascertained that for a series of months preceding the investigation, the daily average number of visitors to patients coming to the hospital at the regular visiting hour was 291, and that there were about 130 visitors each day at irregular hours, outside of the hour fixed for visiting. These made an approximate total of 154,000 visits to patients during the year.

The Trustees further investigated the practice that obtains in other hospitals, and found that in nearly all first-class hospitals in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other large cities which were generally more restricted than in the Boston City Hospital, no visiting was allowed outside of the regularly appointed hours, except a limited number of visitors permitted to patients dangerously ill. The practice of giving "passes" seemed not to exist in any other large general hospital, except one.

In the light of the information obtained from these investigations and in comparison with the practices existing in other great hospitals, the regulations of the Boston City Hospital seem liberal in respect to the admission of visitors.

The Trustees have been well aware of the satisfaction and relief which are given to the relatives and friends of patients by coming to them and seeing for themselves that the patients are well cared for, and of the great consolation and happiness which a patient often experiences by the sight and voice of a relative or friend at his bedside, and they have accordingly felt justified in their desire to afford every reasonable facility for such visits. They are at the same time, compelled to remember that the best possible care and treatment of the sick, with a view to their comfort and speedy recovery, must underlie every regulation made for their pleasure or for the satisfaction of their friends.

The Trustees recognize that for a large number of the relatives and friends of the patients the necessary regular hour for visiting is so inconvenient as to be almost impossible and that for pressing reasons exceptions must be made in certain cases, according to the condition or exigencies of the particular patient; but they are sure that the affection of a relative or the kindly interest of a friend should not be permitted to weigh against the permanent welfare or recovery of the patient.

Again, since patients are in a hospital congregated in wards, while visitors may not injure or interfere with the particular patient visited, their presence in the ward may and frequently does harm other patients who are in a sicker or more precarious condition. Their presence in wards likewise often interferes with the necessary examinations of physicians and the required attention of nurses. This is obviously the case when male visitors are present in women's wards, or women are visitors in male wards, and treatment and care which should be given at once must be delayed or be imperfectly accomplished. Patients admitted to a hospital where there are hundreds of other patients gain many real advantages over patients singly treated in private homes, but they are necessarily obliged to forego some of the comforts which the home life affords, but even in the private home the attending physician fully prescribes the nature and number of visits that the patient shall receive or altogether prohibits the visitor.

The order passed by the City Council requests the Trustees so to amend their rules as to empower the Superintendent to honor the requests of its members asking for admittance of relatives and friends to visit patients in the hospital, presumably at other than the regular visiting hour and at such times as the interest or convenience of the visitor may determine.

To honor all such requests for the admission of visitors would seem to suspend regulations for the treatment of patients in a matter requiring careful inquiry and great delicacy of judgment and involving the responsibility for the welfare of the sick, made after much consideration and experience and with the advice of those directly charged with the care of patients, and to place upon others, who cannot have an accurate knowledge of the condition of patients or hospital necessities, the responsibility which the laws and ordinances have imposed upon the Trustees and the officials appointed by them. Your Honor and the members of the City Council have so uniformly and zealously seconded the Trustees in their efforts to help in every way the sick who are entrusted to their care in the City Hospital, that the Trustees are now sure that they will see the wisdom of the adoption of careful precautions in the matter of visiting at the Hospital, and are likewise sure that they will expect the Trustees to exercise the responsibility imposed upon them to care for the sick sent to the Hospital according to their best judgment, and the advice and experience of the efficient staff who are charged with the direct treatment of patients.

The Trustees are confident that the members of the City Council will, upon further consideration, unite with them in believing that no change should be made in the regulations for visiting at the Hospital, which may tend to interfere with the attention due to patients or to impede or imperil their recovery. When patients are placed upon the dangerous list their friends will always be notified, and will be received at all hours, so far as is consistent with the condition of the patient; and inquiries at the office as to the condition of individual patients will always be readily answered.

For the Trustees,

Yours respectfully,

CONRAD J. RUETER, Secretary.

The following notice to holders of liquor licenses was issued by the Board of Police on September 29, 1898:

NOTICE TO HOLDERS OF LIQUOR LICENSES:

The Board of Police hereby instructs all holders of liquor licenses that the licenses issued to and held by them are in law purely personal privileges, and that such licenses authorize no one to sell intoxicating liquors except such holders and their servants and agents employed by and acting for them, and that any holder of a liquor license who allows his name or his license to be used by any person other than himself or his bona fide servants or agents, or who enters into any agreement or contract of pretended agency or of pretended partnership for the purpose of allowing some person other than himself to carry on a liquor business under cover of his license, is abusing the privilege conferred upon him, and will be so considered by the Board of Police.

APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED.

The Board of Aldermen, at its meeting on Monday, October 10, 1898, voted to confirm the following appointments submitted by the Mayor, viz.:

Nathaniel J. Rust and Ubert K. Petten-gill, to be members of the Board of Commissioners of Sinking-Funds, for the term ending April 30, 1901.

John J. Sullivan, to be a Constable, for the term ending April 30, 1899.

Walter Bryant, Hollis O. Thomas and Frederick T. Wort, to be Weighers of Coal, for the term ending April 30, 1899.

DEATH OF STEPHEN D. MURPHY.

Stephen D. Murphy, Quartermaster-Sergeant, Company I, Ninth Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteers, died on the twelfth instant, of typhoid fever, in Framingham Hospital, South Framingham, Mass.

In April, 1898, Sergeant Murphy left the position of Foreman of the Municipal Printing Office (where he had been employed since March 29, 1897) to enlist. While the Ninth Regiment was at Camp Alger, in Virginia, Sergeant Murphy was detailed, with the late Major O'Connor, for recruiting service in Boston.

On July 26 he returned to Camp Alger. He was taken ill on September 1, while at Camp Gordon Meade, Middletown, Penn., where he remained until Sunday, September 4. On that day he left Camp Meade with the detachment of the regiment, bound for South Framingham, where he arrived on Monday, September 5. He was immediately transferred to the hospital, where he remained during his entire sickness.

Mr. Murphy leaves a widow and an infant child. His home was in Dorchester.

INSTITUTIONS QUARTERLY CON- FERENCE.

The regular quarterly conference of the Institutions Trustees was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, September 30, 1898, at 4 o'clock.

There were present: Mrs. R. C. Lincoln and Mr. William L. Rutan of the Pauper Institutions Trustees; Mr. Sproules of the Overseers of the Poor; Dr. H. C. Baldwin, of the Insane Hospital Trustees; Mr. John O'Hare, of the Trustees for Children.

Mayor Quincy was also present. Dr. Philip C. Knapp was present, but was obliged to leave before the meeting was called to order.

Mrs. Lincoln, for the Pauper Institutions Trustees, made the following report:

The Pauper Institutions Trustees report that on August 25 last a conference was held between the Hospital Committee and the Visiting Staff of the Long Island Hospital, at which it was determined that in case of necessity, 129 sick soldiers could be comfortably accommodated at Long Island.

A statement to this effect was immediately made to the Mayor, and the entire middle wing of the hospital (comprising three wards) was prepared by the Superintendent for use by the soldiers.

A letter from Dr. James J. Minot of the visiting staff was received by the Trustees, stating that in case soldiers were sent to Long Island, he was prepared to make daily visits to the hospital, and would return from his vacation to do so if the necessity arose immediately.

This offer was accepted gratefully by the Trustees.

On September 13, notice was sent to Long Island from the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association that soldiers coming from Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, on the ship "Relief," would be sent there. They were transferred in Boston from this boat to the "J. Putnam Bradlee," and were removed from the "Bradlee" to the Long Island Hospital, with the assistance of the Ambulance Corps.

The soldiers, sixty-one in number, were, with one exception, members of the regular army, and had seen hard service in Cuba, some of them having been through the fights at San Juan and Santiago. A number of the men were convalescent. One had had yellow fever, and others were suffering from malaria. Thirteen cases of typhoid have developed among them.

All the cases are now reported as doing well. The one volunteer from Maine, who was seriously ill, has the satisfaction of having his mother with him.

The physicians of the staff, and the resident physicians and nurses, are doing all in their power to make the men comfortable, and the soldiers express themselves as quite content with their present surroundings.

Dr. Baldwin, for the Insane Hospital Trustees, reported as follows:

There are 543 patients at the Boston Insane Hospital, and 1,100 insane patients with Boston settlements are boarded in State institutions.

At the last meeting it was reported that for administration purposes the two institutions—Pierce and Austin Farms—had been put under one executive head. This arrangement has worked well, and the administration of the hospital is now efficient and economical.

Last year a piggery was built at the expense of $500, and 100 pigs were bought at $1.50 a head. This has proved a profitable investment, and the building is being enlarged so that enough swine may be properly housed to consume all the waste. The herd has been enlarged to fifty odd cows, so that all the milk needed is produced on the place.

This year the Board asked for $163,300 for insane patients boarded in State institutions, and $10,000 for the patients boarded in the School for Feeble Minded, a total of $173,300—$165,000 was granted, the appropriation being cut down $8,300. Now, as the rate of board for patients at State institutions is a fixed charge, and the number of patients does not vary much from year to year, except that the number increases, there is bound to be a deficit, for the appropriation is not sufficient. For the first six months there is a deficit of $5,000, on half the appropriation, and the bills for the second half-year promise to be larger than for the first half. The amount that was asked for by the Board will be needed and probably a little more.

However useful the Repair Department may be in certain departments, viz., the care of school-houses, it is a question whether it is so useful and economical for the Insane Department. So far as possible we do our own work, but sometimes it is necessary to call in help for something unusual, like plastering, and there has been a small strike the past week at Pierce Farm where the plasterers have been at work. One of the inmates, a good worker, was assigned to carry plaster for the man who put on a skim coat of plastering. The plasterer refused to work unless he had a union man at the hod and left work. The matter was referred to the union that night, and the plasterer sustained, and work has not been renewed at last accounts.

The Board are busy at present in trying to prepare a complete plan of a proper institution for all the city insane. This involves much work, and important problems have to be solved. The situation of the hospital is excellent, surrounded as it is on two sides by Franklin Park and land forever restricted from building purposes. The hospital is very accessible. The city now owns 125 acres, and in the square there are 250 acres, part of which the city owns. More land can be obtained across the way if necessary. The help of the City Engineer and a landscape gardener have been asked to determine the availability of the land for proper building sites to care for 1,500 patients. The proper laying out of the grounds so that there shall be necessary walks and exercise room for such a number of patients is another problem, and must be successfully solved to make the plan practical. If the land is found to be available in these two ways, immediate steps should be taken to carry out the plan for such an institution. The 250 acres with Franklin Park and the restricted land would give as much breathing space to the patients as a farm of 1,000 acres. The advantage to the patients and their friends of being in the heart of the city would be very great.

The employment of the workers at truck-farming and in shops would be as healthful to the patients and as profitable to the city as ordinary labor on a farm.

Mr. O'Hare, for the Trustees for Children, made a report of progress.

Mr. Sproules, for the Overseers of the Poor, reported that everything was going on in a satisfactory manner.

ABSENCE OF THE CITY ENGINEER.

In accordance with a vote of the Cambridge Bridge Commission, Mr. William Jackson, who is engineer of the Cambridge Bridge as well as City Engineer of Boston, has gone abroad to inspect bridges in some of the principal European cities. Mr. Jackson sailed from New York on Tuesday, the eleventh instant, for Bremen. Mr. Jackson expects to visit Dresden, Frankfort, Berlin, St. Petersburg, Paris, London and Glasgow.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS.

The Music Commission which, during the past summer months, has had charge of the concerts given each week by the Municipal Band on Boston Common and elsewhere in the city, has completed arrangements for conducting a series of orchestral concerts to be held in Music Hall on Sunday evenings, beginning October 16.

Members of the orchestra, which will consist of thirty-five pieces, have been selected, and the Commission has secured the services of Mr. Emil Mollenhauer and Mr. John C. Mullally, as conductors.

In addition to the orchestra, there will be at each concert vocal music by competent soloists, and the Commission is now organizing a volunteer chorus which, it is expected, will first appear on Sunday evening, October 23.

Tickets for the concerts are on sale each day at Music Hall at ten, fifteen and twenty-five cents.

COURT OF LAND REGISTRATION.

Chapter 562 of the Acts of 1898, which provides for registering and confirming titles to land within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, went into effect on October 1.

The act authorizes the appointment by the Governor of two judges of the Court of Registration, and also a Recorder, who shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all applications for the registration of title to land within the State, with power to hear and determine all questions arising upon such applications. Sittings of the Court are to be held in Boston, but may be adjourned to such other places as the public convenience may require.

The law establishing the Court of Registration provides for the appeal of any of its decisions to the Superior Court and to the Supreme Judicial Court on law points, for their final determination.

On October 5 the Governor appointed under this act, Leonard A. Jones, as Judge of Registration; Charles T. Davis, as Assistant Judge of Registration, and Clarence C. Smith, as Recorder, and they were confirmed by the Council on October 12, and qualified. The offices of the Court are on the second floor of the Tremont Building, corner of Tremont and Beacon streets.

The fees for registration payable under the act are as follows:

For every application made, including indexing and recording, three dollars; for every plan filed, seventy-five cents; for indexing an instrument recorded while application for registration is pending, twenty-five cents; for examining title, five dollars, and one-tenth of one per cent. of value of land; for each notice by mail, twenty-five cents, and the cost of printing; for all services by a sheriff, the same fees as are provided by law for like services; for each notice by publication, twenty-five cents, and cost of publication; for entry of order dismissing application, one dollar; for entry of decree, three dollars, and one-tenth of one per cent. of assessed value of land; for copy of decree of registration, one dollar; for entry of original certificate of title and issuing duplicate, three dollars; for making and entering a new certificate of title, including issue of duplicate, one dollar; for each additional duplicate, after the first, fifty cents; for the registration of every instrument, one dollar and fifty cents; for making an attested copy of memorandum on each additional instrument or duplicate certificate, fifty cents; for filing and registering an adverse claim, three dollars; for entering statement of change of residence and attesting same, twenty-five cents; for entering any note in the entry book, twenty-five cents; for the registration of a suggestion of death, or notice of issue of a warrant in insolvency, twenty-five cents; for the registration of a discharge or release of mortgage, fifty cents; for the registration of a memorandum or certificate of entry for possession or deposition in proof thereof, fifty cents; for the registration of any levy, or of any discharge or dissolution of any attachment, or receipt for payment of taxes, fifty cents; for endorsing on any mortgage a memorandum of partition, one dollar; for every petition filed under this act after original registration, one dollar; for a certified copy of any decree or registered instrument, the same fees as are provided by law for registers of deeds.

(Inclosure: Instrument — 3 of 6287.)

Whereas, by Section 3 of an act of Congress, approved July 13, 1892, entitled "An act making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes," it is declared that it shall not be lawful to construct by authority of the legislative act of a State any bridge not already authorized by law, over a navigable water of the United States wholly within the limits of such State, without the approval by the Secretary of War of the location and plans of such bridge;

And whereas, the Cambridge Bridge Commissioners having authority under an Act of the Legislature of the State of Massachusetts to construct a temporary bridge over Charles river from Cambridge street in Boston to Main street in Cambridge, in said State, has submitted a map of the location and plans of the same;

Now, therefore, this is to certify that the map of location and plans of said bridge, which are hereto attached, are hereby approved by the Secretary of War, subject to the following conditions:

That the Engineer Officer of the United States Army, in charge of the district within which the bridge is to be built, may supervise its construction, in order that said plans shall be complied with.

REPORT OF ALDERMANIC COMMITTEE ON THE COUNTY PRISONS.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen held on Monday, October 10, 1898, the following report was submitted by Alderman Cleary:

The special committee of the Board of Aldermen appointed to visit and inspect the prisons in the County of Suffolk, having made the inspection required by the statutes of the Commonwealth, respectfully submit their first semi-annual report.

SUFFOLK COUNTY JAIL.

The Suffolk County Jail was visited August 23, and the institution was found in a very creditable condition. The committee feel called upon to repeat the recommendations of previous years, first, the erection of a new building for the detention of women, in which provision could be made for a laundry, and second, the construction of a brick wall in place of the fence which now encloses a portion of the grounds. The overcrowded condition of the jail is about the only feature which the committee could criticise, and this would be obviated by the construction of the new wing as recommended. Hospital accommodations should be provided at once.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION, SOUTH BOSTON.

This institution was visited August 23, and was found in as good a condition as the antiquated buildings would allow. The institution should be removed, or new buildings erected, as it would be practically a waste to spend any considerable sum in patching up the present property. The committee found nothing to complain of in the management of the institution, and believe it is conducted as well as is possible with such a plant as is furnished.

HOUSE OF REFORMATION, RAINSFORD ISLAND.

The committee inspected the House of Reformation on August 24. The Trustees are of the opinion that this institution should be removed to the main land, where new buildings should be erected, and an opportunity given for out-door work by the boys. This recommendation has been several times made in previous years, and the committee are of the opinion that it would be a step in the right direction. A number of improvements have been made since the last inspection, the most noteworthy being the construction of an additional school-building, and new sanitariums. An electric light plant is very much needed, as the present system of lighting with kerosene lamps is unsafe.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION, DEER ISLAND.

This institution was visited by the committee on August 24. Everything was found in the best of condition. The electric lighting plant should be enlarged so as to include the women's building, which is at present lighted by kerosene lamps. The men are well employed, and the administration of the institution is almost beyond criticism.

THE PARENTAL SCHOOL.

The Parental School was inspected August 23, and was found in a very good condition. The buildings are overcrowded, and the committee can only repeat the recommendations of previous years, which call for additional land, and the construction of new buildings.

In conclusion, the committee have only to say that the institutions of the City of Boston and Suffolk County will compare favorably with those of any of the large cities. A number of improvements could be made by the expenditure of a considerable sum of money, but the general administration is as good as can be expected. The one point that the committee most seriously object to is the confinement of boys at the Suffolk County Jail, where they are liable to be brought in contact with criminals of every description. Provision should be made at once for a separation of the boys who may be detained there from the other inmates.

The committee are indebted to Commissioner Marshall, Trustees Dacey and O'Hare, and the officers in charge of the different institutions, who afforded the committee every opportunity for a careful inspection.

Annexed will be found the reports of the superintendents of the various institutions, giving in detail the information called for under the statutes.

MICHAEL H. CLEARY,
WILLIAM H. LOTT,
EDWARD W. DIXON,
EDWARD W. PRESNO,
Committee.

REMARKS OF MAYOR QUINCY AT THE OPENING OF THE DOVER- STREET BATH-HOUSE.

The Dover-street Bath-house was formally opened Friday evening, October 14, 1898. Mayor Quincy's remarks were as follows:

MEMBERS OF THE CITY COUNCIL, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It has seemed to the members of the Bath Commission and to myself, that the opening of the first permanent public bath-house in Boston for all-the-year-round use was an event of enough interest to make it proper to invite you here to-night to inspect this fine building and its appointments, before its opening to the public to-morrow morning. While the building and equipment of this bath-house has taken an unexpectedly long time, I think you will agree with me that in its finished state it represents a great amount of careful and intelligent thought and labor, and that it reflects credit upon the architects who have designed it, upon the advisory committee which selected the site and had so much to do with the preparation of the plans, and upon all who have in any way been concerned in the work. I believe that if a few American cities have been a few years in advance of Boston, in establishing permanent baths ahead of us, we can truthfully claim that Boston now possesses the finest and the most modern public bathing establishment upon this continent.

If we have built slowly we have built solidly, and this fine building shall stand for generations to come to perform its beneficent work for the people and to serve as a monument to mark the adoption in this city of a broader and higher conception of the duties of the municipal government to the citizens. The opening of this bath marks the full recognition by the city of its duty to bring within the reach of all, in winter as well as in summer, facilities for securing the physical cleanliness that bears such close relationship to social and moral well-being. The accommodations of this bath-house, built with the money of the people, are for the free use of all, rich or poor, men, women or children; if there is any distinction in the invitation extended to all, it is that those who stand in the greatest need of the facilities which are here afforded, will be received as its most welcome patrons.

The expenditure which the city has made in erecting its first permanent bath-house of this substantial and ornamental character has been incurred with a broader end in view than that of merely providing facilities for the bathing of a certain number of persons. The number of shower-baths and tub-baths contained in this building could have been furnished at a much smaller expense, and the city might, perhaps, have leased a building for the purpose, instead of purchasing a valuable lot of land and erecting an expensive structure. The purpose of the advisory committee which planned this first central bath-house, — a purpose which met with my hearty approval and support, — was to erect a building of such character and appointments that it would be worthy as an architectural monument of the city which owned it, and would raise the whole idea of public bathing to a high and dignified plane. If we judge a man somewhat by the house in which he lives, it is surely important that a new idea in civic development should receive such a concrete embodiment at its inception as to place it in the right light before the people. Every useful undertaking gains in its possibilities of beneficence if it is clothed in a garb of dignity and beauty. The money which this completed building represents to-night, upwards of $70,000, was asked for by me, appropriated by the City Council, — in a spirit of wise liberality which more recent action should not lead us to forget, — and expended by the architects, in the belief that nothing within reason was too good for the first permanent bath-house to be built by this city and located at this central point. As a result of this policy we dedicate to-night a bath-house of such a character that it might well have been intended for the use of a private club of men and women of means, and we open it freely and without price for the use of all of the people of this great municipality.

It is, therefore, with no small sense of personal and official satisfaction that I now receive this building from the hands of the architects and builder, and turn over its custody to the Bath Commission, which the city has wisely established to take special charge of this branch of our municipal service.

The marked success of its administration of the summer baths, during the past season, and the great increase which has taken place in their utility and patronage, — no less than 1,800,000 baths having been taken during the last season, — affords a guarantee that this institution will be conducted in a spirit of conscientious devotion to its best interests and with a full appreciation of its possibilities for good. May this, the first permanent bath-house of the City of Boston, be so fruitful of good results that within the next few years each of the sections of the city may have a similar local bath-house of its own, and that it may be our boast that the City Government is enlightened enough to offer, and our citizens wise enough to use, better and more extensive public bathing facilities, both in winter and in summer, than any city in this country, if not in the world.

DOVER-STREET BATH-HOUSE.

The Dover-street Bath-house has been completed and was formally opened on Friday evening, October 14. The building is forty-three feet wide and 110 feet deep. The front, which is three stories in height, is of granite through the first story, and of gray, mottled brick with limestone trimmings in the upper portions. There are two entrances, one for men and one for women. Above these, a row of three-arched windows extends across the second story. The whole is surmounted by an ornamental cornice of galvanized iron.

The two entrances from the street are into separate waiting-rooms. A single office for the Superintendent controls both, and from it soap and towels are dispensed to men on one side and to women on the other side.

These waiting-rooms are surrounded with benches and have terazzo mosaic floors and Knoxville marble walls. The ceilings are plastered on brick arches.

The rear of the entrance story is occupied by a well-appointed laundry and drying-rooms and by shelving, on which will be stored the towels and bathing-suits of all the municipal baths. A portion of this floor is taken up by the ventilating apparatus; but the steam supply for all purposes is furnished from the boiler-room of the Fire Department repair shop, situated just back of the bath-house lot.

From the men's waiting-room a wide marble staircase rises directly to the men's bathing apartment. This measures forty feet two inches by forty-eight feet two inches and is nineteen feet six inches high. It is lighted by a very large skylight and by windows in the rear of the building. The floor and walls are similar to those of the waiting-rooms below. There are thirty enclosed shower baths, and three tubs also enclosed. Each shower cabin consists of a dressing alcove, with seat, beyond which is the bathing alcove.

The partitions and backs of the compartments are of Knoxville marble. Each bath alcove contains a Gegenstrom heating apparatus which permits the bather to regulate the temperature of the water, delivered by the spray-nozzle, to suit himself. After falling over the bather the water drops upon a dished marble floor, which, as the water drains slowly from it, serves the purpose of a foot-bath.

At the rear of the women's waiting-room a staircase ascends and turns toward the front of the building.

Here in the second story is the women's bath-room, twenty-seven by forty feet and twenty-one feet high. It contains eleven shower cabins and six bath-cabins. In appointments it does not differ from the room set apart for men and boys.

Both of the bathing apartments have toilet-rooms connected with them.

The third floor in the front part of the building contains quarters for the superintendent and his family, and is reached by a service staircase from the entrance story.

Mayor Quincy in his Inaugural Address, January 6, 1896, called attention to the subject of public baths in the following words:

The maintaining of public baths, open all the year seems to me to be a project for encouraging social and sanitary improvement by municipal action which promises large returns for a comparatively small expenditure, and I am of opinion that the experiment of establishing such a public bath in a suitable locality should be tried. I shall recommend such an appropriation, to be provided for by loan.

On January 20, the Mayor appointed a committee of three persons to consider the subject in detail, and to act as an Advisory Committee on Public Baths.

The committee was soon increased to seven in number, and was made up as follows:

Mr. Robert A. Woods, of the South End House, Chairman; Mr. Edmund Billings, Superintendent and Treasurer of the Wells Memorial Institute; Mr. Edward J. Ryan, President of the Building Trades Council; Mr. Michael W. Myers, President of the Plumbers' Union; Dr. Edward M. Hartwell, Director of Physical Training in the Boston Schools; Miss L. B. Pingree, formerly a member of the Boston School Committee, and Mrs. Mary M. Kehew, President of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

On April 27, Mayor Quincy transmitted a preliminary report of the Advisory Committee to the City Council (published as Document 96, 1896), and recommended the appropriation of $65,000 towards the purchase of a site and the erection of a bath-house, for both sexes, to be kept open all the year.

The committee's principal recommendations were (1) that the bath should be absolutely free to all; (2) that it should be located near the corner of Harrison avenue and Dover street; (3) that the building should contain forty baths; (4) that it should be planned to accommodate, on a lot of fifty by 100 feet, men and women in absolutely distinct apartments, with separate entrances and waiting-rooms; (5) that not less than $50,000 and if possible $65,000 should be appropriated for land and building.

On May 11 the whole matter was referred by the City Council to the Joint Standing Committee on the Health Department, whose report made June 8, was printed as Document 116-1896. The Committee on Health having visited New York City and made a special study of the People's Baths, (built in 1891 by the Association for improving the condition of the poor), recommended the appropriation of $65,000 to defray the cost of a bath-house of the same general type as the People's Baths in New York, i. e., a cleanliness bath-house containing shower and tub baths. The Committee on Health did not favor making the proposed baths free in all cases. On June 15, 1896 the sum of $65,000 was appropriated for a public bath-house.

With the approval of the Mayor, Messrs. Peabody & Stearns, architects, were chosen to plan the building and supervise its erection, on a lot of land situated on Dover street, between the Dover-street bridge and Harrison avenue. The price paid for the land was $14,154.25.

The message of the Mayor of November 30, 1896, transmitting report of the advisory committee, appeared as Document 178, 1896. The plans of the bath-house described therein correspond with the illustrative cuts introduced on pages 594 and 595. While the plans were in course of preparation during the summer and autumn of 1896, three members of the advisory committee visited various European public baths, — but not at the city's expense, it should be said.

The total amount appropriated for the establishment is $86,000. Deducting the cost of site, the sum available for erecting and furnishing the building is $71,845.75, of which $18,477 were still in the city treasury when the building was dedicated. Outstanding bills amount to some $16,000.

Modern public bath-houses present a variety of types. The oldest and most common type in Europe is the British, which affords facilities for recreation, together with appliances for securing cleanliness. In such establishments, which are usually monumental in character, imposing architecturally, and of costly construction, one or more large swimming pools and suites of small private rooms provided with bath-tubs (and sometimes with Turkish baths as well) are found. The Kent-street baths of Birmingham, which are described in another column, belong to this type. Baths of the monumental-combination sort are numerous on the Continent, especially in Germany; but the German bath-house, as a rule, is more generously furnished with spray or shower baths.

The Germans, during the past fifteen years, have developed a distinct type of "People's Bath-house," which is devoid of pools, and furnishes shower-baths only, or at the most only shower and tub-baths. Baths of this kind have multiplied rapidly in recent years, owing to their relative cheapness, simplicity and efficacy. In several cities, e. g., Berlin, Frankfort and Cologne, the municipality maintains floating summer baths and school spray baths, in addition to people's baths and baths of the monumental British type. Both in Great Britain and on the Continent the public shower and tub-baths are available as a rule the year round. The custom of heating swimming pools in winter is perhaps rather more common in Germany than in Great Britain.

In this country, the Brookline bath is the only notable instance of the combination recreative and cleanliness public bath establishment. Chicago, Buffalo, Pittsburg and a few other cities have established, or are about to establish, cleanliness baths, modelled after the People's Bath in New York, which in its turn was modelled on the people's baths of Vienna, except that the latter contain no tub-baths whatever. The Dover-street Bath-house belongs to the same type as the German Volksbad, the more so as the shower-baths which it contains are provided with the Gegenstrom heating apparatus, which is a German invention for doing away with storage tanks and minimizing the possibility of a bather's scalding himself. Though there are people's bath-houses in Germany with facilities for a greater number of bathers than the Dover-street Bath-house affords, it would be difficult to name an establishment of its class, either at home or abroad, which equals it as regards combined spaciousness, convenience, attractiveness and elegance.

THE CHOATE STATUE AND ITS DONOR.

The dedication of French's bronze statue of Rufus Choate took place at noon on Saturday, the fifteenth instant, in the main corridor of the court-house of Suffolk county. Mr. Lewis S. Dabney presided, as the representative of the Bar Association, which had charge of the dedicatory exercises. The statue was unveiled and presented to the City of Boston by Mr. Benjamin D. Hyde on behalf of the family of the late George B. Hyde, by whose will the sum of $14,000 was devised for its erection. Mayor Quincy, in a brief speech, accepted the statue on behalf of the city, and formally gave it into the custody of the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts. After the acceptance of the statue by Chief Justice Field, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, of New York City, one of the leaders of the New York bar, and a nephew of Rufus Choate, delivered an impressive oration.

Mr. George B. Hyde, the donor of the statue, was a Boston school-master. Mr. Hyde, who was born March 21, 1811, in Sturbridge, Mass., died in Boston, July 8, 1889. In 1844 Mr. Hyde was called from the Washington School in Roxbury to take charge of the New South School in Boston, then in temporary quarters on Washington street, opposite the site of the present Cathedral. The name of the school, which was a mixed school, was changed to the Dwight School in 1845. In 1850, the Dwight School for Boys was organized and placed in the charge of Mr. James A. Page as master, Mr. Hyde being continued as master of the Dwight School for Girls. In 1860, the Dwight School for Girls was merged into the newly organized Everett School for Girls, on Northampton street, Mr. Hyde continuing as its principal till he resigned in 1878. Mr. Hyde was, therefore, a master in the public schools from September 20, 1844, till August 31, 1878.

Mr. Hyde served as a member of the School Committee during the period 1879-1888, inclusive. The Hyde School-house on Hammond street, opened in 1885, was named for him.

Besides his bequest of $14,000 to the City of Boston for a statue of Rufus Choate, Mr.

Hyde left $20,000 to the town of Sturbridge, for public library purposes; $5,000 to the New England Conservatory of Music; $5,000 to Harvard College; and bequeathed the residue of his estate — subject to a life interest of his widow — to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, which has thus far received upwards of $90,000 therefrom.

INDOOR CONCERTS.

The first of a series of indoor concerts, inaugurated by the City of Boston under the direction of the Music Commission, was given by the Municipal Orchestra of thirty-five pieces, Mr. Emil Mollenhauer, conductor, assisted by Mr. C. B. Shirley, tenor soloist, on Sunday evening, October 16. An enthusiastic audience of nearly 1,500 was present, and reports agree that the concert was a decided success.

On next Sunday evening, October 23, in addition to the orchestra, a chorus of one hundred voices will appear. Tickets for these concerts may be procured at Music Hall at ten, fifteen and twenty-five cents.

CASTLE ISLAND.

The following is a letter from the Secretary of War to the Chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners regarding the return of Castle Island to the care of the Board:

WAR DEPARTMENT.

Washington, October 4, 1898.

MY DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the twentieth ultimo, requesting information as to the earliest date when Castle Island will be returned to the care of your Board.

Replying thereto I beg to inform you that Colonel Mansfield, the local engineer officer, to whom the matter was referred, reports under date of the twenty-ninth ultimo, as follows:

"It is probable that two hundred and fifty odd mines now at Fort Independence can all be unloaded during the month of October, which will make the earliest date when Castle Island can safely be opened to the public November 1, 1898;" and the Chief Engineer, in submitting the said report, remarks:

"The operations incident to the unloading of the torpedoes recently removed from Boston Harbor are attended with more or less danger, and the admission of the public to the Island before these operations are completed might be attended with grave results."

Very respectfully,

R. A. ALGER, Secretary of War.

Charles E. Stratton, Esq., Chairman, etc., Pine Bank, Jamaica Park, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

BATHS IN BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND.

The following statement regarding the bathing establishments of Birmingham, England, derived from a recent official report, may serve to show the character and extent of the facilities provided for public bathing by a British city whose population, 496,751, in 1897, is, approximately, that of Boston, which was 496,920 in 1895.

Baths conducted by private persons existed in Birmingham as far back as 1731, but it was not till 1852 that the first bath-house erected by municipal enterprise was opened on Kent street, at a cost of $119,960. These baths, situated as they are close to the centre of the city, enjoy the largest share of the patronage of bathers. The building now contains thirty first-class and twenty-four second-class private, i. e., tub, baths for men; one small plunge for instruction in swimming; two swimming baths, first and second class respectively; seven first-class and seven second-class private baths for women; one first-class and one second-class private bath or kosher for Jewish women, for which there is a special charge of thirty-seven and eighteen cents respectively; a small plunge bath for women; also a Turkish bath department. These baths are patronized by the members of seven swimming clubs, six for men and one for women.

In 1897 the attendance of such members was 4,957.

The first-class swimming bath at this establishment is kept open throughout the winter.

In the year 1897 129,374 persons patronized these baths; including 106,796 men, 9,587 women and 12,991 children.

The patronage of the different departments may be analyzed as follows:

First-class, swimming, 32,452; second-class, swimming, 44,269; first-class, private baths, 20,742; second-class, private, 26,692; and Turkish baths, 5,019.

In 1897, Birmingham had four complete bath-houses, opened in 1852, 1860, 1862 and 1883, respectively; two open-air baths in public parks opened, respectively, in 1873 and 1883, and two sites for new bath establishments.

Birmingham's open-air baths present some interesting features. In 1873, the city opened at Cannon Hill park a swimming bath, 216 by 110 feet long, with a graduated depth of from two and one-half to six feet, bottom and sides are concreted. This bath is not managed by the city, but is leased to private parties at a rental of about $144. In 1883 the Victoria-park open-air swimming bath was opened to the public at a cost of $3,500. It has a water area of 138 by seventy feet, with a graduated depth of from three to six feet. The water supplied to the former comes from a local stream, to the latter from a well sunk to a depth of 537 feet. These baths are open from 6 A.M. to dusk, and the charges for admission are, up to 10 A.M., 4 cents, after 10 A.M., 2 cents. The number attending this bath in 1897 was 14,839, the total receipts about $399.

At one time these open-air baths were reserved for women one-half day per week, but the arrangement not proving popular it was discontinued.

The following is a tabular presentation covering (1) the total receipts of the public baths by establishment and kind of bath, and (2) the number of persons bathing, subdivided by sex, and the total expenditures, not including interest or sinking-fund, for the year 1897:

THE BOSTON DISPENSARY.

In the annual report of the Superintendent of the Boston Dispensary, presented at the meeting of this organization held October 13, the following statistics with regard to the work of the institution for the year ending September 30, 1898, are given:

Number of new patients treated at the central office, 26,291. Number of visits made by patients, old and new, at the central office, 66,923. Number of patients treated in the districts, 13,726. Number of visits made by the district physicians, 20,123.

The Boston Dispensary, which was founded in 1796, is the oldest medical charitable institution in New England, and the third oldest in the country. Since the year of its establishment, 1,418,862 patients have been treated, and since 1856, the number is 1,299,699.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

The following order was promulgated by the Board of Police on October 14, 1898:

General Order No. 539.

In the matter of the complaint made against Patrolman George A. Shipps, of Division 15, for violation of Rule XXVI of the Police Manual, to wit, neglect of duty, in that he left his post without permission on the twenty-third day of September, current, the Board finds the said Patrolman George A. Shipps guilty, and sentences him to a forfeiture of ten days' pay.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held in the School Committee Chamber, Mason street building, at 7.30 P.M., Tuesday, October 11, 1898, with President Huggan in the chair and all members present except Messrs. Aldrich and Fleischer.

Under suspension of the rules it was ordered that the Board authorize the employment of additional teachers in excess of the number or rank allowed under the rules, as presented by the Superintendent at the last meeting.

On motion of Mr. Bassett, the appointments and confirmations presented by the Superintendent at the last meeting were approved.

The following were unanimously elected by the Board to serve in the Evening Drawing Schools:

Masters, G. H. Bartlett and George Jepson; Principals, C. S. Adams, A. K. Cross and A. S. Ware.

The Chair read the following:

(1.) IN COMMON COUNCIL.

September 29, 1898.

Ordered, That the School Committee, through His Honor the Mayor, be requested to inform the Common Council what progress, if any, has been made in the erection of the proposed high school for South Boston.

IN COMMON COUNCIL.

September 29, 1898.

Referred to His Honor the Mayor.

TIMOTHY L. CONNOLLY, President.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.

Respectfully referred to the School Committee, by direction of His Honor the Mayor, for such action as is considered proper.

NATHANIEL G. ROBINSON, Secretary.

Referred to the Committee on New Buildings.

(2.) Boston, September 16, 1898.

PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY OF THE BOSTON SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

GENTLEMEN: It would please me to present to the Revere School a replica of an alto relievo of Paul Revere starting on his famous ride. If it would be acceptable to you, and you will so inform me, I will at once send it to such address as you shall name.

I write this through the suggestion of Captain Nathan Appleton.

The panel is twenty-two by thirty inches, colored in old ivory. I color some in bronze, but I think you would prefer the old ivory, though you can have your choice.

Respectfully yours,

CYRUS COBB.

127A Tremont street.

Referred to the Committee on the Third Division.

(3.) SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE.

October 10, 1898.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

I have investigated the subject matter of the order of the Common Council, "That the School Committee, through His Honor the Mayor, be requested to establish and maintain a kindergarten school in the section known as Mattapan, in the Tileston School District, Ward 24," which was referred to me at your meeting of the twenty-seventh of September last.

There is one kindergarten in the Tileston District at the present time in which there are fifty-nine children. There are three parts of the district not accommodated by the present kindergarten, having their centres respectively, first, near the Morton Street School; second, at the corner of Walk Hill street and Blue Hill avenue, and third, near the Tileston School Building. If kindergartens were established at these three centres the number of children whose parents would probably desire to send them are in the first thirty, at the second eighteen, and at the third twenty-five. There is no room in the Morton Street Building nor in the Tileston Building. There are stores near each of the centres above indicated which can probably be hired for kindergarten purposes.

Considering the relatively small number of children to be accommodated at each of these centres and the expense which would be entailed by hiring accommodations, I am of the opinion that it is inexpedient to establish any more kindergartens in the Tileston District at the present time.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN P. SEAVER,
Superintendent of Public Schools.

Placed on file.

The resignations of four teachers were accepted.

The Superintendent of Schools presented certain appointments, confirmations and transfers for the approval of the Board, certified by him as made in accordance with the Rules and Regulations, and action thereon was taken as follows: The appointments of twelve special assistants were laid over under the rule; the appointments of seven temporary teachers were placed on file; the appointments, on probation, of eight teachers were laid over under the rule; confirmation of the appointments of eleven teachers was laid over under the rule; and the transfers of three teachers were laid over under the rule.

The Superintendent of Schools presented the appointments of forty-eight teachers to serve in the evening High School, and the appointments of 136 teachers to serve in the evening elementary schools, all of which were confirmed under a suspension of the rules; and, on his recommendation, ten teachers were granted leave of absence. The Superintendent presented the appointments of eight temporary teachers (which were placed on file), and of two teachers on probation (which were laid over under the rule), accompanied by written statements of the reasons for requesting a suspension of the regulations thereto.

The appointments of four janitors recommended by the Committee on School-houses were confirmed.

Mr. Lowell, for the Committee on School-houses, to whom was referred, February 23, an order requesting them to fit up a room in the Bowdoin School-house for a class in wood-working, reported that they do not feel warranted in recommending any expenditure for this purpose at the present time. They, therefore, recommend that no action be taken on the order referred.

Accepted, and the recommendation of the committee adopted.

Mr. Lowell, for the same committee, to whom was referred, March 8, an order requesting them to fit up a room in the Bunker Hill School-house for a class in cookery, reported that they have given the matter careful consideration, and are of the opinion that it is inexpedient to comply with the request of the order referred, for the reason that there are no funds available for the purpose. Your committee therefore, recommend that no further action by the Board be taken.

Accepted, and the recommendation of committee adopted.

Mr. Eaton, for the Committee on School-houses, reported that under authority granted by the board June 30, they have advertised for and received proposals for the construction of the new South Boston High School-house, and that the lowest bid received amounted to $242,971. Believing that the cost of this building could be somewhat reduced without detriment either to its appearance or strength, your committee have made certain modifications in the specifications, and have obtained a proposition from John S. Jacobs & Son, the lowest bidders, to execute the revised general contract for the sum of $236,966, a reduction of $6,005 from their original bid, and ask the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute a contract with John S. Jacobs & Son in the sum of $236,966, for constructing the South Boston High School-house, said John S. Jacobs & Son being the lowest bidder.

Accepted, and the order passed, under a suspension of the rules.

On motion of Mr. Eaton, for the same committee, it was ordered:

(1.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute an addition to the contract of Walter S. Sampson & Son for building the Paul Revere School-house, in the sum of $130, for sheathing soil-pipes passing through coal-bin, and providing wooden slat steps in toilet-rooms.

(2.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute an order of addition to the contract of James Fagan for the construction of an addition to the Mechanic Arts High School-house, in the sum of $109, on account of increasing width of walls, and furnishing additional piles, as required by the Building Department.

(3.) That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested to take, by purchase or otherwise, for the enlargement of the lot of the Girls' High School, a parcel of land adjoining said lot supposed to belong to the German Lutheran Society, and bounded and described as follows:

North-easterly by Pembroke street, about thirty-six and forty one-hundredths feet; south-easterly by land of the City of Boston, about sixty-five feet; south-westerly by other land of the German Lutheran Society, about thirty-six and forty one-hundredths feet, and north-westerly by land of the same, about sixty-five feet; containing 2,496 square feet, more or less.

(4.) That of the amount granted to the School Committee under Chapter 408 of the Acts of 1895, as amended by Chapter 442 of the Acts of 1897, the following appropriation is made:

Temporary wooden buildings, heating, $1,200.

On motion of Mr. Coolidge, it was Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets, be requested to have that portion of Prince street, in front of the new Paul Revere School, asphalted.

On motion of Mr. Calderwood, it was Ordered, That a special teacher of phonography and typewriting be allowed in the Dorchester High School.

Passed, under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. Calderwood, for the Committee on High Schools, to whom was referred, July 26, an order relative to the employment of a laboratory assistant in the Mechanic Arts High School, reported that the following ought to pass:

Ordered, That the Board authorize the employment in the Mechanic Arts High School for the school year 1898-99, of a laboratory assistant, at a salary not exceeding $300.

Report accepted, and order passed, under a suspension of the rules.

On motion of Mrs. Fifield, it was Ordered, That the Common Council be respectfully informed, through His Honor the Mayor, that their request received September 27, that a kindergarten school be established and maintained in the section known as Mattapan, in the Tileston School District, Ward 24, has been carefully considered, and in the opinion of the School Committee it is inexpedient to take the action suggested in said communication. And it is further Ordered, That a copy of the report of the Superintendent upon the matter be transmitted to the Common Council.

Mr. Anderson, for the Committee on Rules and Regulations, to whom was referred, September 27, a communication from Ferdinand W. Peck, Commissioner-General of the Lafayette Memorial Commission requesting that contributions be solicited in the public schools of this city for the purpose of erecting a monument to General Lafayette, to be dedicated at the Paris Exposition, July 4, 1900, reported that, in the opinion of your committee, the rule prohibiting the collection of money in the public schools is a wise one, and should not be suspended.

The considerations by which your committee have been governed in this, and in other similar cases, are entirely independent of the merits of the various propositions suggested, and are based solely upon the belief that contributions should not be permitted in the public schools for any purpose.

They therefore recommend that the request be not granted.

Accepted, and the recommendation of the committee adopted.

Mr. Anderson, for the same committee, to whom was referred, September 27, a communication from the Trustees for Children, stating that they had voted that the teachers in the Parental school should be paid at the same rate as teachers in the Boston Public schools of the same standing, and requesting that they be accorded the same rights and privileges that accrue to teachers in the Boston Public schools so that time spent in the Parental school shall count to their advantage the same as services in the public schools, reported that they have considered the matter, and are of the opinion that the request is just and reasonable. They therefore recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the Rules and Regulations be amended as follows:

Section 166. Add the following to the section as a separate paragraph: A teacher appointed on probation, who has served in the Parental School subsequently to the first day of October, 1898, and who, during that service, held the certificate required by law, shall receive credit for that service on the same conditions and to the same extent as if that service had been rendered for an equal period in a public school of Boston, provided that the salaries paid to teachers in the Parental school during that period be not less than the salaries paid to teachers of the same ranks in the public schools of Boston.

Accepted, and the order passed, under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. Anderson, for the same committee, offered the following:

Ordered, That the Rules and Regulations be amended as follows:

Section 37, Paragraph 2. Strike out the amount "$50" in the third line, and insert in place thereof the amount "$300" so that the paragraph will read as follows:

2. Shall not make or authorize any contract, except as provided in the following paragraph, for a sum exceeding $300 until it has been approved by the Board.

Laid over, under the rule.

On recommendation of the committee on salaries it was ordered:

(1.) That Elizabeth B. McKeon, assistant, Grammar School, in the Dearborn District, be placed on the second year of service in her rank, to date from September 6, 1898.

(2.) That Frances S. Tufts, assistant in the Yeoman-street Kindergarten, be placed on the second year of service in her rank, to date from September 1, 1898.

(3.) That the salary of the special teacher of phonography and typewriting in the East Boston High School be fixed at the rate of six hundred (600) dollars per annum.

(4.) That the salary of the janitor of the Frothingham School Annex be fixed at the rate of one hundred eighty (180) dollars per annum, from September 1, 1898, until otherwise ordered.

(5.) That the salary of the janitor of the Morton-street School Annex be fixed at the rate of one hundred twenty (120) dollars per annum, from September 1, 1898, until otherwise ordered.

(6.) That there be paid to James Mitchell, the janitor of the Shurtleff School, the sum of fifty (50) dollars for cutting grass and care of lawn at said school during the year 1898.

(7.) That the salary of the janitor of the Aberdeen District Primary School-house be fixed at the rate of four hundred twenty (420) dollars per annum, from September 1, 1898 to January 1, 1899.

On motion of Mr. Gallivan, it was Ordered, That Emma F. Gallagher, formerly assistant in the Norcross District, be granted leave of absence on half pay from October 1, 1898, until August 31, 1899.

Passed, under a suspension of the rules.

On motion of Mr. Allen, it was Ordered, That the Committee on Accounts be requested to investigate the principles and methods covering the service of substitute teachers in the public schools and to report what changes, if any, in the regulations are needed.

On motion of Mr. Hubbard, for the Committee on the Third Division, it was Ordered, That the generous offer of Cyrus Cobb to present to the Paul Revere School a replica of an alto-relievo of Paul Revere starting on his famous ride be accepted, and the thanks of the Board extended to Mr. Cobb for his appropriate and welcome gift.

The death of A. M. Leavitt, late truant officer, was reported.

On motion of Mr. Bateman, it was Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be requested to have School-house court, Ward 4, asphalted.

The Board adjourned at 9.15 P.M.

Messsages from the Mayor.

A regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, at 3 P.M., Monday, October 17, 1898, Chairman Dyar presiding. Absent — Aldermen Lott and Paige.

Appointments by the Mayor.

Communications were received from His Honor the Mayor, making the following appointments, subject to the approval of the Board:

(1.) George J. Ryan, to be a Constable of the City of Boston for the term ending April 30, 1899.

(2.) Arthur R. Crooks and James Wilson, to be Weighers of Coal for the term ending April 30, 1899.

Severally laid over under the law.

The following messages were received from His Honor the Mayor:

Sign at 41 Washington Street. — Veto.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 17, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I return herewith without my signature, a vote of the Board, passed on October 10, granting leave to Mrs. L. M. Bacon to project a sign at 41 Washington street, Ward 6, said sign to project thirty inches from the building. As stated by me in former communications, I am of the opinion that two feet is the utmost limit to which illuminating signs should be allowed to project from buildings.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The vote whereby the above leave was granted was reconsidered, and the question came on again granting it.

The Board refused to grant the leave — Yeas, 0; nays, 7.

Alterations on Second Floor, City Hall.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 17, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

It has been found very desirable, in order to provide better facilities for the conduct of city business, to make certain alterations in the offices on the second floor of City Hall. A portion of this work in the offices of the City Clerk has already been done, and it seems to be desirable that the full plan of the alterations and improvements which is prepared should be carried out at once. This plan will include the provision of a private office for the Chairman of the Board of Aldermen, which is now lacking. The proposed changes are shown in detail upon a plan which has been prepared by the Architectural Division.

I recommend the passage of the accompanying loan order providing the sum of $7,000 for this purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Public Buildings be authorized to expend the sum of seven thousand (7,000) dollars, in making permanent alterations and improvements in the offices on the second floor of City Hall; and that to meet the said appropriation, the City Treasurer be authorized, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, to issue bonds of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Heating of Cabot-Street Bath-House.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 17, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

According to the plans which have been prepared by the Architectural Division of the Engineering Department, it appears that the Cabot-street Bath-house can be heated so that the swimming-pool can be used for bathing in winter at an outlay of about $2,500, and such work can be utilized in the proposed reconstruction of the whole building, if that is later provided for. This bath-house is situated in a district which I believe would appreciate and largely patronize facilities for bathing in winter, and I trust that the accompanying order providing for this small expenditure may be speedily passed.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Trustees of the Baths Department be authorized to expend the sum of twenty-five hundred (2,500) dollars in improving the Cabot-street Bath-house and adapting it for use in winter; and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, to issue bonds of the City of Boston to said amount.

Improvements in Deer Island Hospital.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 17, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Penal Institutions Commissioner calling attention to the imperative need of an appropriation for the rebuilding and refurnishing of Ward "A," of the Deer Island Hospital, and of replacing the present wooden ducts in the other wards by those of galvanized iron. I recommend this matter to your early consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE PENAL INSTITUTIONS
COMMISSIONER.

October 17, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor of Boston.

SIR: I desire respectfully to call your attention to the imperative need of an appropriation for the rebuilding and refurnishing of Ward "A" of the Deer Island Hospital, which was destroyed by fire last December. The estimate of the expense of doing this work is $7,500, and includes not only the rebuilding and refurnishing of the ward, but also the replacement of the wooden ducts under that and the other wards of the hospital with those of galvanized iron.

These ducts are a serious menace to the safety of the institution, as it was in one of them that the fire originated which destroyed Ward "A," and they assisted very materially in the spread of the conflagration. At the present time the ward is capable of occupancy, but I shall be obliged to abandon its use, and thereby seriously inconvenience the other wards of the hospital, unless an appropriation is made for a system of heating and ventilation, for which I am unwilling to expend money from my department appropriation, intended only for the ordinary running expenses of the institution. Earnestly requesting that some provision may be made for the above object at the earliest possible moment, I have the honor to remain,

Yours respectfully,

E. C. MARSHALL, Commissioner.

Referred to the Committee on Institutions Department.

Use of Wires in the Streets.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 17, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Commissioner of Wires, replying to your order requesting a report stating by what right the firm of Mixer Brothers is running wires and cables through the streets of this city for the purpose of doing a telephone business or any other business.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF WIRES.

Boston, October 17, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: Replying to the inclosed order from the Board of Aldermen, whereby they ask to be informed by what right the firm of Mixer Brothers is running wires and cables through the streets of the city, for the purpose of doing a telephone business or any other business, I desire to say that upon investigation, I find Mixer Brothers have, for some years, been engaged in running private lines for stock brokers, said lines being used for the purpose of conveying stock quotations; this firm kept these lines in order for the owners of same.

They are now members of the Low Tension Wire Association, and whether or not Chapter 454, of the Acts of 1894, give them authority to do a telephone business or any other business, I am unable to determine. On examination of the records, I cannot find any grant given them by the legislative branch of the State or municipality whereby they have the right to do any such business as referred to in the accompanying order.

Yours very truly,

THOMAS W. FLOOD,
Commissioner of Wires.

Referred to the Committee on Electric Wires.

Nomination of James Buckner.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 17, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I now find that the name of my nominee for the office of Assessor, sent to your Board for confirmation at its last meeting, should have been given as James Buckner, instead of James M. Buckner. While I have little doubt that Mr. James Buckner can legally assume the office to which he has been nominated and confirmed under the name of James M. Buckner, by which name I am informed he has often been referred to, yet, in order to avoid any possible legal question, I now nominate James Buckner to be a member of the Board of Assessors for the term ending April 30, 1901, to take the place of E. Mertain Hatch.

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Laid over under the law.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Common Council was held on Thursday, October 13, 1898, at 7.45 P.M., in the Council Chamber, City Hall, Mr. Bigelow of Ward 25 presiding in the temporary absence of President Connolly, who entered the Chamber later and took the chair.

The following messages were received:

Drinking-Fountain, Winthrop Square.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 4, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Water Commissioner in reference to your order requesting him "to locate and maintain a drinking-fountain in Winthrop Square, Ward 7."

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE WATER COMMISSIONER.

City Hall, October 4, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor,

SIR: In reference to the attached order of the Common Council, dated September 29, which you have referred to me, and which requests the Water Commissioner to locate and maintain a drinking-fountain in Winthrop Square, I would say that this is the third time which this order has come before me. The Water Department has been willing to locate the fountain if a location could be obtained, but we were unable to obtain one which was satisfactory to the Street Department, and, as a consequence, it was impossible to obtain a permit. I believe that it would be very undesirable to locate a drinking-fountain in connection with the horse-trough in the centre of the square; consequently the suggestion to this effect, made in the past, has not been and would not be acceptable to the Water Department. If a location can be obtained, a drinking-fountain should be erected in this locality at once.

Yours very truly,

JOHN R. MURPHY,
Water Commissioner.

Extension of Cove Street.

STREET COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

City Hall, October 5, 1898.

TO THE HONORABLE THE COMMON COUNCIL:

GENTLEMEN: In reply to the communication from the Common Council of September 15, 1898, asking for a report of action taken under Chapter 388 of the Acts of the Legislature of 1897, concerning the extension of Atlantic avenue (formerly Cove street), to Dorchester avenue at West First street, the Street Commissioners have to say that upon the third instant a meeting of the Boards of Railroad Commissioners and Street Commissioners, sitting jointly, was held at the office of the Railroad Commissioners, for the purpose of determining the time to begin proceedings in the matter, and that upon the Railroad Commissioners, by request of the Boston Terminal Company, advising that further time be taken before action to examine the relation of the proposed extension of the street and the required bridge to the premises of the Terminal Company and the railroad companies interested, the meeting was continued to Wednesday, October 19.

By order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

Kindergarten — Tileston School.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

October 13, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication of the School Committee in reply to your order requesting that a kindergarten be established and maintained in the Tileston School District, Ward 24.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

IN SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

October 11, 1898.

Ordered, That the Common Council be respectfully informed, through His Honor the Mayor, that their request, received September 27, that a kindergarten be established and maintained in the section known as Mattapan, in the Tileston School District, Ward 24, has been carefully considered, and, in the opinion of the School Committee, it is inexpedient to take the action suggested in said communication. And it is further Ordered, That a copy of the report of the Superintendent upon the matter be transmitted to the Common Council.

Passed.

A true copy. Attest:

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE.

October 10, 1898.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

I have investigated the subject matter of the Common Council, "That the School Committee, through His Honor the Mayor, be requested to establish and maintain a kindergarten school in the section known as Mattapan, in the Tileston School District, Ward 24," which was referred to me at your meeting of the twenty-seventh of September last.

There is one kindergarten in the Tileston District at the present time in which there are fifty-nine children. There are three parts of the district not accommodated by the present kindergarten, having their centres respectively, first, near the Morton-street School, second, at the corner of Walk Hill street and Blue Hill avenue, and third, near the Tileston School building. If kindergartens were established at these three centres the number of children whose parents would probably desire to send them are at the first thirty, at the second eighteen, and at the third twenty-five. There is no room in the Morton-street building nor in the Tileston building. There are stores near each of the centres above indicated which can probably be hired for kindergarten purposes.

Considering the relatively small number of children to be accommodated at each of these centres, and the expense which would be entailed by hiring accommodations, I am of the opinion that it is inexpedient to establish any more kindergartens in the Tileston District at the present time.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN P. SEAVER,
Superintendent of Public Schools.

Public Convenience Stations.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 13, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I have heretofore several times called attention to the urgent need of providing additional public convenience stations.

This object has received a good deal of attention at the hands of the Bath Commission, and it is ready to proceed with the work as soon as the necessary appropriations can be made. There is still some available borrowing capacity for the current year, and I think it can be applied to no better purpose than that of enabling some steps, at least, to be taken toward meeting this additional deficiency and providing in some manner for the health and convenience of the public. I trust, therefore, that the City Council will now be willing to pass a loan order, providing at least $20,000 for this important and necessary purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Mr. Bigelow of Ward 25 offered an order that the Trustees of the Baths Department be authorized to expend the sum of $20,000 in providing additional public convenience stations; and that to meet said appropriation, the City Treasurer be authorized, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, to issue bonds of the city to said amount.

Assigned to the next meeting.

Union Station Bonds.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 13, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

In accordance with the provisions of Section 13 of Chapter 516 of the Acts of 1896, entitled "An act to provide for a Union Station for passengers entering the Southern part of the City of Boston," I hereby request the City Council to authorize the City Treasurer to issue bonds of the city, payable in thirty years, for the sum of four hundred thousand (400,000) dollars, for the purpose of paying additional expenses to be incurred by the city in carrying out the provisions of said act. One million six hundred thousand (1,600,000) dollars of five-year bonds, outside of the debt limit, have already been issued under this act, on account of the failure of the City Council to authorize the issue of bonds for the same amount within the debt limit, and the amount now requested will exhaust the authority to borrow under said act. The proceeds of the bonds already issued will be exhausted within a short time, and additional money must therefore be provided for the work of construction now in progress.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Referred to Committee on Finance.

PUBLIC WASH-HOUSES IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The modern public-bath movement is usually said to have originated in Liverpool, through the action of the corporation of that city in 1828; when the so-called St. George's Baths, comprising a swimming-pool, and several suites of private tub-baths, were built on the bank of the Mersey at Pierhead. But Liverpool's action did not excite much public attention prior to May, 1842, when the corporation opened the Frederick-street Baths and Wash-house, which cost £2,648 to build and furnish. It was the first public "baths and wash-house" erected in Great Britain, and most of the public bath-houses built in England and on the Continent during the succeeding twenty years comprised also a wash-house or public laundry. Since 1870, most continental municipalities have not provided public laundries in connection with their public bath-houses. While some British cities which maintain an extensive system of public baths—for instance Manchester and Birmingham—have no public wash-houses, others—as for instance Dublin, Glasgow and London—attach importance to the wash-house feature even in their newest and most costly establishments.

The Frederick-street establishment in Liverpool, owed its distinctive features to the interest excited by the example of a benevolent woman, who during a cholera epidemic established a small wash-house at her own expense for the benefit of the poor in an infected district of that city. The establishment originally comprised, in addition to private tub baths and a vapor bath, a wash-house for infected clothing, a wash-house for ordinary clothing, a reading room, and a superintendent's house. Since 1854, when the establishment was reconstructed, it has been maintained solely as a wash-house. Leaving maintenance charges out of the account, its cost to the corporation up to 1895, when it had accommodations for sixty washers, was £4,451.

According to the last available report of the Liverpool Baths Committee, viz.: that of 1895, this wash-house is kept open from Monday to Friday, inclusive, throughout the year, from 8 A.M. till 5 P.M. One penny is charged to washers for a single hour's use of washing and drying appliances; for two or more consecutive hours each washer is charged three half-pence per hour, including the first. In 1895 the regular weekly payroll was: One superintendent at 30s.; one money-taker at 17s.; one fireman at 27s.; and one helper at 10s.

The following table shows the number of washers using the Frederick-street wash-house, and the receipts and expenditures, by years, for the period 1890 to 1895, inclusive:

YEAR.	Number of Washers.	Receipts from Washers.	Expenditures.
		£ s. d.	£ s. d.
1890 . .	15,693	292 16 2	486 14 9
1891 . .	16,201	283 14 1	537 9 11
1892 . .	17,574	305 8 5	460 5 6
1893 . .	16,630	296 2 3	424 6 4
1894 . .	16,390	285 2 1	421 10 7
1895 . .	15,117	266 8 11	425 4 3
Total .	97,605	1,729 11 11	2,755 11 4

The excess of expenditures over receipts for the six years amounted to £1,025 19s. 5d.

In 1895 Liverpool had nine establishments that had been erected in accordance with the provisions of the Baths and Wash-houses Act of Parliament. Of these, as has been said, one was a wash-house only; one was an open-air pool; four were bath-houses without wash-houses; and three were combined bath and wash-houses—with accommodation in the aggregate for 211 washers. In all, the Liverpool establishments contained washing and drying accommodation for 277 washers. In 1895 the total number of washers who availed themselves of these accommodations was 156,375. Though the receipts and expenditures as regards bathers and washers are not separated in the report of the Baths Committee, it is noteworthy that none of the four establishments having wash-houses earned a surplus in 1895, and only one of them had a surplus, and that a small one, for the six years 1890-95.

The Corporation Baths and Wash-house, Tara street, Dublin, which dates from 1885-86 and cost £13,000, comprises two swimming-pools, thirty-seven private baths, and twenty washing-stalls.

Sir Charles A. Cameron, the Medical Officer of Health of Dublin, in his report for 1894 says:

"During the decade ended in 1894, 1,045,350 persons have obtained accommodation [in the Tara-street establishment]. Of this number 206,661 were females, of whom 68,085 had private reclining (tub) baths; 133,580 washed and dried wearing apparel, bedding, etc., in the public laundry, and 4,999 persons used mangling conveniences for which separate tickets are issued. Eight hundred and twenty-eight thousand six hundred and eighty males used the baths, of whom 366,933 took reclining baths; the remaining 461,756 men and boys used the swimming-basins. The total revenue derived from every source from the 1,045,350 visitors during the ten years amounted to £11,102 11s. 8d. . . . Public laundries, such as the one in Tara street, and which is conducted on the lines of similar establishments in Liverpool and London — except that in Dublin the charges for their use are nearly nominal — do not pay even the cost of their ordinary running expenses. As a set-off, however, it is clear that the habitual use of wash-houses makes the women resorting to them more cleanly in their persons and in their homes, and tends to develop habits of general cleanliness which are so conducive to the maintenance of health. . . . It is really a matter for congratulation that as many as 138,574 poor women have used the wash-house, yet as far as I can ascertain, not one case of disease being spread by it has as yet been traced."

The total number of washers in 1894 was 14,814, from whom £131 1s. 10½d. were received; besides these were 2,530 women who paid 1d. for use of a mangle, yielding £10 10s. 10d. The total income of the establishment for the year amounted to £1,198, and the total expenditure to £1,913.

It is somewhat remarkable that in the year 1894 the Frederick-street wash-house in Liverpool, with sixty washing-stalls, had only 1,585 more washers than the Tara-street wash-house with only one-third as many stalls. But the explanation is hardly to be found in the greater avidity of the Dublin women for washing, or in the slightly lower charges of the Dublin establishment.

The character of the location of a public laundry appears to determine very largely the extent of its usefulness. Mr. W. Thomson, the Superintendent of the Glasgow Corporation Baths and Wash-houses, in his report for 1892 touches on this point as follows:

"How the position of the wash-houses in relation to the surrounding dwellings affects the attendance, at least to some extent, may be seen from the following table:

"Drawings (i.e., receipts) from fifty-four washing-stalls at each establishment during the year, ending May 31, 1892:

Greenhead, district broken by Glasgow
Green and the Clyde £443
Woodside, surrounded by houses 539
Cranstonhill, broken by the Clyde 463
Townhead, broken and hilly district 323
Gorbals, broken by the Clyde 434

"The steep hills south of 'Townhead' probably help to account for the attendance at that establishment being lowest, as it is hard for women to climb them with their loads of clothes."

Glasgow, in 1892, had five combined public baths and wash-houses, with a total of 316 washing-stalls. Mr. Thomson concludes that the total number of washings in the year ending May, 1891, viz.: 155,221, were made by only 2,997 persons, who paid £2,483, equal to about 16s. 6d. per woman per annum, less than four pence each per week, and two hours per woman per week. Of the 546 women using the fifty-four washing-stalls at the Gorbals establishment, it was found that 286 lived within a quarter of a mile. Within a similar area outside the quarter-mile but within a half-mile radius, there resided but seventy-four, or 223 in an area three times larger, and only thirty-seven outside the half-mile radius.

Such facts indicate that public wash-houses in large cities, to fulfill their purpose should be fairly numerous and centrally located with reference to the people they are intended to serve; and the same may be said of public bath-houses. European experience clearly shows that given a certain sum for the erection of public baths and laundries, it is wiser to erect several relatively small establishments in congested districts than to devote the money to a single large and costly establishment.

The following statement is suggestive of the influence of local conditions upon the usefulness of public laundries: The average annual number of washings per stall (computed for a period of five years in each instance) is, for the five Glasgow establishments, 340; for the Tara-street wash-house, Dublin, 692; the corresponding figures for the four wash-houses of Liverpool are: At Steble street, 801; at Lodge lane, 656; at Burroughs Gardens, 614; and at Frederick street, 272.

The most extensive and costly public baths and wash-houses in Great Britain are found in London. The majority of the establishments in London, even the newest of them, contain a public wash-house. The official reports concerning these establishments seldom enable one to separate the original cost, or ordinary running expenses of the wash-house and bath-house sections.

On page 611, a cut is introduced to show the characteristic structural features of a combined bath and wash-house, viz., the establishment erected in 1892 by the Vestry of St. Mary, Stratford Bow, in East London, at a cost of more than $204,000. The baths comprise a first-class swimming-bath, ninety by thirty feet, with fifty-two dressing cabins, a second-class swimming-bath, eighty-six by thirty feet, with seventy-one dressing cabins; nineteen first-class private baths; thirty-eight second-class private baths; and a vapor bath.

The public laundry, having a separate entrance, has forty washing-troughs, forty drying-horses, together with steam driven wringers and mangles; ironing stoves, tables, etc. The charge is 1½d. per hour, which includes a plentiful supply of hot and cold water.

The following table is introduced to show the use made by bathers and washers of a typical modern London baths and wash-house. It will be seen that the ordinary establishment charges were not met by the total receipts from washers and bathers in any of the years 1893-96. That is usual, though a few cases might be cited, e.g., the Hamburg baths and wash-house, built in 1855, in which such establishments have earned a surplus. But the usefulness of public baths and laundries is hardly to be estimated in dollars and cents.

Besides Boston, certain American cities have entered tentatively on the policy of providing public baths, but so far as the writer is informed there is no city in the United States which contains a public wash-house, or provides laundry instruction in any of its public schools, as is done by many British school boards at the present time. The gospel of municipal cleanliness is yet in its infancy.

PUBLIC BATHS AND WASHHOUSES, ST. MARY STRATFORD BOW, LONDON, ENGLAND

PUBLIC BATHS AT CONEY ISLAND.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment of New York City has been asked for, and has agreed to set aside, an appropriation of $150,000 for the purpose of erecting a public bath-house at Coney Island, where the city owns property valued at about $1,300,000. Work will be begun at an early date, and it is designed to have the house ready for occupancy next June.

The plans for the proposed bath-house are on the same general principle as the Revere Beach baths. The pavilion will extend along the ocean-front for a distance of 6,000 feet, and the building will be of brick. Small piers will run out into the water to near the danger line, and on the extremity of each pier will be placed large electric lights, with reflectors, so that it will be possible to bathe in perfect safety at night. There will be free grand-stands for people to watch the bathers, and at either end of the pavilion will be shelters where refreshments will be served.

Provision will be made to accommodate 10,000 bathers at the same time. There will be a charge for suits and towels.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that on November 15, 1898, examination will be held at any city in the United States where the Commission has a Board of Examiners, to establish an eligible register from which a selection may be made to fill a vacancy in the position of ink maker, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Treasury Department, at a salary of $2,500 per annum.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements, without regard to race or to political or religious affiliations. All such citizens are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded and certified, with entire impartiality and wholly without regard to any consideration save their ability as shown by the grade they attain in the examination.

Persons desiring to compete should at once apply to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C., for application blanks, Form 304, and special vouchers, which should be properly executed and promptly forwarded to the Commission.

SEMI-ANNUAL STATISTICS OF SCHOOLS.

School Document No. 12, 1898, recently published by the School Committee, is entitled "Semi-Annual Statistics of the Boston Public Schools, June, 1898." The principal financial statements contained in the document are already in print (see THE CITY RECORD, page 198).

The results of the school census made in May, 1898, are given as follows:

Messages from the Mayor.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

A regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, at 3 P.M., on Monday, October 24, 1898, Chairman Dyar presiding, and all the members present.

The following messages from His Honor the Mayor were received:

Land on Canterbury Street.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 24, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Board of Health, stating that it no longer has need of the small-pox hospital on Canterbury street and suggesting that it be released from the care of this property. I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order placing this property under the custody of the Street Commissioners, who have charge of all unused city property.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

Old Court House, October 6, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: The Board of Health respectfully begs to state that, inasmuch as the Department will be able hereafter to accommodate in other places which are in its care the few cases of small-pox which occur, the expensive plant known as the small-pox hospital, on Canterbury street, may be discontinued without detriment to this Department.

This Board, therefore, would suggest that it be released from the care of this property at such early date as may be found expedient.

Very respectfully,
The Board of Health,
SAMUEL H. DURGIN, Chairman.

Ordered, That the land and building on Canterbury street, known as the small-pox hospital, now in the custody of the Board of Health, and for which the said Board has no further use, be placed under the charge of the Board of Street Commissioners.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Appointment of Weigher.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 24, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

Subject to your approval and confirmation, I hereby appoint John H. Brine a Weigher of Coal, for the term ending April 30, 1899.

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Laid over, under the law.

Union Freight Railroad Location.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 24, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I transmit herewith a relocation of the temporary location granted the Union Freight Railroad Company for tracks on Atlantic avenue. Under the law, this plan is to be filed with the City Clerk, and I recommend that he be instructed to place it on his files.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

Free Public Lectures in School-rooms.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 24, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I desire to call your attention to the conspicuous success of the system of free evening lectures for the people which has been carried on in the City of New York, under the charge of its Board of Education, and to urge the desirability of establishing similar courses of lectures here. In the ten years since the establishment of these lectures in New York City, the attendance has increased from 22,000 in 1889 to 698,000 in 1897, and the number of lectures given from 185 to 1,866. These lectures are given in the halls of the school-houses, and they result in more fully utilizing a plant, in the form of buildings and equipment, which represents an immense expenditure of public money, and in making the school-houses centres of a system of adult instruction as well as of the education of the young.

I believe that, if permission to use school halls for this purpose can be obtained from the School Committee, a beginning at least can be made in establishing in this city similar courses of free public lectures, given by lecturers of standing, and illustrated either by experiments or by the stereopticon, and I think that, if necessary, funds to start the experiment can be raised by private subscription. If this subject commends itself to your favorable attention, I desire to ask for the passage of the accompanying order, in order that the weight of the City Council may be placed behind a request to the School Committee to allow the use of school halls for this purpose. A full account of the development of the free lecture system in New York can be found in the October number of one of the popular magazines, and I desire to commend this to your attention. The experience of New York has shown that the expense of giving these lectures is very small, while the benefits which they confer, in affording opportunities for the enlightenment of the people, are very great.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City Council hereby requests the School Committee to allow the use of school-buildings for the giving of free public lectures, similar to those which are given in school-houses in New York City, and that His Honor the Mayor be authorized and requested to make arrangements for the giving of such lectures.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Rainsford Island — Heating, Etc.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 24, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Chairman of the Board of Trustees for Children which explains itself, and I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying loan order in accordance with the request.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Boston, October 24, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: The Board of Trustees for Children have felt absolutely obliged to expend a considerable sum during the last few months to make certain improvements at the House of Reformation on Rainsford Island, which seemed unavoidable for the continued operation of the institutions. The drains were found to be in a very bad state, and sanitary arrangements were entirely deficient. There was only a single steam boiler, and another was absolutely required to provide sufficient heat in this exposed situation. The Repairs Division of the Public Buildings Department has had charge of the work, and no improvements have been made which did not seem absolutely necessary.

As the maintenance appropriation of this Department is not sufficient to stand these extraordinary expenditures, the Board of Trustees respectfully requests you to ask the City Council for a loan appropriation of $6,500 to provide for these expenditures. They will be glad to show in greater detail, if desired, what these have been and to demonstrate their necessity.

Yours very truly,

H. A. LAMB, Chairman.

Ordered, That the Board of Trustees for Children be authorized to expend the sum of $6,500 for improvements in drainage, sanitary arrangements, steam boilers, etc., at the House of Reformation, Rainsford Island, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, to issue bonds of the City of Boston to said amount.

Read once, and laid over to the next meeting, under the rule.

There were present Messrs. Shuman, Sprague and Keany.

In the absence of the Secretary, Mr. Sprague was appointed Secretary pro tempore.

The regular monthly bills were submitted and approved, and it was voted to authorize the President to draw upon the City Treasurer for the amount thereof, $22,970.14.

It was voted to approve the regular monthly draft on account of New Buildings, amounting to $341.06, and to authorize the President to draw upon the City Treasurer for the amount thereof.

It was voted to pay to O'Rourke & Nelson the sum of $671.65, on account of their contract of May 16, 1898, for renewing mains and conduits.

Communications were received from the Superintendent, as follows:

First—Showing receipts from paying patients for the month of September. The same was ordered to be placed on file.

Second—A statement in regard to the condition of the appropriations and expenditures. After consideration and discussion, it was ordered to be placed on file.

Third—The Superintendent reported that there had been received at the hospital since the middle of August about 410 soldiers, about 100 of whom were remaining as patients; that the care of the soldiers had required in addition to the tents and booths the setting apart for their exclusive use of two wards for female patients; that the coming of colder weather would render it inexpedient to continue much longer the use of either booths or tents; that there was pressing need of the wards for the care of the patients to whom they were originally devoted; and that it would seem that the hospitals in the other portions of the State were now both adequate and willing to care for such soldiers belonging in their respective sections as should hereafter need medical and surgical treatment.

It was consequently voted that hereafter, except in cases of exigency, only such soldiers as are entitled to admission under the ordinary rules for admission will be received for treatment at the hospital.

It was voted that there be deducted from the contract of Kerrens Driscoll of August 14, 1897, for erection of the Laundry Building, the sum of $23 for difference between Thomas J. Hind's estimate of granolithic in old part and allowance in contract, the same having been accepted by Kerrens Driscoll.

MAYOR'S CIRCULAR.

The following circular was issued by His Honor Mayor Quincy on October 29, 1898:
Circular No. 48.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.

TO THE HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS:

GENTLEMEN: Please send me a list of any officers or employees of your department who were given leave of absence to serve in the army or navy during the late war with Spain, together with a statement of the salary or pay which each would have received during such absence, also stating in each case whether or not some other person was temporarily employed to fill the vacancy at the expense of the department. This information is asked for in connection with an order passed by the City Government authorizing the City Auditor "to allow for payment, and the City Treasurer to pay, in part compensation for services rendered, the salaries and wages of city employees, during leave of absence, while serving in the army or navy during the Spanish war." This order I have allowed to take effect without my signature, as a mere expression of opinion on the part of the City Council, the Corporation Counsel having advised me that the order has no legal effect, as the payment or withholding of salaries is wholly under the control of the Executive.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT.

The Thirty-first Annual Report of the expenses and operation of the Engineering Department, for the year ending January 31, 1898, has recently been issued. The report constitutes City Document No. 12.

The office of City Engineer was established by ordinance on October 13, 1850, and by Chapter 449 of the Acts of 1895. His duties include the designing and superintending of the construction of new bridges, retaining walls, city wharves, and such other public engineering works as the City Council may authorize; the making of such surveys, plans, estimates, statements and descriptions, and taking such levels as the City Government, or any of its departments or committees, may require; the custody of all surveys and plans relating to the laying out, locating anew, altering, widening or discontinuing of streets; and the new engineering construction for all departments of the city. He must be consulted on all work where the advice of a civil engineer would be of service.

The Architectural Division was detached from the Public Buildings Department on January 13, 1898, and placed under the Engineering Department. The work of this division is that of a consulting or expert force. It may be called upon by any department for technical advice on matters relating to building, heating, or ventilation. Plans for work to be done, in certain cases, by the Repairs Division of the Public Buildings Department are prepared by this division, which is also charged with the general supervision of work done by the Repairs Division.

Following is the financial statement of the Department for the fiscal year:

Amount of appropriation . . .	$72,000 00
Transferred from surplus revenue, . . .	372 32

Amount expended for 1897-98 . . .	$72,372 32
-----------------------------------	-------------

A comprehensive detailed list of bridges with their locations is given, of which the following is a recapitulation:

Number wholly supported by Boston . .	64
Number of which Boston supports that part within its limits	18
Number of which Boston pays a part of the cost of maintenance	10
Total	92

Of this number twenty-seven bridges are over navigable waters, each being provided with a draw. Thirty-two bridges are supported by railroad corporations.

The annual inspection of all these bridges has been made, and the report contains data in connection with the erection of each and their present condition and needs.

Owing to new legislation and to the great amount of work done by the Paving and Sewer Divisions of the Street Department, and to the extensive surveys made for the laying out of Columbia road, the work of the Surveying Division has increased materially. During the year, 9,002 orders for property owners and holders and the various city departments were attended to, as against 8,419 orders in the preceding year. Thirteen hundred and twenty-six blue prints have been made. Plans for 18,560 feet of brook takings and 5,750 feet of sewer takings have also been made. A large amount of paving work has been measured by the Surveying Division.

The reports of the City Engineer to the Water Commissioner, to the Board of Park Commissioners and to the Street Department are embodied in his general report. A full report on miscellaneous work done by the Department during 1897, including reports on Canal bridge, Congress-street grade crossing, Dorchester avenue and Summer-street extension, and East Boston ferries is also made.

The appendix of the report covers the following:

A table showing the widths of openings for vessels in all bridges provided with draws in the City of Boston; a list of accident and other plans made for the Law Department during the year; a list of plans and profiles made by the Surveying Division; a list of edgestone and sidewalk assessment plans made for the Paving Division; a list showing the property of the Engineering Department at its main office, together with statistics regarding tides at the Port, and the annual reports of the Engineering Department.

THE NEW YORK FREE LECTURE SYSTEM.

The Legislature of New York, in January, 1888, passed an act authorizing the Board of Education to provide free lectures for working men and women in New York City, and directing that $15,000 be appropriated for that purpose.

The first course given under the act, numbered 186. They were given in six public school-houses during the first quarter of the year 1889, to audiences which included upwards of 22,000 persons, or 119 on the average. The lectures related to selected topics in physiology, hygiene, physics, history and political science. In the interval, October, 1889, to April, 1890, a second course of 329 lectures were given along similar lines, at seven centres. The total attendance was disappointing, as it showed an increase of less than 1,500, against an increase of over 76 per cent. in the number of lectures provided.

The Board of Education thereupon acted wisely, as the event proved, in transferring the management of the free lectures to the people from a committee to a single, responsible person, Dr. Henry Leipziger, who is still Supervisor of Lectures.

Dr. Leipziger's measures for advertising and popularizing the lectures met with striking success. In the first year of his management—though the lectures given were less in number by 144 than in the previous year—the total attendance rose from 23,000 to 78,000, and the average attendance per lecture from seventy-one to 423.

The statements and tables which follow are compiled from Dr. Leipziger's "Report of the Free Lectures to the People," to the School Board for the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, for the season of 1897-98. Between October 18, 1897, and

May 1, 1898, free lectures to the number of 1,595 were given in forty-one different places (thirty-one of which were public school-houses). Of these lectures 1,121 were illustrated with the stereopticon, eighty-seven were illustrated by experiments, and 387 were not illustrated.

The total number of persons who attended the lectures was 509,571, an increase of 82,644 over the year before. The lectures were given on 152 different evenings. An analysis of the attendance by evenings is shown in the following tabular presentation:

Lectures.		Total Attendance.	Average Attendance.
On Mondays and Thursdays . . .	50	333,896	6,677
On Tuesdays . . .	25	48,995	1,959
On Wednesdays . . .	25	14,353	574
On Fridays . . .	26	35,412	1,362
On Saturdays . . .	26	76,915	2,958
Totals	152	509,571

The maximum attendance on Monday and Thursday lectures was 8,803 on January 17, and the minimum 3,072 on November 1. The maximum attendance on Wednesday lectures was 1,087 on February 9, and the minimum 129 on November 3.

As regards locality, the greatest total attendance was 40,106 at the Cooper Union, the least being 424 at the Chapel of Grace Parish. The maximum attendance on lectures given in any of the thirty-one public school-houses was 17,762 at Public School No. 23, corner of Mulberry and Bayard streets, and the minimum 1,977 at Public School No. 50, at 211 East Twentieth street.

The lecturers numbered 227, and the subjects treated amounted to 375, as is shown in the following summary:

Subjects.		Lecturers.
American History and Civics . . .	81	46
Travel	74	69
Natural Science	61	41
Literature	45	24
Music	31	9
Art	30	11
Physiology and Hygiene	30	18
Social Science	23	9
	375	227

One hundred and forty-one lectures were given in courses of from three to ten lectures each. The report under consideration contains no financial statements, but the price per lecture is $10, we believe. In 1896-97, the sum appropriated by the New York Board of Education for Free Lectures was in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Dr. Leipziger notes an increased interest in the lectures arranged in courses. "At these courses," he says, "the auditors were regular in attendance. After each lecture a discussion was held, lasting from half an hour to an hour. At three centres the experiment was begun with what may be styled the 'platform library.' A selection of books relating to the particular subject being treated was placed on a table on the platform, and at the conclusion of the lecture was distributed to such of the auditors as desired. The demand for these books far exceeded the supply."

Dr. Leipziger is of the opinion that the lecture work is so well established, particularly at those centres where lectures have been given for nine years, that the time is ripe for undertaking work partaking of the nature of serious study. He therefore recommends that "during the coming season (1898-99) at such centres as the Supervisor of Lectures shall select, the entire season be devoted to lectures on not more than two subjects, i.e., if lectures be held on Monday and Thursday. The Monday lectures to be devoted to History, for example, the Thursday lectures to be devoted to Science, and that special efforts be made to encourage collateral reading from recommended books, and that at the end of the term papers be submitted or inquiries be instituted to ascertain the results of said lectures. . . . I would suggest the giving of some lectures on such topics as General Sanitation, The Laws of Health, and the History of the Government of the United States, in the foreign languages. The three languages which I would select would be Italian, Hebrew Jargon and German. . . . I would suggest that at one or two centres the experiment be made of forming people's choruses, and that one night be set apart for instruction in singing."

The following table shows the most salient facts regarding the growth of the New York free lecture system during the ten years of its existence, viz., (1) the number of lectures provided by the School Board of New York City, and (2) the number of persons who attended, by years, in the period 1889-90—1896-97:

* Decrease.

For the whole United States the average charge per family in cities having public water-works is $21.55; in those having private works, $30.82—a difference of $9.27 per family, or 43 per cent. in favor of public works.

ACT AUTHORIZING FREE EVENING LECTURES AT PUBLIC EXPENSE.

Chapter 208 of the Acts of 1893 of the Legislature of Massachusetts reads as follows:

An act authorizing cities and towns to provide free evening lectures.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. The school committees of cities and towns maintaining free evening schools are hereby authorized to employ competent persons to deliver lectures, on the natural sciences, history and kindred subjects, in such places as said committees may provide.

Sect. 2. Said committees are hereby authorized to provide cards or pamphlets giving the titles and names of authors of books of reference, contained in the local public libraries, on the subject matter of said lectures. (Approved April 15, 1893).

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

A regular meeting of the School Committee of the City of Boston was held in the School Committee Chamber, Mason-street Building, at 7.30 P.M., Tuesday, October 25, 1898, with President Huggan in the chair, and all members present except Messrs. Bassett, Davison, Fleischer and Strange.

Under suspension of the rules, it was Ordered, That the Board authorize the employment of additional teachers in excess of the number or rank allowed under the rules, as presented by the Superintendent at the last meeting.

The appointments, confirmations and transfers presented by the Superintendent at the last meeting were approved.

The following order, laid over at the last meeting, was passed:

Ordered, That of the amount granted to the School Committee under Chapter 408 of the Acts of 1895, as amended by Chapter 442 of the Acts of 1897, the following appropriations be made:

Temporary wooden buildings, furnishing, $1,800.

The Chair read the following communications from His Honor the Mayor:

(1.) OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 25, 1898.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

I desire to notify your body that the permanent bath-house on Dover street was opened for the free use of the public on October 15, and to suggest the desirability of requesting the teachers in the public schools within a reasonable distance of this location to encourage its regular use by such of their pupils as are not provided with good bathing facilities at home.

The Bath Trustees and myself desire to encourage the largest use of public bathing facilities for children, as well as by adults, and with this object in view it has been decided that, while a charge of one cent is ordinarily made for the use of a towel, and the same charge for a small piece of soap, on Saturday afternoons these will be furnished free to school-children. I trust that the opening of this finely equipped public bath-house will lead the teachers of our public schools to place more emphasis in future upon the importance of personal cleanliness from a moral, as well as from a hygienic standpoint, in order that our school-children may be educated to make full use of the excellent bathing facilities which the city is now supplying. All of the teachers of the public schools have been invited to inspect the new bath-house on Dover street, and the Bath Trustees and myself earnestly invite their co-operation and will welcome any suggestions from them as to the further development or better administration of our public bathing facilities. Besides the bath-house on Dover street, facilities for bathing are also provided in the public gymnasium on Paris street, East Boston, and they will also be provided before long at the gymnasium on Commonwealth Park, South Boston, which is nearing completion, and at the swimming-pool, the construction of which will soon be begun, on East Ninth street, Ward 15, South Boston.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Rules and Regulations.

(2.) OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 25, 1898.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

I desire to call the attention of your body to the very successful results which have been attained in the City of New York by the free courses of public lectures, attended last year by nearly 700,000 persons, which have been carried on for ten years under the direction of the Board of Education, and I transmit herewith for your information, an article from a recent magazine giving a history of these lectures, with their scope and purpose.

I wish to direct your particular attention to the point that such courses of lectures afford extensive and varied opportunities for the continuance of education in adult life, and that the plan involves a much larger utilization, with a slight additional cost, of a very expensive school-plant. In view of the very large sums of money which this city has invested, and is still investing, in school-buildings, it is certainly important from a mere economical standpoint, that these should be put to the largest possible use or the benefit of the community. It hardly seems intelligent to confine the use of expensive school-buildings, many of them containing halls well adapted for lectures, to the hours when the schools are in session; and if there is among the people of this city as much of a thirst for knowledge as has been demonstrated to exist among the people of New York—and we surely have no reason to doubt that this is the case—it would certainly seem wise to extend very greatly, in every section of the city, the facilities for public instruction, and to offer them to adults as well as to the young, when it can be done at such a comparatively small additional expenditure.

I do not overlook the very admirable and comprehensive work which is being accomplished by the evening schools conducted by your Board, but it seems to me that their work is different from that of the popular lecture, and that there are a large number of people who would attend interesting and instructive lectures near their own homes, given by men of recognized standing in their respective branches of study and illustrated by experiments or stereopticon views, who do not care to take formal lessons in an evening school, and are unable to attend at a central point such courses of lectures as are given by the Lowell Institute.

It will doubtless be stated that, however desirable it might be to add such courses of lectures to the instruction now given under the direction of the School Committee, its funds do not permit the undertaking of this work at the present time. In order to obviate this difficulty, without conceding that it is a real one except for the balance of this financial year, and to make it possible to secure at least a small beginning during the coming winter in work of this character. I desire to ask your Board to give its permission to have some of the school-halls in different sections of the city used for this purpose; and if such permission is given, I will at least make the attempt to secure, either by appropriation from the City Council or by private subscription, sufficient funds to start the experiment, and I will further undertake to organize an advisory committee to secure lecturers and make the necessary arrangements, unless your Board desires to place the matter at once under the charge of a committee of its own number. I make this suggestion with no desire to enter, as the executive head of the city, a field which may be considered as coming within the scope of the general powers and duties of the School Committee, in its relation to public education, but merely with the object of getting this work started in some manner within the next few months, so that Boston may be the second city—as the work already done by New York prevents her from being the first—to establish in this manner a comprehensive system of adult instruction.

In some parts of the city it may be possible to use ward-rooms or other public halls which can be had without the payment of rent, but in many districts the only halls suitable for such a purpose are to be found in the school-buildings, and it therefore seems necessary to make this request for their use. I have already called this matter to the attention of the City Council, and have requested that body to join with me in this application for their use.

I trust that the School Committee will recognize the value and importance of this work, and, if it cannot inaugurate it directly itself, will be willing to give its hearty co-operation towards starting it.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Evening Schools.

The resignations of three teachers, presented by the Superintendent of Schools, were accepted.

The Superintendent presented, for the approval of the Board, the appointments of three teachers; the appointments of seven teachers on probation; transfers of two teachers; the confirmation of appointments of six teachers, and the appointments of nine teachers in evening schools—all of which were laid over, under the rule.

Leave of absence was granted to five teachers.

Mr. Eaton, for the Committee on New Buildings, reported that, on July 19, the Board approved plans and specifications, prepared by James Mulcahy, architect, for a new eight-room primary school-house on Munroe street, Roxbury. In due course, your committee advertised for bids for the construction of this building, which were opened on August 22. But four proposals were received, the lowest of which was for $63,396, an amount considerably in excess of the appropriation of $50,000. Your committee, acting in accordance with their best judgment, rejected these bids, and directed the architect to prepare an entirely new set of plans, for a building to contain the same number of rooms, but of less cost. This has been done, and your committee now present the new plans for the approval of the Board, and ask the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the new plans and specifications for a primary school-house on Munroe street, prepared by James Mulcahy, architect, having been approved by the Superintendent of Schools, be accepted, and the same are hereby approved by this Board, and the said James Mulcahy is hereby selected and employed to supervise the construction and erection of said school-house in accordance with said plans and specifications; and the Committee on New Buildings are hereby authorized to advertise for proposals to construct and erect the same, substantially in accordance with said plans and specifications.

Passed.

Mr. Eaton, for the same committee, to whom was referred, October 11, a communication from the Common Council, through His Honor the Mayor, asking what progress, if any, has been made in the erection of the proposed high school for South Boston, reported that the contract for the construction of this building has recently been executed, and your committee anticipate that work on the site will be begun in a few days.

Accepted, and ordered to be sent to the Common Council.

On motion of Mr. Eaton, the report and order presented by the Committee on New Buildings at the last meeting, with reference to an appropriation to cover the cost of a portion of the Elm-street site, Charlestown, were taken from the table. The order is as follows:

Ordered, That of the $35,812 appropriated April 26, 1898, for new primary school-house, Charlestown site, the following transfer be made:

Elm street, Charlestown, primary school-house site, $10,291.40.

The report was accepted, and the order passed.

On motion of Mr. Anderson, it was ordered:

(1.) That the Committee on New Buildings be instructed as soon as practicable to report to this Board:

First—A list of the appropriations made from the funds provided under Chapter 405 of the Acts of 1895 and other subsequent acts of the Legislature under which funds have been provided for this Board and grouping such appropriations as to show when made, for what made, and the total amount for each lot taken or furnished, building erected or furnished, or both.

Second—The lots taken or purchased or both, since the passage of said act, whether the latter was obtained by purchase or by taking or both, the assessed valuations of the various parcels taken and the prices paid for the said parcels; whether the prices paid were paid by agreement with this Board, with the Street Commissioners under the advice of the Law Department, or on verdicts by juries and the excess, if any, in the prices paid over the assessed valuations of each school-house lot taken.

Third—If the foregoing should show that the prices paid were largely in excess of the assessed valuations, the reasons why, in the judgment of said committee, such excess has been paid.

Fourth—Whether any legislation, and, if so, what legislation is necessary or expedient to enable this Board better and more economically to obtain proper lots and erect thereon proper buildings for school-house purposes.

(2.) That the Committee on School-houses be instructed, as soon as practicable, to report to this Board whether any legislation is needed, and if so what, in order to enable this Board better and more economically to provide for the repair, warming, cleaning and ventilation of the several school-houses.

(3.) That the Superintendent of Streets be requested to grade Sharon street, or to provide a plank-walk or other facilities by which reasonable access may be obtained to said school-building in stormy weather.

(4.) That the Helman-Taylor Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, be permitted to give an exhibition of their collection of pictures suitable for school-room decoration in either hall of the Latin-English High School Building, provided that the same be without expense to the city, that it be free to the public, and that no sales be made from the collection.

Mr. Courtney offered the following:

Ordered, That the orders passed by this Board, May 24, that on and after the first day of September, 1899, the Boston Normal School be discontinued, and that the Secretary of the State Board of Education of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts be informed that it is the sense of this Board that a normal school in-lieu of the normal school now maintained by the City of Boston should be established and maintained by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, be, and the same hereby are, rescinded.

Mr. Anderson moved to lay the motion on the table.

This was defeated on a ye and nay vote—Yeas, 9; nays, 11.

On motion of Mr. Paul, the matter was specially assigned to the next meeting, by a vote of 11 yeas to 9 nays.

Mr. McDonald, for the Committee on Courses of Study and Text-books, to whom was referred, October 11, an order relative to the authorization of certain text-books in the high schools which are already authorized for use in the Latin schools, reported that they have considered the matter, and recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That Moulton & Collar's Preparatory Latin Composition, Oman's History of Greece, and Allen's A Short History of the Roman People, be authorized for use as text-books in the high schools, to be furnished only for such pupils as are preparing for college.

The report was accepted.

On motion of Mr. McDonald, it was Ordered, That a special committee of three be appointed by the Chair to take charge of all matters relating to the exhibition of the work of the public schools in the city at the Paris Exposition during the year 1900.

On motion of Mr. Gallivan, it was Ordered, That Sarah A. Gallagher, grammar assistant in the Norcross District, be granted leave of absence at half pay, from November 1, 1898, until August 31, 1899.

On motion of Mr. Hubbard, the following order was taken from the table and passed:

Ordered, That there be paid to Joseph B. Fleming, janitor of the Hancock School-house, the sum of twenty-five (25) dollars for extra services performed during the school year 1897-98.

On motion of Mr. Calderwood, it was Ordered, That the Committee on High Schools be authorized to employ a laboratory assistant for classes in chemistry and physics in the English High School to date from September 6, 1898, at a salary not to exceed five hundred (500) dollars per annum.

Messages from the Mayor.TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

A regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, at 3 P.M., on Monday, October 31, 1898, Chairman Dyar presiding, and all the members present.

The following messages were received from His Honor the Mayor:

Revised Grade of Hamilton Street — Veto.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 28, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I return herewith, without my signature, the order passed by your body establishing a revised grade of Hamilton street, for the reason that the Street Commissioners have since concluded that the desired result can be obtained without the revision of this grade, and have prepared new plans for the purpose. Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The Board refused to pass the order, in opposition to the Mayor's objection.

Remodelling of old Fire-boat.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 21, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Fire Commissioner in reply to your request for information as to when the work of remodelling the old fire-boat (Engine 31) will be completed.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE FIRE COMMISSIONER.

Boston, October 29, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor:

SIR: Referring to the request of the Honorable Board of Aldermen regarding fire-boat (Engine 31), I have to respectfully report that, through my error in judgment, her completion has been delayed while three different single wheels have been applied, tried and found inadequate to handle the new and shallow hull to my satisfaction. Machinery for twin screws has been built, and is now in process of substitution for the old, which when perfected, will, I trust, prove satisfactory during the coming month.

Your obedient servant,

H. S. RUSSELL, Commissioner.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

List of Constables Complete.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 31, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

Subject to your approval and confirmation, I hereby appoint Frank Yennaco a constable of the City of Boston, for the term ending April 30, 1899.

I desire to call attention to the fact that this appointment, if confirmed, will bring the number of constables up to 100, which is the limit established by me, according to my message sent to the Board of Aldermen April 25, 1898.

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Appointment laid over to the next meeting, under the law.

Use of Voting Machines — Veto.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 31, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I regret to feel obliged to return herewith without my approval the order passed October 24, providing for the purchase of voting machines, for the reason that, according to an opinion given by the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth since the passage of the order, the use of such machines in connection with casting the vote for members of Congress would probably be illegal, and that the Board of Election Commissioners does not believe that the first trial of the voting machines should be made at a municipal election, when it might be possible for its workings to affect the general results in the city at large.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The Board refused to pass the order, in opposition to the Mayor's objections.

Brookline Gas Light Contract.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 31, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith for your information a communication received by me from the President of the Brookline Gas Light Company, together with my reply thereto, and a copy of the amendment made to the contract between the city and said company.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

BROOKLINE GAS LIGHT COMPANY.

Boston, October 29, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: In the contracts between the City of Boston and the Boston Gas Light Company and the other gas companies furnishing gas for street lamps and public buildings (excepting the Brookline Gas Light Company), under the date of August 17, 1893, it is provided that the several companies may furnish either water gas of twenty-five candle power, or coal gas of eighteen candle power.

In the contract between the City of Boston and the Brookline Gas Light Company, under date of February 27, 1893, no provision is made for the substitution of coal gas for water gas.

In all probability it was at that time not considered possible for the gas company to supply coal gas of eighteen candle power at the prices mentioned in the aforesaid agreement; nor until recently has it since been possible for any company to make this change without either increasing the price of gas to the people, or involving a great and serious loss to itself; but the Brookline Company has recently made a contract with the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Company, by which it is to be supplied with coal gas of eighteen candle power at a price which permits the substitution of this gas for water gas; and it therefore asks that permission to supply coal gas, as provided in the contracts with the other gas companies, be extended by the City of Boston to the Brookline Gas Light Company.

The coal gas to be thus furnished will contain less than 10 per cent. of carbonic oxide, and this change will meet the earnest approval of the public who are familiar with the better sanitary character of the coal gas which it is proposed to furnish in comparison with water gas.

If your assent be given to this change, it is the intention of this company as soon as the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Company is ready to furnish the supply of gas already contracted for, to reduce the price of coal gas used for fuel purposes and supplied by separate meter, to seventy-five cents per thousand cubic feet; when used for power purposes in gas engines up to 100 horse-power, the price will be one and one-fifth cents per horse-power hour; in gas engines from 100 to 200 horse-power one and one-tenth cents per horse-power hour; in gas engines of 200 horse-power and upwards one cent per horse-power hour.

In order that it may be clearly understood how the cost of power at the prices mentioned compares with the cost of power furnished in ways now employed, I would say that the present net cost of electric power varies from seven and one-half to three and one-half cents per horse-power hour, depending on the quantity used. The cost of fuel for a steam-engine on a basis of six pounds of coal per horse-power hour is precisely the equivalent of one and one-fifth cents per horse-power hour; but the small engines in general use throughout the city do not show this economy in the fuel consumption. I am informed on authority that the average small steam-engine runs more nearly to ten pounds of coal per horse-power hour of actual working time, which would make the cost of fuel two cents per horse-power hour, as against one and one-fifth cents, the maximum charge for gas for power purposes in gas engines.

In addition, I may call your attention to the fact that the substitution of gas for soft coal will largely abate the smoke nuisance, which is now so prevalent, and also will enable the industries which use small amounts of power oftentimes at intervals, to be able to use and pay for such an amount of fuel as required for the actual time when its machinery is in operation. Of the great advantage of this reduction in the cost of power to the thousands of industrial enterprises in the city, I need not dwell, as you are entirely familiar with the subject, nor need I allude further to the æsthetic and sanitary advantages of substituting smokeless fuel for the kinds now in use.

In addition, it is the intention of this company to furnish the gas for house-heating purposes in furnaces, at the special rate of fifty cents per thousand cubic feet. This especially low price is made because the introduction of gas for house furnaces will be a new departure more radical than its use for fuel or for power. It will be so important a change, however, and one in every way desirable for the public benefit, that the very low rate of fifty cents per thousand feet will be made. Of course this consumption of gas, if adopted by the public, will mean an enormous output. The management of the Brookline Company is so confident that once adopted this system will be most popular, that it is determined to put gas for this use at such a price as will make its advantages clearly apparent.

I think I may count upon your thoughtful approval of these steps, which I believe are of vast importance to the prosperity, comfort and health of our citizens, and that their reception and use of gas at these prices will more than justify the very large expenditure of capital now being made in order that it may be manufactured and served them as I have above indicated.

As to the time when this substitution of coal gas for water gas will be made, it is understood that if no unforeseen obstacles are encountered, the gas will be furnished early in the spring; but whether the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Company is ready to supply this company with gas, the price of gas will be changed as indicated above.

Very respectfully yours,

HENRY M. WHITNEY, President.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 29, 1898.

HENRY M. WHITNEY, Esq., President
Brookline Gas Light Company, Boston.

DEAR SIR: I have your letter of October 29, putting in writing the proposition which you made to me verbally some time since respecting an amendment of the contract between the City of Boston and the Brookline Gas Light Company to allow the company to furnish coal gas of eighteen candle power, instead of water gas of twenty-five candle power, if such amendment of its contract is assented to, and also stating certain reduced prices at which this company will be prepared to supply gas for fuel and power purposes as soon as the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Company is ready to furnish gas from its works at Everett, in accordance with a contract already made. Since you suggested this amendment to the contract, which merely allows the Brookline Company to do what the Boston Gas Light Company and other companies are authorized to do under their existing contracts with the city, I have carefully looked into the matter, and I can see no reasonable objection to giving the Brookline Company the same right in this respect which is allowed to other companies; while, on the other hand, there are important advantages to the public in the proposed substitution. I am quite ready to allow the change, and I have now given my approval to such an amendment of the contract. Our Board of Health strongly endorses the desirability of this change, and I think that no one familiar with the respective qualities of coal gas and water gas will question that the change from the latter to the former will be in the interest of the public health and safety.

I note with much satisfaction the reductions which your company proposes to make in the price of gas for fuel and power purposes. I have for some time believed that the furnishing of cheap gas for fuel and power, to displace coal, was of enormous industrial and social importance, and I fully coincide in your belief that the announcement of the new prices will be "most welcome to the business interests of the city." The experience of communities which have enjoyed the benefits of cheap natural gas has fully confirmed the conclusion, obvious enough as a matter of theory, that coal burned under boilers or in furnaces, in isolated plants, is a crude and objectionable source of power and heat, compared with gas distributed through mains. If the heat value of a given quantity of coal can be secured to a considerable extent in the form of gas, the advantages of the latter, in respect to economy of transportation to the point of consumption and of labor and care required to utilize it, are beyond dispute. Cheap fuel is the basis of successful industry, and I am convinced that the use of gas-engines for power, at the price which your company proposes to charge for gas for such use, should result in the displacement of steam engines to a considerable extent, and in stimulating many small manufacturing and industrial enterprises in this city and vicinity.

The abatement in some measure of the smoke nuisance may be a minor consideration in comparison with the great economical importance of a cheapening of fuel, but it is no unimportant one, and the direct saving to the city through a diminution in the amount of engine and furnace ashes to be removed, to say nothing of the saving of some of the wear and tear of our streets by heavy coal teams, is by no means insignificant. There are many points at which I have no doubt that the various city departments will find it economical and advantageous to use gas at such prices for heat and power where coal is now employed.

No one can visit the immense works which the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Light Company is now building at Everett without being impressed with the great magnitude and importance of its operations, and with the extensive facilities which it will have for producing gas on an enormous scale and at a very low price. The successful accomplishment of the comprehensive plans which have been formulated, and in part carried out, so largely through your own foresight and enterprise, would, in my opinion, be of such great and far-reaching advantage to Boston that I shall always be glad to give any assistance in my power, either officially or personally, to promote their success.

Yours very truly,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The proposed amendment reads as follows: The Brookline Gas Light Company, a corporation duly established under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, of the first part, and the City of Boston, a municipal corporation in said Commonwealth, of the second part, on this thirty-first day of October, 1898, hereby agree as follows:

The contract between the parties hereto, dated February 27, 1893, is hereby modified by adding at the end of the sentence now reading "All gas furnished to be of not less than twenty-five candle power," the words "unless coal gas shall be delivered, in which case the candle power shall not be less than eighteen."

In witness whereof, the said Brookline Gas Light Company has caused its corporate seal to be hereto affixed and these presents to be signed in its name by Henry M. Whitney, its President, and the City of Boston has caused its corporate seal to be hereto affixed and these presents to be signed by James Donovan, its Superintendent of Lamps, on the day and date above written.

A regular meeting of the Common Council was held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, on Thursday, October 27, 1898, at 7.45 P.M., President Connolly in the chair.

The following messages were received from His Honor the Mayor:

Real Estate Taken by Boston Terminal Company.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 20, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

In accordance with the order referred to me by your body, on July 7, requesting the Street Commissioners, through me, "to report to the City Council before October 27 a list of the owners of all real estate taken by the Boston Terminal Company and for which the City of Boston may have paid to the date of the report, the assessed valuation of such real estate in lots, and the prices paid by said Company," I transmit herewith a communication from the Street Commissioners, with a table containing the information called for.

In view of the fact that settlements have not been made in quite a number of similar cases of taking by the Terminal Company, acting on behalf of the city as well as on its own behalf, both the Street Commissioners and myself have serious doubts whether it is for the interest of the city in connection with these cases to make this information public before they come to trial; these considerations have, I am informed, been fully explained by the Street Commissioners to the introducer of the order, but as they have not influenced him to withdraw the inquiry, and as the withholding of the information would doubtless be used as a basis for an attack upon the Street Commissioners and myself, we have thought it best to furnish the information requested, placing upon the introducer of the order of inquiry the responsibility for any prejudicial effect which the statement may have upon the unsettled cases which are still pending.

In furnishing this information, I think it proper, in order to remove any ground for honest misapprehension on the part of any one, to briefly summarize the history of these settlements. By the provisions of Chapter 516 of the Acts of 1896, being the Act to Provide for The New Southern Union Station, the City of Boston was required to widen Cove street, as it then existed, to the width of at least 100 feet, and to extend it at the new width to Summer street, and the Boston Terminal Company was authorized to take any land east of the westerly line of Cove street extended to Federal street. The theory of the act was that it would be cheaper to have a single taking made of all estates required to be taken either for the use of the Terminal Company or for the widening of Cove street, rather than to have separate takings of parts of the same estate by the city and by the Terminal Company, and as by far the larger part of the aggregate area of such estates was required for the use of the Terminal Company, the simplest and most economical method of condemnation was for that company to acquire all of such estates and then transfer to the city such portion as was required for the widening and extension of Cove street. It will be seen by the accompanying table that the Terminal Company took in the estates enumerated 452,558 feet of land, and afterwards transferred 146,293 feet to the city.

Section 14 of said act expressly provides that the Terminal Company should convey in fee to the city "all the land . . . required for the laying out, widening and extension of Cove street and Summer street at its actual reasonable cost to said company."

Under this provision the city had nothing to do directly with fixing the price which such land should be settled for, but could raise the question, when called upon to make a proportionate payment to the Terminal Company for a portion of an estate, whether the settlement price was a reasonable one. In view of this provision, it was arranged between the Terminal Company and the city that no settlements should be definitely agreed to by the Terminal Company until accepted on behalf of the city by the Board of Street Commissioners. At the time when these takings and most of the settlements were made, the Street Commissioners had full and exclusive general jurisdiction over all cases of settlements of damages for land taken, and the city had no other official who was charged with any duty of this character, and this matter therefore came within their jurisdiction. Settlements of land damages did not at that time require to be approved by the Mayor, and it was not until the passage of Chapter 202 of the Acts of 1897, approved March 25 of that year, that such approval was required. Accordingly, the settlements included in the accompanying statement were agreed to by the Street Commissioners before they were made by the Terminal Company, and thus became binding upon the city. I may add that, in addition to my belief that the Street Commissioners would properly safeguard the interests of the city in these settlements, I assume as a matter of course, that the Terminal Company would carefully protect its own financial interests by agreeing only to such settlements as were clearly advantageous.

While I have never seen any reason to doubt that the representatives of the Terminal Company, who were entrusted with this delicate and important duty, endeavored faithfully to protect its financial interests in connection with these settlements, and to make none which were not considered more advantageous than valuations which juries would be likely to fix, and while I have every faith that the Street Commissioners performed their duties in passing upon proposed settlements in a careful and conscientious manner, I think it proper to state frankly that I concluded last spring, after the settlements included in the accompanying statement had all been made, both from my own analysis of the matter and from the advice given me by the real estate expert of the Mayor's office, Mr. John C. Cobb, that the general basis might be somewhat high. I, therefore, concluded, particularly in view of the provisions of Chapter 202 of the Acts of 1897, giving the Mayor power to approve awards of the Street Commissioners, and in view of the further fact that I then had a regular real estate expert to call upon, and furthermore, after consultation with the City Solicitor, who was to try the unsettled cases on which suit had been brought, that I would adopt a different procedure as to the settlements still remaining to be made.

Accordingly, on April 20 of this year, I addressed a letter to the Boston Terminal Company, notifying them that under the provisions of Section 14 of the Southern Union Station Act, I reserved the right to pass personally upon any further settlements, and that the city would not be bound to accept them as a basis of "reasonable cost" until I had done so.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Legality of Sunday Concerts.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 20, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Corporation Counsel giving his opinion upon the question whether "the City of Boston may engage in the giving of any entertainment at which an admission fee is to be charged." As the order containing the inquiry doubtless had reference to the Sunday evening concerts given in Music Hall, I desire to state that these concerts are not given directly by the city, although they are under the direction of the members of the Music Commission, and that the expenses of these concerts are not paid out of the City Treasury. The members of the Music Commission have believed, and I have fully coincided with that opinion, that the general purposes of their appointment in connection with the development of good popular music in this city would be promoted by the giving of these concerts.

MAYOR'S CIRCULAR.

Circular No. 49.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.

TO THE HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS:

GENTLEMEN: You are hereby directed to allow all men in the employ of the city, half-holidays on Election Days, November 8, 1898, and December 13, 1898, without loss of pay, as part compensation for their services.

DISPOSITION OF FRANKLIN FUND.

At a meeting of the Common Council, held on Thursday evening, November 3, 1898, a message to the City Council was received from His Honor the Mayor, transmitting a copy of the following communication regarding the disposition of the Franklin Fund: (For message, see page 640.)

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 2, 1898.

TO THE MANAGERS OF THE DONATION TO THE INHABITANTS OF BOSTON UNDER THE WILL OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

GENTLEMEN: The decision given by the Supreme Judicial Court on August 30 last, recognizing the City of Boston as the Trustee of the donation left to the inhabitants of Boston under the will of Benjamin Franklin, and declaring the action of the Probate Court last year in appointing certain gentlemen as trustees of this fund, upon the theory that a vacancy existed in the trusteeship, to be null and void, now makes it possible to take some practical action toward the application and use of the unique bequest of this great man. I feel that all who have studied his interesting will, and are anxious to see his far-sighted plans for the benefit of future generations carried into effect in accordance not only with the spirit of his intentions, but with the letter of the specific instructions which he left, may well find cause for congratulation in the fact that it is now finally settled by the highest court of this Commonwealth, that the custody of this fund belongs to the municipal corporation of Boston, acting through its proper officials, and not to any private citizens appointed for the purpose by a court, and that the disposition of the fund is to be made by managers of whom four-fifths are elected by the people of Boston.

Waiving the question whether the Mayor is entitled to sit as a member of the Board of Managers of this fund as chief executive of the city, through his succession to many of the powers formerly exercised by the selectmen of the Town of Boston, whom the will names as managers, I now address this communication to your body as the head of the municipal corporation which has been decided to be the trustee, and as the chief official elected by the votes of the people whom Franklin desired to benefit a century after his death. In such capacity, I deem it proper to make certain recommendations for your consideration and action.

On December 28, 1893, the following vote was passed by the then managers of the Franklin Fund:

"Ordered, That the sum set apart from the general Franklin Fund as due to the City of Boston on July 1, 1893, viz., $322,490.20 with its accumulations, be paid by the Treasurer of the fund in January next to the City Treasurer, to constitute a special fund for the purchase of land and for the erection thereon of the Franklin Trades School and the equipment of the same; said expenditures to be made under the direction of such department as may for the time being be charged by the statutes and ordinances with the duty of erecting and furnishing public buildings in the City of Boston; the location of and plans for said school to be approved by the managers of said fund."

While some further votes have, I believe, been passed at various times, no money has yet been paid from the City Treasury or liability incurred under this order, and I am advised by the Corporation Counsel that it is therefore entirely competent for the present managers of the fund to rescind such order and to pass such other order for the disposition of the fund, in accordance with the directions of Franklin, as they may deem proper. Since July 1, 1895, when Chapter 449 of the Acts of that year went into effect, there has been no "department of the city for the time being charged by the statutes and ordinances with the duty of erecting and furnishing public buildings in the City of Boston," the office of the City Architect having been abolished by Section 22 of said act, and it would therefore in any case require some modification of said order to enable any practical action to be taken. I now desire to recommend, in the first place, the rescinding of this order for the reason that the purpose named does not seem to me either to come within the proper scope and intent of the language of Franklin's will, or to embody the best use which can be made of the considerable sum of money available (now amounting to $360,962.73), with the view of accomplishing the greatest amount of good for the masses of the people whom Franklin desired to make his beneficiaries.

No one can deny that it is the bounden duty of those who are entrusted with the power of determining the application of this fund to follow just as closely as possible the directions contained in the will. Certainly no sufficient excuse for departing from them can be found in the fact that the managers of the fund, if left entirely free, might have other ideas than those expressed by the testator as to what would be its best disposition. If conditions had so far changed in a century that it would be manifestly improper or undesirable to apply the fund as Franklin intended, some justification might be found for departing from his wishes, but the comprehensive and far-seeing mind of this great practical philosopher left no such door open for ignoring his wishes or changing his intentions. His eminently practical turn of mind led him to designate objects of expenditure which would be as useful to the people at the end of the nineteenth century as at the end of the eighteenth. These objects are distinctly stated in his will, printed in City Document 95 of 1897, as follows:

"I would have the managers of the donation to the Town of Boston then lay out at their discretion 100,000 pounds in public works which may be judged of most general utility to the inhabitants, such as fortifications, bridges, aqueducts, public buildings, baths, pavements, or whatever may make living in the town more convenient to its people and render it more agreeable to strangers, resorting thither for health or a temporary residence."

The general class of objects which Franklin contemplated is therefore described under the name of "public works," and it seems clear to me that there is no intention in the last clause of this sentence to enlarge the purposes of expenditure beyond the scope covered by this general designation; the word "whatever" should be construed with the words "public works," and not as enlarging to an indefinite extent the purposes for which the fund was to be laid out; certainly public works of the character specially instanced by Franklin "make living" in Boston "more convenient to its people." In view of the fact that Franklin saw fit to designate specifically certain classes of public works, it seems to me almost too clear for argument that the first effort of the managers of the fund should be to find some object of expenditure which comes under the exact terms used, and which would be of such "general utility to the inhabitants" of Boston as to fulfil the beneficent intentions of the testator.

If the managers lay out the fund for "fortifications, bridges, aqueducts, public buildings, baths or pavements," they are sure of complying in letter as well as in spirit with the wishes of Franklin; if they pass over the objects specially mentioned, and endeavor to find some other that may be claimed to fall within the language of the last clause of the extract of the will above cited, they certainly run the risk of using the fund in a manner which Franklin would not have approved. Of the six special classes of public works he mentioned, it cannot be claimed that the changes of conditions which have taken place in a century have materially affected more than two of them. No one would now propose to spend the money of the city upon fortifications, and aqueducts for the water supply of the city are now under the jurisdiction of the Metropolitan Water Board; but bridges, public buildings, baths and pavements, are certainly of as much "general utility to the inhabitants" of Boston as they would have been in the last century.

These considerations seem to me to make inadmissible the idea of devoting this fund to the establishment of any kind of an institution, educational or otherwise. The term "public buildings" is indeed a broad one, and might be construed to include a building for the use of a school; but we should always keep in mind Franklin's desire to make his benefaction "of most general utility to the inhabitants" of Boston. A building for a trades school does not seem to me to come within this description; such an institution might possibly be of great special benefit to a very small fraction of the people, but it certainly would embody no such general utility to all as Franklin contemplated. It certainly would not "make living" in Boston "more convenient to its people and render it more agreeable to strangers resorting thither for health or a temporary residence;" on the contrary, the very idea of such an educational institution excludes its use by strangers.

If it is suggested that mere "utility" and "convenience" are not the highest objects to which the fund can be applied, and that the far-reaching influence of an educational institution might better commemorate the name of Franklin in this city, it seems to me that we should remember that this money belonged to him, and not to us, and that he had the right to define for himself, in leaving it in trust, the objects to which it should be applied. If he merely desired that something should be done with this fund a century after his death which would make it useful in an every-day way to the people of his birthplace, and promote their convenience, we surely ought not to thwart his intention or to take the ground that we can make a wiser application of the money than that which was intended by the great man who left it. If Franklin had intended to establish an institution of any sort for the special benefit of a class in the community, he certainly would have expressed such intention in plain language; the terms which he did in fact use in making the bequest indicate such different objects and purposes that it seems to me that a rescinding of the former vote of the managers is clearly required, as the first step toward the fulfilment of Franklin's beneficent, even if somewhat practical and prosaic, intentions.

While the rescinding of the order passed in 1893 will not at all involve any present agreement on the part of the managers as to some other disposition of the fund, and while I therefore do not believe that this question should be treated on the basis of an alternative between the application of the fund embodied in this order and any other specific application which may now be suggested, I think it proper at the present time to state my own views as to the best objects to which it can be devoted. I do not believe, in the first place, that it should be expended for any purpose which is ordinarily provided for out of the city treasury, or for any work which will not be of reasonable permanency.

Pavements, for instance, are an object of usual city expenditure, but they unfortunately lack the quality of permanence. Bridges also are a regular charge upon the city; and under the changed conditions of today no great and important bridge could be built within the amount of the fund, and it certainly should not be applied to a bridge of merely local utility. It therefore seems to me that the choice of the managers of the fund as to objects of expenditure should be practically limited to the other two classes of public works mentioned by Franklin—after excluding, for the reasons given, fortifications, bridges, aqueducts and pavements—namely, public buildings and baths.

I cannot but regard it as a fortunate coincidence that this fund becomes available for disposition at just the time when the people of Boston have sufficiently experienced the benefits of public bathing facilities to desire their considerable extension.

I need not repeat, or elaborate upon, the views which I have at different times expressed to the City Council as to the great desirability of establishing local baths for all-the-year-round use. The extensive and excellent facilities for summer bathing which have now been provided by the city make sufficient provision for that season of the year; the patronage which the single permanent bath-house now owned by the municipality has already received, and the appreciation of its utility which representatives of all classes of the community have expressed, makes the time fully ripe for the establishment of local baths of a somewhat similar character, though of less expensive construction, for the various sections of the city.

If this one bath-house, within a few weeks of its opening, already has a record of an average daily attendance of between 500 and 600 bathers, running nearly up to 1,000 on certain days, surely this fund could in no way more effectually be of "general utility" to the people of Boston, or better serve their "convenience," than by its application to the building of local baths which would similarly serve the various districts into which our city is naturally divided. In applying the larger part of the fund to the erection of permanent bath-houses, of dignified architectural character and proper appointments, the managers could be sure, not only of a literal compliance with the wishes of Franklin, because of his specific designation of baths but of carrying out to the fullest extent the spirit of his purpose,—to confer, a century after his death, some practical and general benefits upon the people of his native town.

In my opinion, no other disposition of this money could be made which would cause the name of Franklin to be remembered with more gratitude, and for a longer period of time, by the masses of the people of this city. Each of these baths should bear his name, coupled with that of the section of the city in which it is located, and bronze tablets should be conspicuously placed, to remind the many thousands who would daily enjoy, without price, the bathing facilities thus furnished of their obligation to the practical philosopher and revolutionary patriot. Five or six of such baths should be provided to serve the convenience of all of the sections of the city, and Charlestown, East Boston, South Boston, Dorchester and Roxbury, at least, should each be thus provided. In some of these districts, if not in all, I believe that public gymnasia could be advantageously combined with the baths. The large use already made of the gymnasium now conducted by the city in East Boston—the only municipal in-door gymnasium, so far as I am aware, in this country—and the value of the work which it is doing, sufficiently demonstrate the demand for, and the usefulness of, public facilities for in-door exercise and physical development, and the combination of the public gymnasium and the public bath is one which can easily be made, both in respect to construction and administration. I believe that the application of $200,000 to $250,000 of the amount available would be sufficient to provide five such buildings with their equipment. This would leave a sum amounting to $110,000 to $160,000 available for other uses. I would recommend the application of this balance to the erection of a fine municipal building upon the lot on Washington street, near the corner of Dover street, upon which the old Franklin School-house now stands. This seems to be a very central and admirable location for such a building, and the size of the lot would make it possible to erect one of somewhat monumental character architecturally, and of commodious size.

Such a building should include, in my opinion, a large hall, for use as a ward-room and also for public meetings, concerts, lectures, exhibitions and entertainments; a smaller hall for society meetings; rooms for the Grand Army posts and Naval Veterans now quartered in the building; offices for the use of the Central Labor organizations; and possibly offices for some municipal departments. The hall which would be contained in such a building could be used to great advantage for courses of practical lectures, such as are successfully given in some other cities, for the various classes of wage-earners, and thus the mechanics and artisans whom Franklin intended to assist by the provision in his will regarding the use to be made of the fund during its period of accumulation would be benefited by this final disposition of a portion of it. I trust that the considerations which I have urged will receive your careful thought as managers of the fund, and that you will assume the execution of the important trust which devolves upon you with an earnest desire to carry out conscientiously the exact intentions of Franklin, and to confer the greatest and the most general benefits upon all of the inhabitants of this great city.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

PRODUCTION OF COAL.

According to the report entitled "The Production of Coal in 1897," prepared by the United States Geological Survey, Division of Mineral Resources, Department of the Interior, the output of coal in this country for that year, amounting to 200,-221,665 short tons (2,000 pounds), reached the highest figure ever recorded. The aggregate value at the mines of this product amounted to $198,869,178.

The increase over the year 1896 in the total production was 8,235,308 short tons, all in the output of bituminous coal, which showed an increase of 10,149,626 short tons. The production of anthracite coal decreased in that period 1,914,318 short tons.

In value, the total production did not rise in proportion to its increase, for while the output in 1897 was 8,235,308 short tons more than in 1896, the value increased only $2,229,012, and the general average price declined from $1.02 per short ton in 1896 to ninety-nine cents in 1897. This decline in price was confined to the production of bituminous coal, caused, in a large measure, by the introduction of mining machines which enabled operators to produce their coal with less men.

The amount of coal thus mined by machines in 1897 was 22,649,220 short tons, an increase of nearly 16,500,000 short tons produced in this way in 1891. Sixty per cent. of the increase in the production of bituminous coal in 1897 was mined by machines.

Including the Territory of Alaska, there were thirty-one States and Territories producing coal in this country in 1897. Pennsylvania's output, as usual, exceeded that of any other State, amounting to 107,029,654 short tons, or 53 per cent. of the total production of the United States. The State of Illinois ranked next, with an output equal to 10 per cent. of the aggregate.

In the world's production of coal the United States stands second, furnishing 29 per cent. of the total, with Great Britain first, furnishing 33 per cent.

A review of the coal trade of Boston, compiled by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is included in the report. It shows the receipts of coal to have been 3,688,273 long tons (2,240 pounds), the largest in the history of the port.

Of the total receipts, bituminous and anthracite were nearly equally divided, the greater part being received by water, only 98,510 tons (largely bituminous), coming by rail.

In domestic coal received, 1,152,712 tons, substantially one-third, were forwarded to interior New England points, the balance, 2,535,561 tons, making the net receipts of the City of Boston, and representing its consumption.

The City of Buffalo, N.Y., through its Aldermanic Committee on Lamps, is investigating the subject of erecting a municipal gas-plant.

BRANCHES OF PUBLIC LIBRARY TO BE OPEN ON SUNDAYS.

It is announced that the Charlestown, East Boston and South Boston Branches of the Boston Public Library are to be open this season on Sunday from 2 to 10 P.M., beginning November 6, for the issue of books as well as for reference and reading. This means that the branches may be used on Sunday for all purposes during the hours mentioned, the same as on week days. Last year there was no issue of books on Sunday, and this extension of activity is in the nature of an experiment. It remains to be seen if the full opening meets a public demand as is believed. The Central Library, the West End Branch and the stations on Broadway extension and Tremont street are used largely on Sunday, and it seems that the people of the other metropolitan districts must value the freedom of the local branch on their day of rest and leisure. It is hoped that the news of this opening will be widely circulated in Charlestown, East Boston and South Boston.

Messages from the Mayor.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Common Council was held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 7.45 P.M., on Thursday, November 3, 1898, President Connolly in the chair.

The following messages from His Honor the Mayor were received:

Veto of Ordinance.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 28, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I return herewith without my approval an amendment to Section 34 of Chapter 45 of the Revised Ordinances of 1898, relating to wooden buildings outside of the building limits, and I transmit herewith for your information a communication from the Fire Commissioner, and another from the Secretary of the Board of Fire Underwriters, which indicate some of the grounds on which I feel obliged to withhold my approval.

I believe that the extent to which wooden construction is used in the erection of dwellings in this city is a great mistake economically, as well as from the standpoint of danger from fire, and I think that there is great need of further legislation by statute or ordinance restricting such use of wooden construction. I believe that the limits within which new wooden buildings are not allowed to be built should be enlarged, and that the erection of wooden buildings to be occupied by more than one family should not be longer allowed anywhere within the city limits. I doubt if there is a city in the country of the size of Boston in which wooden construction is used to the same extent, and, looking at the matter merely from the standpoint of true economy, I think that it can be demonstrated that the saving in the first cost which is effected by building of wood is more than offset by the greater durability of a brick building and the smaller repairs which it requires. Holding these views, I do not feel it proper to assent to any general amendment of the ordinances which encourages more wooden buildings.

It may be, however, that special conditions in some parts of the city are such that it would be something of a hardship to apply the ordinance as it now stands, and I am therefore willing to consider giving my approval to some special amendment of the ordinance in question, of a less comprehensive nature.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE FIRE COMMISSIONER.

Bristol Street, October 25, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: Referring to the report of the Committee on Ordinances amending Section 34 of Chapter 45 of Revised Ordinances of 1898, relating to wooden buildings outside the building limits, I beg to urge as strongly as I am able the importance of leaving the distance between such wooden buildings as it is at present—six feet—which is little enough if the efficiency of the Fire Department is to be considered; in addition to other vicious regulations and the want of enforcement of common sense in our building laws, from a fireman's point of view, I beg that this small margin of six feet may be left for us to fight in, with the hope that we may have a fair chance to prevent conflagrations in the wooden camps scattered through the rural districts of this city.

Your obedient servant,

H. S. RUSSELL, Commissioner.

BOSTON BOARD OF FIRE UNDERWRITERS.

October 21, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: You have before you for approval or veto the report of the Committee on Ordinances amending Section 34 of Chapter 45 of the Revised Ordinances of 1898, relating to wooden buildings outside of the building limits. The proposed amendment of the ordinances is to do away with the salutary change that was made a short time ago, making the distance between wooden buildings, when a brick wall did not separate them, six feet instead of three feet.

This change was obviously made because it was believed that with this intervening space there would not only be more air and light for the tenants of the buildings, but also, if one of them were to take fire, it could not only be put out quicker and easier, but there would be less danger of the fire communicating with adjoining buildings.

Those who have doubtless opposed this change and who now seek by amendment to have the old order of things restored, are those who are real estate speculators and endeavor to get the most they can from the smallest amount of land space. If three feet additional width has to be given to a building plot in order to procure six feet separation from adjoining buildings, this amount of land to the real estate speculator is so much wasted, utterly regardless of the fact that the six feet space may be needed on principles of hygiene and for safety in case of fire, as after the building has been sold the speculative owner cares little or nothing on these points. The fire underwriters of Boston have considered that the present condition of the building laws, so far as frame buildings go in the liberty accorded to erect them in great masses, constitutes a great danger to our city, and that we may at any time have a fire which will sweep over acres, if not square miles, of this form of combustible construction. If we cannot have brick buildings built, we should at least have the frame buildings put up in a manner to afford some little chance to the firemen of putting out a fire in them if one should occur, and where frame buildings are but three feet apart it is evident that there is not space between them for the firemen to work, either with their ladders or their hose. Trusting that you will take these points under consideration,

I remain,

Yours truly,

OSBORNE HOWES, Secretary.

Disposition of Franklin Fund.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 3, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith for your information, in view of the importance of and the public interest in the question of the disposition of the Franklin Fund and of the interest of the city therein, a copy of a communication addressed by me to the Managers of said fund with a copy of an opinion of the Corporation Counsel accompanying the same, and as it is desired that this communication may be available in print for the information of said Managers and of the public, I suggest that the same be ordered printed as a city document.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

(The communication above referred to by His Honor the Mayor may be found on page 637).

LAW DEPARTMENT.

November 3, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor:

DEAR SIR: In reply to your inquiry as to the power of the present managers of the Franklin Fund to rescind the order passed by the said managers on December 28, 1893, making disposition of said fund, and devoting a portion thereof to the purchase of land and the erection of a building thereon for a trades school, I have to say that, in my opinion, no action having been taken under said order, it can legally be rescinded at any time by said managers.

Yours respectfully,

A. J. BAILEY, Corporation Counsel.

Ordered printed, and assigned to the next meeting.

Use of Webb School-house.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 3, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I have been informed by the master of the Lyman School, East Boston, that over sixty pupils have been refused admission to the schools of the Lyman District on account of lack of room, and that the number of applicants is daily increasing, and he earnestly requests that the Webb School-house, which was surrendered by the School Committee some years ago as being no longer needed for school purposes, be again placed under the charge of the School Committee in order that these children may be given school accommodations. An order requesting me to transfer the said school-house from the custody of the Street Commissioners to that of the School Committee was passed by the City Council some weeks ago, but inasmuch as the power to make this transfer is vested in the City Council, it was impossible for me to comply with the request contained in the order. I therefore recommend the passage by your body of the accompanying order, transferring this school-house from the custody of the Street Commissioners to the care and control of the School Committee.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Webb School-house, East Boston, be transferred from the custody of the Street Commissioners to the care and control of the School Committee, the said building being needed for school purposes.

The order was passed, and the message and order sent up.

Dartmouth-Street Engine-house.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 31, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

In view of certain statements made during the debate in the Board of Aldermen at its last meeting, in regard to the pending order authorizing settlement of the claim of the city against the Boston and Providence Railroad Company for damages on account of the taking of engine-house and land on Dartmouth street, and authorizing the Fire Commissioner, with the approval of the Mayor, to purchase land and erect a new fire engine-house to take the place of the one so taken, I desire, without undertaking at the present time to argue the question of the desirability of the proposed new site on Yarmouth street, to clear up certain misapprehensions which seem to exist.

In the first place, the suggestion that under this order the city would make a trade by which the railroad company would be relieved from paying the full value of the engine-house taken, through an exchange of less valuable land elsewhere, is absolutely unfounded. I declined to make any arrangement with the railroad company on the basis of an exchange of property, and insisted upon having a value placed on the Dartmouth-street engine-house estate. As I could not agree upon this value with the railroad company, it was mutually agreed to submit the question to referees, and accordingly, on March 24 last, Messrs. John C. Cobb, representing the city, and Augustus P. Loring, representing the railroad company, joined in the following report:

"The undersigned having been appointed by you to appraise the lot of land and engine-house adjoining the railroad on Dartmouth street, in the City of Boston, which has lately been taken by the railroad company for the new Dartmouth-street station, find that the building thereon is useful and well adapted for the purpose for which it is used, viz., that of an engine-house, and is in good condition; and they have appraised said building, together with the land on which it stands, at $55,000, and award to the city to be paid by said railroad company the sum of $55,000 for a full and complete release of said property."

I may add, as an indication that this award was not unduly favorable to the railroad company, that its President has several times expressed to me his dissatisfaction with it, and his feeling that the city had come out altogether too well under the reference. The suggestion that this engine-house lot, with the building on it, should be worth $100,000, is so absurdly wide of the mark, that it may safely be left to refute itself.

So far as the price of the Yarmouth-street lot was concerned, this was to be given to the city, as a deduction from the settlement on the basis above-mentioned, at its exact cost. I am unable to see how the city could be in any way prejudiced by having a suitable lot purchased by the railroad company and turned over at cost in connection with the settlement, instead of buying the lot itself. As to the suitability of this location, I have acted entirely upon the recommendation of the Fire Commissioner, made by him after careful consideration of the subject, and still adhered to. The lot in question was only purchased by the railroad company for the purpose of the settlement, after it had been approved by the Fire Commissioner, and it was purchased by the company only for convenience in effecting the settlement.

In respect to the question whether this order calls for the transfer to the executive of powers properly belonging to the legislative branch of the government, opinions may of course differ. So far as the right to settle the damage suffered by the city is concerned, it only requires the bringing of a suit by the railroad company to enable the Law Department to settle the case, with the approval of the Mayor, and it therefore does not appear to me that any attempt to grasp the legislative power was embodied in the request that the executive should be allowed to settle the question of damages without suit, particularly in view of the fact that the settlement was to be on the basis of a reference as above stated. I believe that the duty of selecting a proper site for a new engine-house is properly an executive one, and that it should be exercised by the Fire Commissioner, who is charged with the responsibility of protecting the property of all our citizens from destruction by fire. But the City Council, of course, has the power to say that it will not make the appropriation in such a form as to leave the selection of a site to the Fire Commissioner and the Mayor.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Sent up.

Care of Hydrants.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 3, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Fire Commissioner in reply to your order requesting a report as to the advisability of transferring the care of fire hydrants from the Fire Department to the Water Department.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE FIRE COMMISSIONER.

Bristol Street, October 29, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: Replying to the request of the honorable Common Council for my opinion as to the advisability of transferring the care of fire hydrants from this to the Water Department, I beg leave to respectfully report that, in my opinion, such a transfer is inadvisable in the extreme and would threaten disaster to our efficiency, which depends very largely on the hydrants being in a proper condition for immediate use, and I beg that such a division of responsibility may not be enforced.

Your obedient servant,

H. S. RUSSELL, Commissioner.

Release of Land.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, October 31, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Water Commissioner in relation to a release to Mr. William G. Wilson, and I recommend the passage of the accompanying order which has been prepared by the Law Department.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE WATER COMMISSIONER.

City Hall, October 29, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: The Law Department has reported to me as follows: "That in 1847 the city became the owner of a certain parcel of land, and there is of record no deed from the city conveying said land, but in 1854 one William G. Wilson mortgaged this same land to the City of Boston; so it would appear that the city must have conveyed by a deed which was never recorded and is now said to be lost. To perfect the title in the present owner it is necessary that a release be obtained from the City of Boston, and it seems right and proper that such a release should be given." The Law Department recommends that, if it meets with my approval, the enclosed order be presented to the City Council; and as I can see no objection, I approve the order, and would respectfully request its presentation, with your approval, to the City Council.

Yours very truly,

JOHN R. MURPHY,

Water Commissioner.

Ordered, That His Honor the Mayor be and is hereby authorized in the name and behalf of the city, and for a nominal consideration, to release unto William G. Wilson, and all persons claiming title under him, according to their respective interests, all the right, title and interest of the City of Boston, if any it has, in and to the land in Framingham described in a mortgage deed from said Wilson to said city, recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 677, page 345; the object of this release being to perfect the title to said land in the present owners, and to take the place of a former deed given by said city, and said to have been lost or destroyed before record.

The order was passed, and the message and order sent up.

Public Convenience Stations.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 3, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Bath Trustees in reply to the order referred to me at your last meeting, requesting certain information in regard to the public convenience stations which they would erect, if granted the loan appropriation of $20,000 now pending before your body.

Respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Boston, October 31, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: In response to the order of the Common Council requesting information as to "the number of public convenience stations, the location of each, and the estimated cost of each," which the Baths Department would provide if granted the loan appropriation of $20,000, for this purpose, now pending before the City Council, I am instructed to state that the subject has not yet received such detailed consideration at the hands of the Bath Commission as to permit of specific replies to these inquiries, as no funds have as yet been available for such a purpose. The Commission has had plans prepared for one underground public convenience station adjacent to the subway station at the corner of Park and Tremont streets, believing that there was an urgent need of some facilities of this sort at this point, but no definite vote has been passed in regard to such a station. The Board believes that the needs of the public in this direction are so numerous and so urgent that its only difficulty in using this proposed loan, if passed, will be to determine what should first be done. The Commission will endeavor to distribute such money as may be given it in such a manner as to meet the public needs at as many points as possible.

Yours respectfully,

THOMAS J. LANE,

Chairman Bath Trustees.

INSTITUTIONS REGISTRATION DEPARTMENT.

The following letter has been sent by His Honor the Mayor to the Penal Institutions Commissioner and to the Chairmen of the Pauper Institutions Trustees, the Children's Trustees, the Insane Hospital Trustees, the Overseers of the Poor, and the Board of Statistics:

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 10, 1898.

DEAR SIR: In the light of the discussion of the proper scope of the Institutions Registration Department at the meeting of the members of the different Institutions Boards recently held at my office, and after further conference on the subject with the Board of Statistics, I have come to the conclusion that the first step which should be taken as to the Registration Department is that of securing an amendment of the law to place it under the charge of a Board representing the different departments connected with its work, instead of under that of a single Registrar. I believe that the best manner to organize such a Board would be to have it consist of the Chairmen of the three Institutions Boards, of the Board of Overseers of the Poor and of the Board of Statistics, and of the Penal Institutions Commissioner, ex-officio. This would bring the direction of the Registration Department entirely under the joint control of the five departments directly interested in its work, and the representation also given to the Statistical Department would tend to insure the proper performance of the strictly statistical functions of the Department. A Board thus made up wholly on an ex-officio basis would, it seems to me, insure the continuity in the work of the Department, and the stability in its personnel, which is so requisite for its full success.

At a meeting held this day in my office, at which these five Boards were represented, four by their Chairmen and one, in the absence of the Chairman, by its Secretary, and at which the Penal Institutions Commissioner, who has been serving as Acting-Institutions Registrar, was also present, unanimous approval was expressed of the proposed organization of the Registration

Department. At the suggestion of the Acting-Registrar, it was also arranged that the officials above designated should be formed at once into an Advisory Board, to meet with the Acting-Registrar pending an amendment in the law, and to prepare for organizing the work of the Department, and particularly its statistical work, upon a new basis. I desire, therefore, to ask the Chairmen of the above-named Boards to act ex-officio upon such an advisory committee, to meet from time to time with the Acting-Registrar, to study and supervise the operations of the Registration Department, and to prepare for the collection, tabulation and use of the statistics of the various institutions according to the most approved methods. The first meeting of this Advisory Board will be held at the office of the Penal Institutions Department on Friday, November 18, at 4 P.M.

Under these conditions, of course, no permanent appointment to the position of Institutions Registrar will be made by me, as the selection of the officials of the Department would naturally devolve upon the new Board. The question whether the expert statistical part of the work could best be done by an official of the Registration Department, or by the Department of Statistics, would remain open, to be settled by the new Board; it would be possible, if it were deemed advisable, to divide the work of the Registration Department under the new organization into two co-ordinate divisions, one of administration, including settlements and commitments, and one of statistics, without putting a single official in charge of both these branches of work.

If this suggested reorganization of the Registration Department is approved by your Board, I desire to ask the passage by it of a vote authorizing its Chairman to join with the other officials above named in a petition to the Legislature for the passage of an amendment to the present law to effect this end.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

RANDIDGE FUND EXCURSIONS.

Commissioner Marshall, director-in-charge of the picnic excursions given by the city to the children of Boston during the summer months, at the expense of the income derived from the fund left by George L. Randidge, has presented a report on the matter to His Honor the Mayor, by whom it has been transmitted to the City Council. (See page 653.)

The picnic grounds were located on Long Island, and the excursions began on July 5 and ended on September 5, a period of fifty-four secular days, on every one of which an excursion was given, except on three days when the weather was unfavorable. The total number of organizations assigned dates was ninety-two. The total number of children carried was 13,531, besides 560 attendants, an increase of 9,000 over last year, and there would have been a still larger demand for excursions had there been accommodations for them. The transportation of this large number was accomplished without accident.

A balance of $603.54 was left from the income from last year, which, with the income for this year, $2,000, made a total of $2,603.54 available for use. The total cost of the excursions, outside of permanent equipment, was $2,008.81, representing a per capita expense of a trifle over fourteen cents.

A feature of this year's excursions which was much appreciated was the gratuitous supply of car-tickets to those who were transported on account of this fund by the Boston Elevated Railroad, amounting to 17,800. Another feature was the excursions for mothers and babies on the launches of the Boston Park Service Steamboat Company.

The number of trips made by these launches was twelve, and fourteen organizations were accommodated. The parties consisted of from seventy-five to one hundred mothers and little children, who were carried down the harbor and through the islands, and were landed at Squantum Head. Facilities for these excursions should be further increased next year, for a number of organizations which desired to secure dates could not be accommodated.

The recommendations contained in Mr. Marshall's report are, in brief, as follows:

1. That a pier be constructed adjacent to the picnic grounds, in order that the children and supplies may be conducted to a point nearer than it is now possible to land. That a road over the island be constructed, and a telephone line, connecting with the Long Island Hospital, be established.
2. That the number of shelters at the picnic grounds should be increased.
3. That forestry be adopted at Long Island, in order that the grounds may have decoration and shade protection.
4. That Squantum Head be improved by cutting away some of the underbrush; that a number of summer-houses be built, and a landing-place constructed more accessible for the steamers.

Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel M. Mansfield, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, recently stationed in this district, has been appointed by the President a member of the California Debris Commission.

HEARING ON DISPOSITION OF THE FRANKLIN FUND.

A public hearing was given by the Board of Managers of the Franklin Fund on Monday evening, November 14, on the question of rescinding the vote of December 28, 1893, whereby the managers of the fund appropriated that portion of it available to the City of Boston for the establishment of a "Franklin Trades School" — and for the discussion of the future disposition of the fund.

The terms of the will of Benjamin Franklin, under which was donated to the city the sum of one thousand pounds sterling, were reviewed in THE CITY RECORD on page 525, and a copy of the decision of the Supreme Judicial Court as to the rightful successor to the Town of Boston as Trustee of the fund was printed. The matter was further reviewed by His Honor the Mayor in a communication to the City Council, dated November 2, which may be found printed on page 637.

A number of persons, representing various organizations of the city, spoke at the hearing as to the disposition of the fund, and discussed the various purposes for which the money might be used. The hearing adjourned to Friday, November 25, at 8 P.M.

THE TREASURERS OF THE FRANKLIN FUND.

According to Mr. Samuel F. McCleary, who was City Clerk of Boston during the years 1852 to 1882, inclusive, and is at present Treasurer of the Franklin Fund, the treasurers of that fund and the dates of their appointment by the Trustees have been as follows: 1791, Thomas Edwards; 1799, Russell Sturgis; 1801, John Tileston; 1807, Peter Thacher; 1811, William Minot; 1866, Frederic U. Tracy; 1876, Samuel F. McCleary.

The amount of the bequest received in 1791 was £1,000 — fifty years later, in 1841, it amounted to $29,787.96. In 1891, at the end of one hundred years, the fund amounted to $398,841.51.

On January 17, 1894, the one hundred and eighty-eighth anniversary of Franklin's birth, the Treasurer of the fund paid $329,300.48 into the city treasury of Boston, which amount had been set aside by the managers of the fund to be devoted to the erection of the Franklin Trades School. There remained a balance of $102,455.70, with which to begin operations for a second hundred years.

At the beginning of the present fiscal year, the total value of the two divisions of the Franklin Fund, in round numbers, amounted to $475,000.

STATE DOCKS.

The recent taking by the State Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners, under the authority conferred upon it by Chapter 486 of the Acts of the Legislature of 1897, of certain land and flats on the easterly side of East Boston, recalls the agitation, which began a few years ago, for the establishment of public docks, and which has finally resulted in the present policy of development of State ownership and control of a portion of Boston's water-front.

The initiative in a scheme for public docks in Boston was taken by the Surveying Department, which, in its report for the year 1893, submitted a somewhat elaborate plan for the construction by the city of a system of docks and wharves upon the area of flats off East Boston. In 1894 this report was supplemented by a further report on the matter by a joint special committee of the City Council, recommending the passage of an order requesting the Mayor to petition the General Court "for such legislation as may be necessary for the establishment of a modern dock system under public ownership in Boston Harbor."

In 1895, under legislative enactment, a bill providing for the appointment of three persons to conduct an investigation of the Wants of the Port of Boston for an Improved System of Docks and Wharves, and Terminal Facilities in connection therewith, became a law.

The State Board on Docks and Terminal Facilities occupied nearly two years in its investigation of the general questions involved in the establishment of public ownership and control of docks and wharves, and in January, 1897, made a detailed report covering the entire subject. The conclusions reached by the special commission, among others, were: That a portion of the fore-shore in East Boston and South Boston should be forever preserved in the ownership of the people, and that the policy of public ownership of docks and wharves, under the control of the State, should be at once inaugurated by the construction of a model dock and pier upon the land owned by the Commonwealth at South Boston.

Under Chapter 513 of the Acts of 1897, and in accordance with the recommendations of the Commission, an appropriation of $400,000 was granted by the Legislature for the construction of a pier, under direction of the Harbor and Land Commissioners, at South Boston. Its length will be 1,200 feet, its width 400 feet, and it will accommodate steamships drawing thirty feet of water at any stage of tide. When completed, the pier will be one of the largest and finest in the country.

The recommendations of the Board with regard to the taking of land and flats in various portions of the harbor, however, were somewhat modified by the Legislature. Instead of authorizing the taking of land in both South Boston and East Boston, the authority was confined to a certain area off the latter point.

The area included in the taking by the Harbor Commissioners off East Boston amounts to about 100 acres, a portion being already owned by the Commonwealth, and lies to the northeast of Jeffries Point and to the southeast of Wood Island Park, the Harbor Commissioners' line forming the boundary on the east.

Thus, public ownership has been secured on the south and east sides of the harbor, both points lying within three miles from the centre of the city, and from each other less than that distance in a direct line.

Already the question of providing adequate accommodation for the proper handling of the very large steamships, with their cargoes, which now come to this port, has become a serious problem to some of the railroad companies. The docks and piers of the Fitchburg Railroad at Charlestown are taxed to their utmost capacity, and cannot well be extended in their present situation on account of the Charles-river bridge closing in on one side and the Navy Yard on the other. It would seem, therefore, that when the time comes for an extension of the facilities of this road, that the natural course to pursue would be the utilization of a portion of the land included in the taking of the Harbor and Land Commissioners off East Boston.

ELECTION OF TREASURER, BOARD OF OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

At a meeting of the Board of Overseers of the Poor, held on November 2, Mr. Richard C. Humphreys was unanimously elected Treasurer, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Treasurer, Hon. Frederic W. Lincoln. Mr. Humphreys' term of service will begin on November 21.

DEATH OF CHARLES G. FORRISTALL.

Charles G. Forristall, Foreman of the Sanitary Division of the Street Department, died on Friday, November 11, 1898, at his home on Pinckney street.

Mr. Forristall was born sixty-three years ago in the West End, and for a number of years was a foreman in the Health Department, from which he was transferred some years since to the Street Department.

It was ordered (1) that there be paid to H. M. Cunningham the sum of $16,841.76 as payment for a lot of land on Quincy street, Dorchester, containing about 32,388 square feet, upon the said Cunningham giving to the City of Boston a deed for said estate satisfactory to the Law Department.

(2.) That the Committee on School-houses be authorized to execute a contract with J. Otis McFadden in the sum of three hundred thirty (330) dollars for furnishing window shades for the Paul Revere School, said McFadden being the lowest bidder.

The Chair read the following communications, which were placed on file:

STREET DEPARTMENT.

Boston, October 28, 1898.

MR. THORNTON D. APOLLONIO, Secretary
School Committee.

DEAR SIR: I acknowledge receipt of your request to grade Sharon street in front of the Stephen M. Weld School, or to provide plank walk. I would say in reply that Sharon street is a private way, and if the School Committee desire a plank walk, they can arrange with the owners to lay the same. Sharon street being a private way, this department has, of course, no right therein.

Yours very truly,

BOARD OF EDUCATION, Boston, Mass.

GENTLEMEN: At the next meeting of the Department of School Administration of the National Educational Association, to be held next July, it is intended to discuss questions of vital importance in school government, and more particularly such topics as may seem to the school board members most expedient and timely.

The Executive Committee of the association has decided to address the leading school boards of the United States and request them to suggest such topics as may seem to them of greatest importance. The benefits arising from these conventions will be placed within the reach of all Boards of Education.

A number of boards have appointed special committees whose duty it shall be to consider the matter and suggest at least three topics, or name at least the problems which give the board the greatest amount of annoyance, and present the greatest difficulties.

It is suggested that you appoint a similar committee from the members of your board to report its recommendations at a later meeting.

We trust that your honorable body will avail itself of the privilege extended and lend your co-operation to the extent solicited in this communication.

Kindly communicate the results of your committee to the undersigned, and oblige

Yours very truly,
WM. GEO. BRUCE, Secretary.

The Board of Supervisors may admit to the High School, Class A examinations, members of senior classes in colleges who are otherwise eligible, either by having had a year's experience in teaching, or by being a graduate of a State Normal School, or by having substantially completed a satisfactory course in pedagogy, provided that no certificate of qualification shall be actually issued to such person until he or she shall have received the degree required under this section.

Accepted, and the order passed to a second reading.

Mr. Anderson, for the same committee, to whom was referred, October 25, a communication from His Honor the Mayor relating to the Dover-street and other public baths (see THE CITY RECORD, page 623), reported that they have given the matter consideration, and in their judgment it is advisable that the children of the public schools in the vicinity of these accommodations should be informed of the existence of such facilities, and they therefore recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the Superintendent be requested to cause the principals of schools in the vicinity of the Dover-street bath-house, and the public gymnasium on Paris street, East Boston, to give notice to their pupils of the existence of these public bathing facilities, in order that full advantage thereof may be enjoyed by the children in such schools.

Accepted, and the order passed.

Mr. Anderson, for the same committee, to whom was recommended, April 26, Chapter X. of the Revised Rules, relating to the proposed School Faculty, reported that they have given the matter attention, and now recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the Rules be amended as follows:

Section 112. There shall be a School Faculty consisting of the Superintendent as President; of the Supervisors; of the Directors; of the Principal of the Normal School; of two members chosen by the principals of the Latin and high schools from among their own number; of two members chosen by the subordinate teachers in the Latin and high schools from among their own number; of nine members chosen by the principals of grammar schools from among their own number; and of nine members chosen by the subordinate teachers in the school districts from among their own number. The elected members shall serve for one calendar year, and shall be chosen at a meeting held in December of the previous year. The method and time of election for the year 1898 shall be determined by the Committee on Rules and Regulations, and thereafter by the Faculty itself, which shall also have the power to decide contested elections. The Faculty shall be organized by the election from among its members of a Vice-President, who shall preside in the absence of the President, and of a Secretary, who shall keep a record of all proceedings of the Faculty, and who shall be paid for this service by the Board.

Section 113. All changes in the courses of instruction and in methods of discipline shall be submitted to and reported upon by the Faculty before being acted upon by the Board unless the Board otherwise orders.

Section 114. The Faculty shall consider and report upon all matters referred to it by the Board, may discuss all questions relating to the welfare of the schools, and shall have the right to make recommendations, or present petitions or remonstrances to the Board.

Section 115. The Faculty shall meet once a month, at such regular time and place out of school hours as it may determine. It shall also meet at any other time at the call of the Superintendent, or on the written request of any seven of its members. Meetings of the Faculty shall not be open to the public, but any member of the Board may attend and shall have the right to be heard on any questions referred to the Faculty by the School Board.

Laid upon the table.

The Chair appointed, to have charge of work to be exhibited at the Paris Exposition of 1900, Mr. McDonald, Mr. Allen and Mrs. Ames.

On motion of Mr. Bassett, the salary of the substitute instructor in military drill was fixed at $10 per day of actual service; G. A. Murphy, janitor, was put on the second year of service; and the salary of the special teacher of phonography in East Boston was fixed at the rate of $1,200 per annum, to date from September 28, 1898.

It was ordered that a special class be formed and carried on, under the direction of the Superintendent, the class to be assigned a vacant room in the Franklin School Building or other suitable room.

On motion of Mr. Courtney, a specially assigned order, rescinding the order to discontinue the Normal School, was taken up, Mr. Courtney calling for the yeas and nays.

Mr. Lowell moved that it be laid on the table, Mr. Strange asking the yeas and nays on the vote to table.

The order was tabled by a vote of thirteen yeas to ten nays.

At 9.30 the Board went into executive session.

When the doors were opened, Mr. Strange moved that no successor to the late H. E. Holt, teacher of music, be appointed.

Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

New York's budget for 1899, as passed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at a meeting held October 31, amounts to $93,520,082.03. From this amount, there is to be deducted about $7,000,000 in unexpended balances of the city's general fund, leaving $86,500,000 to be raised by taxation next year.

Messages from the Mayor.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

A regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, November 14, 1898, at 3 o'clock, Chairman Dyar presiding, and all the members present.

Appointments by the Mayor.

Communications were received from His Honor the Mayor, making the following appointments, subject to confirmation on the part of the Board:

(1.) George E. Harrington, to be a Constable of the City of Boston, for the term ending April 30, 1899, to serve at the East Boston District Court, in place of Moses P. Brown, deceased.

(2.) Franklin J. Burnham, William A. Campbell, John W. Edson, Benjamin A. Gardner, John B. Nickels, Horace L. Porter, Hugh H. Ralph, Henry F. Thomas, Ernest A. Worth, to be Weighers of Coal, for the term ending April 30, 1899.

Severally laid over, under the law.

The following messages were received:

Randidge Picnic Excursions.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 10, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith the report of Mr. E. C. Marshall, who was designated by me to act as the director of the Randidge Picnic Excursions, given out of the income of the fund left to the city by Mr. George L. Randidge for this purpose, upon the conduct of these excursions during the last summer season.

This record of 13,551 children given a day's outing at Long Island, including a luncheon and bathing facilities, and without an accident, at an average expense of fourteen cents each, is certainly a most gratifying one, and I take pleasure in expressing my appreciation of the zealous and intelligent services of Mr. Marshall, rendered in addition to the regular duties of his office and without extra compensation, and of his assistants. The success which has been achieved arises largely from the sympathetic spirit which they have put into the work. The action of the Boston Elevated Railway in contributing a much larger number of free tickets than in past seasons and in furnishing special cars for the excursions, should also be mentioned as a considerable contribution toward the success of the work.

I regarded the bequest of Mr. Randidge as such an interesting and significant one that I have taken a deep interest in demonstrating what could be accomplished in this line of practical philanthropic work, with a comparatively small amount of money, by making use of the organization and facilities of the city. I think that it cannot be denied that the record of the past season could not be duplicated, or even approached, by any private charitable organization, and the wisdom of the donor in placing this fund in the hands of the City of Boston therefore seems to be fully vindicated.

The giving of these excursions has merely involved, outside of the expenditures made from the income of the fund, the fuller use, without additional cost, of facilities, in the way of wharves, steamers, grounds, beaches, etc., which were already in the possession of the city. This record may well inculcate the lesson that a fuller utilization can be made, to the great benefit of the people, of facilities already owned by the city, and I trust that this example of the widespread beneficence of the bequest of Mr. Randidge, through the instrumentality of the city, may lead other public-spirited citizens to follow his example by gifts of a similar character. The very large number of children who were thus given a day's outing down the harbor under the most wholesome possible conditions, affords a striking illustration of the large scale upon which philanthropic work of this character can be successfully carried out through municipal agency.

I suggest that this report be printed as a document.

Yours respectfully,
JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

(An abstract of Mr. Marshall's report may be found on page 649.)

The message and enclosure were ordered printed, and assigned to the next meeting.

Widening of Chelsea-Bridge Draw.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 14, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Acting-City Engineer in reply to your order requesting "an estimate of the cost of widening Chelsea-bridge draw opening at north draw from its present width of forty-five feet to seventy-five feet."

Yours respectfully,
JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT.

City Hall, October 24, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: In accordance with the order of the Board of Aldermen, passed October 10, 1898, "That the City Engineer be hereby requested to report to this Board, at its next meeting, an estimate of the cost of widening Chelsea-bridge draw opening at north draw from its present width of forty-five feet to seventy-five feet," I estimate said cost to be $70,000.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN E. CHENEY,
Acting-City Engineer.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Repayment to B. F. Keith.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 10, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

Subsequent to the receipt of the donation of $500 made by Mr. B. F. Keith to the Music Department in furtherance of its work, it was arranged between him and myself that this sum should be applied, so far as needed, toward meeting any deficit which might be incurred in giving the Sunday evening concerts which had been arranged by the Commission. As it appeared later that there was no legal authority for the city to give these concerts directly, owing to the fact that an admission fee was charged, this sum cannot now be applied as desired unless it is returned to Mr. Keith for the purpose. While there has only been a deficit at the first of the four concerts which have now been given, it seems proper to provide for this, as well as for the future contingencies, in this manner, and the full amount of the gift will be applied in some manner toward the promotion of public music, under the direction of the Music Commission. I therefore desire to ask for the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City Treasurer be authorized to return to Mr. B. F. Keith, the sum of five hundred (500) dollars given by him to the Music Department, in order that he may apply the same toward the expenses of concerts given under the direction of the members of the Music Commission, but not directly by the city; said payment to be charged to the appropriation for Music Department.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Loan for Extension of Mains, Etc.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 14, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Water Commissioner, which explains itself. I concur in his position, and recommend the passage of the accompanying loan for the purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE WATER COMMISSIONER.

City Hall, November 3, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: I would recommend an appropriation of $200,000 on account of additional supply of water. This recommendation is made necessary because the Water Department has been, and will be, compelled to incur large expenditures of money in connection with the raising of the pressure of the water by the Metropolitan water system, the change of service in Dorchester and Jamaica Plain from low to high, the laying of new mains in Columbia road, and the laying of an additional line of forty-eight-inch pipe from the Chestnut Hill reservoir to the present outlet from the Brookline reservoir. These expenditures are properly chargeable to the construction account of the works. Owing to the importance of the work and the necessity of completing it at once, the appropriation should be made available immediately.

Yours very truly,
JOHN R. MURPHY,
Water Commissioner.

Ordered, That the Water Department be authorized to lay an additional forty-eight-inch main, to connect with the Chestnut Hill reservoir, to take the place of the pipes now connecting Chestnut Hill reservoir with the Brookline reservoir, to lay a new main in Columbia road; and to lay such other pipes as may be rendered necessary by the additional pressure to be furnished by the Metropolitan Water Board; and that to meet the expenses incurred in carrying out the above order, the City Treasurer be authorized, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, to issue bonds of the City of Boston to the amount of $200,000, said bonds to be marked "Extension of Mains, etc."

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Removal of Poles on Webster Avenue—Veto.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 2, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I return herewith without my signature an order passed by your Board on October 24, requesting the Boston Electric Light Company to remove forthwith seven poles of the said company on Webster avenue. I am informed that since the passage of this order certain alterations in the poles referred to have been made, and that the state of affairs which caused the Alderman introducing the order to desire their removal no longer exists.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The order referred to was put upon its passage, and was rejected.

Be it ordained, etc.:

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Public Grounds be requested to remove a tree in front of No. 11 Savin Hill avenue, the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for Public Grounds Department.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that an examination will be held on December 6, 1898, commencing at 9 A.M., at Boston and any other city in the United States where it has a Board of Examiners, for the position of seed-testing clerk, Division of Botany, Department of Agriculture.

One day of six hours will be allowed for this examination. Competitors should bring pocket lens and pair of forceps to examination, for use in subject of "identification of impurities in commercial seed."

The Commission also announces that on December 14, 15, 16, 1898, an examination will be held for the position of draftsman of marine engines and machinery.

This examination is to establish a register of eligibles to fill an existing vacancy at Newport News, Va., at $3 per diem, and one at San Francisco, Cal., at $3.20 per diem, and other vacancies in similar positions which may occur from time to time.

All persons who desire to compete should at once write to E. E. Stebbins, Secretary of the Board of Examiners, Boston Post Office Building, for applications (Forms 304 and 373) which should be properly executed and promptly forwarded to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C.

One of the most striking features in building up the new portion of the City of Berlin, Germany, is that no permission can be obtained to erect buildings upon any new streets until they are sewered, paved, sidewalked and lighted. The result is, that Berlin is solidly built up as far as it goes, with hardly a vacant lot anywhere. This produces a great saving in lighting, street cleaning, fire and police patrolling, as there are no scattered houses on streets even miles out from the centre of the city.

COST OF SCHOOL SITES.

The foregoing table is reproduced from the report of the Committee on New Buildings made to the School Board at its last meeting. (See page 651.) With regard to the matters set forth in the table, the committee says:

The foregoing statement shows that, in some cases, the prices paid were largely in excess of the assessed valuations, and your committee are therefore requested to state the reasons why, in their judgment, such excess has been paid.

Inasmuch as the prices paid for estates taken at the request of the School Committee are determined by agreement between the former owners and the Board of Street Commissioners, your committee cannot, of course, give the reasons which governed the action of that Board in agreeing to the prices paid.

Your committee believe, however, that, in a number of instances, the assessments were considerably below the real value of the property taken, and that in other instances due weight was properly given to the fact that certain estates taken in congested sections of the city had returned a surprisingly large income to their former owners.

Taking these facts into consideration, your committee are of the opinion that in those cases where the School Committee had obtained options before requesting the taking of the parcels desired, the prices thereby tacitly established were not unreasonably high, and the settlements were fair to the city as well as to the owners.

It should be stated that in one instance the Board of Street Commissioners were able to arrive at a settlement for an amount considerably less than had been named to the School Committee.

THE MUNICIPAL CAMP FOR BOYS AT LONG ISLAND.

In a message to the City Council, dated July 11, 1898 (see THE CITY RECORD, page 427), His Honor the Mayor suggested a plan for utilizing a part of Long Island as a summer camp for boys, and stated that, at his request, the Finance Committee had approved the transfer of $2,500 from the Reserved Fund to the appropriation for the Mayor's office, in furtherance of the experimental establishment of such a camp. Mr. Ernest C. Marshall, Penal Institutions Commissioner, was appointed Director-in-charge, and an Advisory Committee, consisting of William E. Harmon, Chairman; Edith W. Marshall, James F. Wise and William Colvard Parker, Secretary, was constituted.

The report of the Director-in-charge, as to the organization and conduct of the camp, was transmitted by the Mayor to the Board of Aldermen, at its meeting on the twenty-first instant (see page 665). The main features of the report may be summarized as follows:

A high, dry and well-drained site was chosen for the camp on the southeast slope of the westerly promontory of Long Island. The site affords ample space for gymnastics and athletic sports. Thirteen tents, including an administration tent, superintendent's tent and eleven tents, each ten by twelve feet, for the boys, were set up. Each of the boys' tents afforded accommodations for ten persons. A dining-hall and a cook-house, constructed of wood, were also provided.

The camp was organized on a semi-military basis. The schedule of the daily routine of work and recreation was as follows: At 6 A.M., reveille; 6.30 A.M., roll-call and drill; 6.55 A.M., salute to colors; 7.15 A.M., breakfast; 8.15 A.M., police duty; 9 A.M., inspection of quarters; 9.30 A.M., guard mount; 12.15 P.M., dinner; 1.15 P.M., guard mount; until 5.30 P.M., recreation and lectures; 6 P.M., supper; — sunset flag; 8 P.M., campfire talks; 9.30 P.M., taps.

It was planned to accommodate 100 boys, between the ages of twelve and sixteen, at a time, and to keep them in camp for a week. As a rule, fifty boys were received each Monday, and fifty more each Thursday during the time the camp was in operation, viz.: July 18 to September 3. The average stay of the boys was 4.1 days. The boys admitted were selected on the recommendations of well-known persons, such as clergymen, teachers and superintendents of boys' clubs. The number of applications greatly exceeded the number who could be accommodated. In all, 831 boys enjoyed the privileges of the camp. The rule as to age limits was not rigidly enforced, though 783 boys were from twelve to sixteen years of age. Of these, 251 were classed as twelve years old. For special reasons, twenty-eight boys outside the prescribed age limits were received; of these, twenty-four were under twelve and four were over sixteen.

The medical staff of the Long Island Hospital looked after the health of the boys. No cases of serious illness occurred, and only three boys had to be sent home on account of ailments contracted before their arrival in camp. Though the dietary was simple, it was varied and substantial. Admirable discipline was maintained under the superintendency of Mr. Joseph Dyer.

The entire cost of the camp was as follows:

Amount expended for permanent equipment	$977 72
Amount expended for subsistence	$636 77
Amount expended for salaries	427 97
Amount expended for yachts, boats, etc.	239 50
Amount expended for clerical work	125 00
Amount expended for printing, stationery and postage,	66 08
Amount expended for miscellaneous	26 04
	1,521 36
Total amount expended	$2,499 08
Appropriation	2,500 00
Balance	92
Per capita cost of maintenance	1 83

Expenditures for new buildings for boys' camp, to be charged to loan appropriation for new buildings, etc., Long Island:

Amount expended for pavilion and cook-house	309 30
Amount expended for water supply	30 52
	$339 82

The principal recommendations contained in the report are: (1) The enlargement and improvement of the camp grounds and the improvement of facilities for transportation of persons and supplies; (2) greater emphasis on military forms in administration and discipline; (3) increased attention to elementary instruction in natural science, personal hygiene and out-of-door sports; (4) securing co-operation of the School Committee in developing the suggested scheme of instruction; and (5) the constitution of an unpaid advisory and executive Board to take charge of the Municipal Camp for Boys and of its affairs.

According to the report of the British Foreign Office, the value of imports into the Hawaiian Islands in 1897 was $8,871,041, an increase of $1,679,877 over 1896; and the value of the exports was $16,081,305, a gain of $508,428 over the previous year. The increase in imports was noticeable in almost every article, and the increase in exports was due mainly to an increased output of sugar, of which 232,334 tons were exported, all to the United States.

Of the imports, the United States contributed 76.94 per cent., and of the exports 99.62 per cent. went to the United States.

The Town of Brookline, through the Chairman of its Board of Selectmen, has expressed a desire to open negotiations for the purchase for park purposes of the reservoir, with the land adjacent thereto, owned by this city and situated within the limits of said town, known as the "Brookline Reservoir," the right of this city to continue to use such reservoir as long as needed in connection with its water supply to be reserved in such purchase. The views of the Water Commissioner in regard to such a sale are expressed in the communication transmitted herewith, and after fully considering the matter, I am prepared to recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

In view of the desire of the Town of Brookline to settle at the present time the future use of this water basin and the land adjoining thereto, and in view of the fact that it seems that reasonable comity between adjacent municipalities requires that this city should sell property owned by it within the limits of another municipality to such town, provided that a price which seems reasonable under all the circumstances and conditions of the case is offered, rather than that such property should be divided into parcels and sold upon the market to the detriment of such town, I think that the City Council will readily recognize the equity of the case and grant the requisite authority.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE WATER COMMISSIONER.

City Hall, November 19, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: In reply to your inquiry in regard to the Brookline Reservoir, I desire to state that this Department will have use for it for water purposes, only for the next few years, as the development of the Metropolitan Water System will, within this period, supersede the necessity of using it. It seems to me that this reservoir and the adjacent land should pass into the possession of the Town of Brookline, and I can see no reason why a sale should not be effected at the present time, if this town is ready to agree to it, subject to a reservation which will secure this city the right to use it for water purposes, as at present, as long as it may be needed.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN R. MURPHY,

Water Commissioner.

Ordered, That the Water Commissioner be authorized, subject to the approval of the Mayor, to sell the reservoir, and the lands surrounding the same, owned by this city in connection with its water works and lying within the limits of the Town of Brookline, on such terms as said Commissioner, with the approval of the Mayor, may deem proper; the conveyance of such property to reserve the right to continue the use of such reservoir and lands for water purposes during such period as may be fixed by said Commissioner with the approval of the Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Transfer to Baths Department.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 21, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

The loan order making appropriations amounting to $62,500 having been signed by me and gone into effect, I now desire to recommend the speedy passage of the accompanying order, transferring the sum of $10,000 from "Baths Department, public convenience station at or near Park street," to an appropriation for the Baths Department, to meet the expense of additions to, and improvements upon, the bath-houses and bathing establishments under its charge. I regret to feel obliged to recommend any transfer which takes money from a purpose as meritorious as that of building the proposed public convenience station, which I am heartily in favor of, and have several times in the past recommended, but in view of the fact that this and the other appropriations included in this order, all of pressing importance, fully exhaust the borrowing capacity of the city, making it impossible to pass any loan, as heretofore recommended by me, to reimburse the Baths Department for money expended for permanent improvements upon its plant, thereby replenishing its maintenance appropriation and enabling the expense of maintaining the Dover-street bath-house and East Boston gymnasium to be met, it seems to be necessary to provide for these past expenditures of this Department before enabling it to enter upon any new undertaking.

At the present time, its maintenance appropriation is absolutely exhausted, and the transfer is therefore of pressing necessity. The expenditures which will be charged against this $10,000 appropriation, if this transfer is made, are only such as can properly be charged to loan account, being for permanent improvements.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City Auditor be authorized to transfer the sum of $10,000 from the appropriation for "Baths Department, public convenience station at or near Park street," to an appropriation for "Baths Department, additions to, and improvements upon, bath-houses and bathing establishments."

Passed. Message and order sent down.

Summer Camp for Boys at Long Island.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 21, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith the report upon the boys' camp upon Long Island, maintained for seven weeks last summer at the expense of the city, signed by Mr. E. C. Marshall, as Executive Director, and by the members of the Advisory Committee appointed by me to have the general supervision and charge of the camp, consisting of William E. Harmon, Chairman; William C. Parker, Secretary; James F. Wise and Edith W. Marshall.

I desire, in transmitting their report, to express my hearty appreciation of the sympathetic and zealous spirit in which they entered into the novel and delicate work of this new municipal undertaking, and my general agreement with the views presented in their careful and painstaking report. I desire also to express my recognition of the readiness with which the City Council appropriated the money which made it possible to try this interesting experiment in the extension of philanthropic municipal work, and my hope that the results of the camp, as set forth in this report, will be considered by the City Council sufficiently encouraging and beneficial to warrant its continuance another year, on a considerably larger scale, and with a more carefully perfected organization.

I desire to call particular attention to the low cost of maintenance ($1.83 per capita) at which the camp was conducted. This figure would certainly seem to indicate that, with the facilities at its command, the municipality can carry on a camp of this sort more cheaply than any private charitable organization, and that the expense is so moderate as to make it easily possible to afford a week's outing of this character to every boy of school age in the city who would not otherwise be able to enjoy a vacation outside of the city limits.

Outside of the original cost of establishing the camp, which need not amount to more than a few thousand dollars, as many as 500 boys at a time could be kept in camp for a week each during a season of ten weeks, thus affording an opportunity for this outing to as many as 5,000 boys, if so large a number were found to require it, for the sum of $10,080. I cannot but believe that such an expenditure would be one of the most profitable which the city could make in the line of social or educational work, and the successful conduct of such an experiment would certainly give Boston a unique distinction.

Without being prepared at the present time to make any definite recommendations as to the establishment of some similar outing opportunities for girls of school age, I am ready to express my full agreement with the suggestion in this line contained in this report. The reason for starting such work for boys rather than for girls, is only that the former can be handled much more easily in camp, and that there are fewer new problems to be worked out and difficulties to be overcome than would be the case in a similar camp for girls; but logically no preference of this character should be given to children of either sex, and I have no doubt that the successful establishment of this work for boys upon a permanent basis would soon lead to the inauguration of some similar project for the young girls who are equally in need of an outing. I trust that some tentative beginning of work for them may be made during the next summer season.

I agree entirely with the emphasis placed in the report upon the educational side of the work of such a camp. It should be regarded merely as an extension of the system of public education of the young, and as affording an opportunity for giving a different kind of instruction and training—but one no less valuable, perhaps—from that which is given in the school-room. An organized course of summer instruction and training, both mental and physical, given to 500 boys at a time, even though each remained in camp for only one week, could, it seems to me, be made both interesting and valuable, and the novelty of the conditions of life and the freshness of many of the ideas which would be suggested would certainly prove stimulating to growing minds. The important place which summer instruction of the right character can occupy in a system of education is now fully recognized in connection with higher studies, and I believe that the time will soon come when the same idea will be applied in the field of elementary education, and when it will be realized that the community cannot afford to allow the effect of instruction and training, given at immense expense and effort during the school term, to be even partially lost through their complete absence during the long summer vacation.

I shall later make some specific recommendation as to an appropriation for this work for the coming summer, and as to the establishment of some permanent authority for its administration.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Playground Construction.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 17, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I desire to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, accepting the provisions of Chapter 412, of the Acts of 1898, entitled "An Act to provide for a Comprehensive System of Playgrounds for the City of Boston," a copy of which is transmitted herewith. The only reason why I have not before called this act to the attention of the City Council, and recommended its acceptance, has been that there was not a sufficient margin within the borrowing capacity of this year to provide for the expenditure authorized by the act, and the acceptance of the act has the effect of appropriating at once any unused borrowing capacity of the city for the present year up to the amount of $200,000. As the borrowing capacity for the present year will be substantially exhausted when the loan order which has now passed the Common Council is approved, this reason need no longer stand in the way of the acceptance of this act, and it seems to me very desirable that it should be accepted by the present City Council, in order that work may at once begin under it.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered; That the City Council hereby accepts the provisions of Chapter 412 of the Acts of the year 1898, entitled "An Act to provide for a Comprehensive System of Playgrounds for the City of Boston." (See THE CITY RECORD, page 460.)

The order was assigned to the next meeting.

The Street-Watering Division has watered 347.86 miles of streets.

The work and finances of the several divisions are set forth with much detail in the reports of the Deputy Superintendents, which are found in Part II.

The principal recommendations made by Superintendent Wells are (1) that an act should be passed by the Legislature allowing the City of Boston to reconstruct the downtown streets, by an appropriation made outside the debt limit, and $500,000 a year should be allowed for the term, say of three years; (2) that, as a matter of department economy and for the general good of the city, the coming loan bill be passed as one appropriation, and the distribution and expenditure of the money, instead of being allotted to wards for the reconstruction of streets, be placed in the hands of the Superintendent of Streets; (3) that some system be adopted whereby the loss due to deterioration of the streets occupied by railroads and other corporations might be made good to the city by said companies, and that the ordinance requiring a bond to be filed by each company guaranteeing its work for six months be amended by extending the time to twelve months; (4) that the street-cleaning work now done by the Paving Division be transferred to the care of the Street-Cleaning Division, except that done in the semi-annual cleaning of the streets in the spring and fall, when both divisions work together; (5) that an appropriation be made for the purpose of cleaning the Fens and removing the existing deposits of sewage at an estimated cost of $25,000; (6) the gradual displacement in the Sanitary Division of the old form of wooden carts by new dumping-carts of steel; (7) that a street-cleaning force be established in East Boston, Dorchester and Brighton; (8) that a special appropriation be made for the removal of snow; (9) a more rigid enforcement of the ordinances in relation to the throwing of waste materials into the streets; (10) that for the coming year the watering of all the city streets be placed under the supervision of this department, and advantage be taken of the act passed by the Legislature of 1897, authorizing this work to be done, and the cost assessed on the owners of the abutting estates.

ABANDONMENT OF "A" BUILDING AT AUSTIN FARM.

OFFICE OF INSANE HOSPITAL TRUSTEES.

Boston, November 28, 1898.

TO HIS HONOR THE MAYOR:

The Insane Hospital Trustees received on the twentieth instant the following letter:

PHILIP COOMBS KNAPP, M.D., Secretary of Trustees of Boston Insane Hospital.

DEAR SIR: The State Board of Insanity visited and inspected the Boston Insane Hospital November 9. I am directed to forward to you their findings, which are as follows:

"The commitment papers were examined and found in due form. The general conditions of buildings, both at the Austin and Pierce Farms, were found to be below the standard of modern attainment in similar institutions, and, further, the wooden buildings at Austin Farm are absolutely condemned by this Board as a fire-trap.

The administration of these institutions appear to be excellent, under the limitations referred to, and within the possibilities of annual appropriations as made."

I remain,

Yours very truly,

FRANCIS B. GARDNER, Secretary.

Upon the receipt of this letter a special meeting of the Insane Hospital Trustees was held on the twenty-sixth instant. The building condemned is now known as the "A" building at Austin Farm, and was originally the almshouse for female paupers. It contains at present about one hundred and thirty-four (134) female patients, of the quiet or demented type.

The Trustees have long recognized the danger of housing such patients in a building so unfitted for the purpose, and therefore, in view of this communication from the State Board of Insanity, it was voted that the building be at once vacated, and the patients be transferred to the State hospitals. In pursuance, however, of the system of classification recently adopted whereby Austin Farm is to be a hospital for women, the women now in the condemned building will be kept as far as possible in the "B" building, now occupied by men, and the men transferred to the State hospitals.

In view of the necessary abandonment of this building, it becomes still more important that appropriations be made early in the year 1899 for a new building to provide for these patients as soon as possible, and also that appropriations be made for more land and other buildings which may be fully up to "the standard of modern attainment," in order fitly to provide for the city's insane.

I remain,

Yours very truly,

PHILIP COOMBS KNAPP, Secretary.

COST OF SUPPORT OF THOSE SENTENCED FOR DRUNKENNESS.

The following is a report to His Honor the Mayor by the Penal Institutions Commissioner on the cost of support of those sentenced for drunkenness in the Houses of Correction in Suffolk County for the year ending January 31, 1898:

OFFICE OF THE PENAL INSTITUTIONS COMMISSIONER.

November 25, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: I respectfully enclose the report requested on the cost of the support of those sentenced for drunkenness in the institutions under my control. I would also say that this will not cover the total expense of those maintained at the cost of the county, for I am informed that there are a large number of persons sentenced to the jail for this offence. I have made inquiry as to the number at that institution, but am informed that they cannot tell me how many are so confined without going through their books, but their opinion is that there are about 3,000 persons committed there yearly for this offence. This would add at least 35 per cent. more to the figures that I have submitted in the report.

Cost of the support of those sentenced for drunkenness in the Houses of Correction in Suffolk County for the year ending January 31, 1898:

DEER ISLAND.

There were 8,447 committals to this institution for drunkenness, and the aggregate of the time served by those committed was 459,252 days, equivalent to 1,313,019 + years. With a per capita cost of maintenance of $64.70, the cost of the maintenance of the above number was 75 per cent. of the total expense or . . . $111,212 71

SOUTH BOSTON.

There were 107 committals to this institution for drunkenness and the aggregate of the time served by those committed was 13,460 days, equivalent to 36.877 years. With a per capita cost of maintenance of $124.47, the cost of the maintenance of the above number was 7 per cent. of the total expense or . . . 4,590 08

Total cost of the support of drunkards in the Houses of Correction of Suffolk County . . . $115,802 79

Yours respectfully,

E. C. MARSHALL, Commissioner.

At the Second Annual Meeting of the Maryland Conference of Charities and Correction, held at Baltimore, Maryland, on November 29 and 30, addresses were made by His Honor Mayor Quincy on "Public Baths in their Sociological Relations," and by Mr. Kearns, Secretary of the Baths Department, on "How Boston has solved the problem of Public Baths."

(6.) SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE.

Boston, November 10, 1898.

MR. THORNTON D. APOLLONIO, Secretary School Committee.

DEAR SIR: The enclosed letter from the Trustees for Children appears to give formal notice of the discontinuance of the schools in the Marcella-street Home. It is perhaps proper that the communication should be laid before the School Board, partly as it relates to a vote of the School Board whereby the schools in the Marcella-street Home were taken charge of by the School Committee about a year ago.

Very respectfully,

EDWIN P. SEAVER,

Superintendent of Public Schools.

CHILDREN'S INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

Boston, November 9, 1898.

EDWIN P. SEAVER, Esq., Superintendent of Schools, Boston.

DEAR SIR: The Trustees for Children have engaged a house in West Roxbury to take the place of the present Marcella-street Home.

It is possible that we may move early next week. We therefore desire to send you notice that the teachers now in charge at the Marcella-street Home will not be needed after Friday.

Yours respectfully,

CHARLES P. PUTNAM.

Placed on file.

The following order, laid over under the rule at the last meeting, was passed:

Ordered, That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute an order of addition to the contract of the Fuller & Warren Warming and Ventilating Company for changes in and extension of the present heating system in the Bowditch School Building, in the sum of $285, for providing additional heating facilities for the library and master's office.

The following order, laid over under the rule at the last meeting, was passed:

Ordered, That the salary of the janitor of the Old Gibson School Annex be fixed at the rate of $180 per annum from October 10, 1898, until otherwise ordered.

The Superintendent of Schools presented the following appointments and confirmations for the approval of the Board, certified by him as made in accordance with the Rules and Regulations: The appointments of eight special assistants, and of two teachers on probation, which were laid over under the rule; the reappointments of two temporary teachers, which were laid over, under the rule; the confirmations of two teachers, which were laid over under the rule; the confirmations of five teachers in evening schools, two teachers in evening drawing schools, and of two teachers on probation, which were approved under suspension of the rules. Leave of absence was given to six teachers. On the recommendation of the Superintendent, the employment of a temporary teacher in the Dudley District, to date from September 6, 1898, was approved under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. Lowell, for the Committee on School-houses, reported the following resignations of janitors:

Horace Mann School, Josephine M. Tirrell, October 31, 1898; Quincy-street School (Mather District), Mary Leary, December 1, 1898, which were accepted, and also the following appointments of janitors:

Horace Mann School, Annie W. Gannon, from October 31, 1898; Noble School Annex, George J. Merritt, from September 6, 1898; Quincy-street School (Mather District), Carrie Sargeant, from December 1, 1898, which were approved.

On motion of Mr. Lowell, for the same committee, it was Ordered, That the public school established October 12, 1897, in the Marcella-street Home, be discontinued from and after November 11, 1898.

Mr. Lowell, for the same committee, to whom was referred, November 8, a report and order presented by the Committee on Evening Schools, relative to a communication from His Honor the Mayor, with reference to the establishment of free courses of lectures in the evening, in the various school-houses, reported that your committee have given the subject careful consideration, and are of the opinion that the finances of the School Committee do not warrant the undertaking of this work under the supervision of this Board at the present time.

If sufficient funds to start the experiment can be procured from some outside source, this committee have no objection to the use of school buildings for the purpose, where such use will not interfere with the regular work of the public schools.

Accepted, and ordered to be sent to His Honor the Mayor.

Mr. Eaton, for the same committee, to whom was referred, September 27, an order that extra Primary School accommodations be furnished the Gaston District, reported that in their opinion a two-room temporary building should be placed in the yard of the Gaston School, but in view of the fact that the funds now available for the construction of new buildings will not warrant such an expenditure, they recommend that no further action be taken by the Board at the present time with regard to this matter.

Accepted, and the recommendation of the committee adopted.

On motion of Mr. Eaton, for the same committee, it was ordered:

(1.) That there be paid to Mary R. Cleaves, the sum of $9,250 as payment for a lot of land on Bailey street, Dorchester, containing about 12,000 square feet, purchased for school purposes, upon the said Cleaves giving to the City of Boston a deed for said estate satisfactory to the Law Department, the necessary amount for the purchase of said lot having been appropriated by the City Council.

(2.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute contracts in connection with the new primary school-house on Munroe street, Roxbury, as follows:

Building: John McNamara & Sons, $44,173.

Plumbing: Huey Brothers, $2,527, the said firms being the lowest bidders.

Mr. Eaton, for the same committee, to whom was recommitted, October 25, an order relative to the Elm street, Charlestown School-house site, reported that they have carefully considered the matter, and they recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the order passed by this Board October 27, 1896, that the Board of Street Commissioners be requested to take by purchase or otherwise, for school purposes, a parcel of land on the south-easterly side of Elm street, bounded and described as follows, viz.: North-west, by Elm street, there measuring 94.62 feet; north-east, by Lincoln Place, 116.30 feet; south-east, by land now or late of Sarah J. 28 Court Square, November 22, 1898.

The fortieth regular meeting of the Pauper Institutions Trustees was held at 28 Court square, November 7, 1898, at 11 A.M., the full Board being present.

The question of religious services to be held over those inmates who die at Long Island was discussed, and it was suggested that when possible such services should always be held.

The Superintendent of Long Island reported that the new telephone service has been installed, and that the new refrigerator, for the general use of the institution, is now in use; also that the new piggery at Long Island is completed, and affords shelter for 130 pigs. No pigs are now kept in the basement of the barn, but there is need of an extension of the water supply to furnish water to the piggery, which is at some distance from the institution.

Voted, That the Superintendent be directed to apply to the Water Department of the city, asking it to extend the water connection at Long Island in such a way as to supply the new piggery with water.

The Superintendent suggested that certain changes are needed in the barn at Long Island, which will cost about $100, also that furniture is needed in the reading-room, the cost not to exceed $150.

Two letters from Dr. Minot were read in reference to the care of mustered-out soldiers. The question was referred to the Hospital Committee. There are now twenty-five soldiers in the hospital, and there have been no deaths among any of the soldiers sent there.

The special committee, consisting of Mr. Hunnewell and Mrs. Lincoln, reported concerning the employment of a book-keeper, who shall also be a stenographer and typewriter for Long Island.

The question of furnishing daily medical attendance at Rainsford Island was brought up by Dr. Grainger, on request of the Board of Children's Institutions Trustees, and was referred to the Committee on Hospital.

Requests for loans should specify the purpose of expenditure with sufficient particularity, and should be based on actual estimates as far as possible. The financial budget of the city for the coming year will be prepared by the Board of Apportionment, under the provisions of Chapter 434 of the Acts of 1898. This Board will enter upon its work early in January, and it is therefore necessary that the estimates and requests for loans should be prepared earlier than usual. The head of each Department will be given an opportunity to appear personally before the Board and explain its financial needs.

Heads of departments are expected to keep any increases in the estimates for the next fiscal year down to the lowest possible point, as the city will only have a very slightly increased revenue for current expenditures.

Respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

December 1, 1898.

DEATH OF REPRESENTATIVE-ELECT JAMES T. MAHONEY, JR.

Representative-elect James T. Mahoney, jr., of South Boston, died on Monday, November 28, 1898.

Mr. Mahoney was born in South Boston twenty-five years ago. In 1895 and 1896, he represented Ward 13 in the Common Council of the city. At the recent State election, he was chosen a Representative to the General Court from the Thirteenth District.

THE STORM AND THE STREETS.

The Superintendent of Streets makes the following statement regarding the severe storm of November 27, 1898, in connection with the work of the Street Department:

Saturday, November 26, was cloudy; wind north-east, velocity 11 miles per hour; the average temperature was 29°. Snow commenced falling at 7.37 P.M., wet and heavy. During the early morning hours of Sunday, the twenty-seventh, the wind increased to a hurricane, and by morning there was a heavy fall of snow, which in many places was badly drifted, and the city streets were almost blocked. Many of the overhead wires were broken, and the telephone and other service greatly disarranged. On but few lines of the Boston Elevated Railway Company were the cars running. The Street Department commenced work early Sunday morning, but the snow continuing, and the wind blowing with great force, it was not possible to do much more than open lines of communication between the most important fire-houses and streets that had been made passable by the plows of the Boston Elevated.

At 1.45 P.M. Sunday, the snowfall amounted to twelve inches. On Monday, the twenty-eighth, with the thermometer at 29°, there was a slight additional snowfall of a half an inch. Tuesday was clear, and the thermometer registered 33°. Wednesday there was a further fall of snow, amounting to 5.3 inches, making a total snowfall to be cared for of nearly 18 inches; and the record shows that on Wednesday, November 30, at 8 P.M., there were sixteen inches of unmelted snow on the ground where no work had been done.

All the force of the Department, Paving, Street-Cleaning, Sewer and Sanitary Divisions, men and horses, were substantially put on snow-work Monday and Tuesday, the sanitary forces being returned to their own work as the streets opened up so as to make it possible for them to get access to the houses. Work was continued night and day throughout the week.

In streets where the travel was heavy the snow cradled badly, requiring the use of picks; and, in effect, from every down-town street the snow had to be carted, the temperature at no time through the week rising but slightly above the freezing point. The hill streets were impassable for two days until the Department was able to give them attention.

The work in the outlying districts was made heavy in some places by the tremendous drifts. Fortunately, however, the temperature did not at any time become excessively cold, so that by Sunday night, December 4, the city was in fair shape. On Sunday night the high wind and rain assisted greatly in bringing the streets back to a normal condition.

The scarcity of dumps continues a serious obstacle in the way of the rapid and low-cost removal of the snow. The long hauls, too, and the long waits at the dumps make much waste and extra labor.

As compared to the snowfall of February 1, of this same year (see article by Superintendent of Streets, THE CITY RECORD, page 101), the amount of the fall was slightly in excess, but the weather conditions following were much more favorable to snow removal; so that, while the storm of last February cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, the recent storm will cost approximately $50,000. The cost of snow removal for the financial year 1898 will exceed any in the history of the Department.

The large amount of money required for snow work the present year emphasizes the recommendation made in the last two annual reports of this Department that some provision be made for caring for snow, outside the maintenance appropriations of the Paving and Street-Cleaning divisions. The maintenance appropriation of the Paving Division should be for the maintenance and care of the streets and such other kindred duties as come within its regular province, for two reasons: first, that the cost of street maintenance from year to year could be compared; and secondly, that it might be possible, in making up the annual estimate of cost, to have a basis on which to figure.

This year the regular work of the Paving Division has been badly crippled the entire year in consequence of the tremendous inroad made on its maintenance appropriation by the storm of February. By careful management, it would have been possible, however, to end the year in this division almost within the appropriation, had it not been for this unusually early fall of snow. The snow cost in past years, previous to February 1, the commencement of the financial year, has been but trifling; but in this one year, owing to this November storm, we find the cost of snow removal already amounting to over $175,000, and with nearly two months of the financial year yet to run, and predictions and indications of a severe and early winter.

It is not fair to those charged with the conduct of the work that, through conditions such as these, it should appear when the year is ended they have been unable to so manage the finances of their department as to live within the appropriation allotted by the City Council; nor is it fair to the citizen, who expects a certain amount of street work to be done, that, owing to weather conditions, he should be neglected. It is impossible to so plan the work that the officials in charge of the different districts of the Paving Division can be instructed or informed as to the amount which may become available for their regular work. Under the present arrangement, dependent upon the fall of snow in the early part of the financial year, the summer work is more or less governed; and there is no way of figuring what will come at the very end of the season in the way of cost of snow removal.

I urge at this time, with the recent storm as a lesson, that in the coming year appropriation be made for the regular work of the Paving and Street-Cleaning Divisions, and that some arrangement of moneys be made so that the cost of snow removal, whatever it may be, can be provided for from such further sum as may be set aside for that purpose.

The following is a statement of the number of days labor, number of days teaming, and number of loads of snow removed, by the Street Department from Sunday, November 27, to Monday, December 5, 1898, inclusive:

Number days labor Paving Division men	6,689
Number days labor Street-Cleaning Division men	2,941
Number days labor Sewer Division men	2,786
Number days labor Sanitary Division men	279
Total number days labor	12,695
Number single teams employed	3,053
Number double teams employed	2,413
Number four-horse teams employed	25
Total number teams employed	5,491
Number single loads snow removed	22,513
Number double loads snow removed	12,091
Total number loads removed	34,604

In addition to the above, the greater portion of the paving and street-cleaning forces will be engaged on snow work for another week.

BENJ. W. WELLS,
Superintendent of Streets.

FREE LECTURES FOR THE PEOPLE.

On Monday, the fifth instant, His Honor the Mayor announced the appointment of the new Advisory Committee on free lectures for the people, to consider what can be done in Boston towards giving lectures during the coming winter, of somewhat the same general character as those which have been successfully given for some years under the direction of the Board of Education of New York city, and to take charge of the actual work of arranging for the lectures.

The committee consists of Mr. Joseph H. Lee, 48 Chestnut street; Mrs. Robert A. Ware, 14 Ashburton place; Rabbi Charles Fleischer, 44 Tremlett street, Dorchester; Mr. John O. Norris, Melrose; Mr. F. A. Morse, 120 Corey street, West Roxbury; Dr. D. F. Lincoln, 83 Pinckney street; Mr. W. I. Cole, 6 Rollins street, and Miss Dora Williams, 93 Tyler street.

The committee organized by the election of Mr. Lee as Chairman, and Mrs. Ware as Secretary.

The general plan, so far as it has been outlined, is to give about one hundred lectures during the coming winter. Some of these will be given in school-houses or ward-rooms, and it is probable that a central course of lectures will also be given in the old Public Library building. The price to be paid lecturers will be ten dollars per lecture.

The office of the committee will be at 64 Pemberton square, where communications from persons interested in the subject of free lectures for the people will be gladly received.

City Hall, December 5, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

Under the provisions of Chapter 347 of the Acts of 1897, the Boston Transit Commission has now turned over to the city the portion of the lot of land acquired by said Commission, bounded by Haverhill street, Haymarket square, Canal street and Travers street extended, enclosed in red lines on the accompanying plan, and not needed for the purpose of said Commission. The price at which said land has been charged upon the books of the city, under the provisions of said act, has been fixed by the Transit Commission and myself at the sum of $616,000. In order that this valuable tract of land may be available for a variety of municipal uses for which it is well adapted, some of which are already in contemplation, I desire to ask for the passage of the accompanying order authorizing its use.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners, with the approval of His Honor the Mayor, be authorized to assign to any City Department for its temporary or permanent use, for building purposes or otherwise, any part of the parcel of land transferred to the city by the Boston Transit Commission, under the provisions of Chapter 347 of the Acts of 1897, and bounded by Haverhill street, Haymarket square, Canal street and Travers street extended.

The communication and order were referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Free Lectures in Boston.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 5, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

Referring to the message which I addressed to your body on October 24, in reference to the establishment of free lectures for the people, I now desire to inform you that the School Committee has, at my suggestion, passed a vote authorizing the use of school buildings for such lectures, where such use will not interfere with the regular work of the schools. The Old Public Library Building is also now available for this purpose, and it seems to me that this might well be used as a central point at which certain courses of lectures may be given. Thirty-six free lectures were given successfully last year through the agency of the Education Department of the Twentieth Century Club, and it seems to me entirely feasible and highly desirable that arrangements should be made for giving about one hundred free lectures during the coming winter and spring, and I think that this can be done at an expense of about $2,500. As this work does not come within the scope of any existing department, I have organized an Advisory Committee to take charge of it, and I now desire to ask the passage of the accompanying order providing the necessary funds.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars be appropriated, to be charged to City Council incidental expenses, to defray the expenses of free lectures for the people, to be given in school-rooms and other public buildings, under the direction of His Honor the Mayor.

Passed, under a suspension of the rule—Yeas, 10; nays, 0. Sent down.

A municipal rock-crushing plant has been operated at Burlington, Vt., since the beginning of October. During the five weeks of operation the items of expense amounted to $2,068.84, and the output of the plant was about 3,650 tons of stone of various grades. The cost of stone to the city during this time was, therefore, about fifty-six cents, while the price generally charged by contractors had been $1 a ton.

Board Meetings.Insane Hospital Department.

The Insane Hospital Trustees met at 126 Commonwealth avenue on November 26, 1898.

Present: Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Marion, Mr. Sanderson, Drs. Baldwin and Knapp.

A letter from the Secretary of the State Board of Insanity relating to the condition of buildings at Austin and Pierce Farms (see THE CITY RECORD, page 675) was read.

The recommendations of the letter were discussed by the Board, and the general opinion was that, in view of the dangerous condition of the wooden buildings at Austin Farm, which had long been recognized by the Board, the Board was no longer justified in using the building as a ward of the Hospital. It was, therefore, voted that the building be emptied. The Secretary was instructed to notify the State Board of Insanity of the action, and to ask for the transfer of a sufficient number of patients to the State hospitals.

In furtherance of the policy begun by the Board, to use the Austin Farm as a hospital for women, it was voted that the men now in the "B" building be transferred to Pierce Farm and the State hospitals, and that the women now in the "A" building be transferred to the "B" building.

A letter was read from the Mayor with reference to the Registration Department and the changes recommended in the appointment of the Institutions' Registrar.

The Chairman of the Insane Hospital Trustees was authorized to join with the other officials mentioned in the Mayor's letter, in petitioning the Legislature for the passage of an amendment to the present law to effect the changes recommended by the Mayor.

The Secretary and Chairman were authorized to sign a special draft for the balance for the board of patients in other hospitals when the transfer was made, to meet the deficit.

It was voted to purchase four scales for weighing patients at Pierce Farm.

A request for the transfer of Honora Corcoran from Worcester to Austin Farm was read, but in view of the necessary transfers from Austin Farm it was voted that it could not be granted.

The Committee on Service recommended that the Superintendent be asked to nominate a suitable person for matron and superintendent of nurses at the next meeting of the Board. It was voted that the Committee be authorized to employ a proper person at such salary as they should think necessary.

It was voted that the Chairman and Secretary wait upon the Mayor and notify him of the closure of the "A" building and the transfer of patients to the State hospitals.

FREE MUNICIPAL LECTURES.

The first regular meeting of the committee recently appointed by Mayor Quincy to arrange for free lectures was held at 64 Pemberton square, Saturday, December 10, at 3.30 P.M. There were present: His Honor Mayor Quincy and all the members of the committee.

It was decided that the name of the committee should be "Mayor's Advisory Committee on Free Municipal Lectures."

Mayor Quincy stated that an appropriation of $2,500 for this work had passed the Board of Aldermen.

The main consideration of the meeting was regarding questions of policy in the administration of the courses of lectures.

It was voted to arrange for about one hundred lectures; also that no tickets be required for admission, and that children under sixteen years of age be excluded, as the lectures are intended solely for adults. The committee decided to pay each lecturer $10.

It was voted to give lectures at least, at ten different points in the city, and a sub-committee, consisting of Mr. Lee, Mrs. Ware and Mr. Cole was appointed to consider what school-houses and ward-rooms are best adapted for this purpose.

The committee voted to proceed at once to arrange a first course of lectures for Thursday evenings in January at the old Public Library building. The regular meetings of the committee will be held hereafter on Friday afternoons at 4 P.M., at 64 Pemberton square.

FREE MUNICIPAL CONCERTS.

The next weekly municipal concert will be given on Tuesday evening, December 20, 1898, at St. John's School-hall on Moon street, North End, at 8 o'clock. The program will consist of selections by the Municipal String Quartet, assisted by Mr. C. J. Leary, baritone, and Mr. James T. Whelan, accompanist.

The concerts thus far given have been so successful that at the conclusion of the present series the Music Department intends to have them repeated, with added features. It is estimated that when the ten concerts included in this series are concluded the number of persons benefited by listening to good music will be considerably over 10,000.

Admission to these concerts is free, the only requirement being the presentation of a ticket, which may be obtained at the office of the Music Department, 64 Pemberton square. The Department would be glad to furnish charitable and other organizations with any number of tickets for distribution to persons who would desire to attend the concerts.

Tickets for next week's concert may also be secured at R. M. Burden's drug store, 312 Hanover street; at Julius Rottenberg's Agency, 115 Salem street, and at the office of "Il Corriere," 192 North street.

CITY INSTITUTIONS AT DEER ISLAND AND SOUTH BOSTON.

The following is taken from the report of the grand jury for Suffolk County made to the Superior Court, with regard to the public institutions of the county:

We recommend that authority be given to Superintendent Gerrish to purchase materials for a new building for female prisoners and to try the experiment of erecting the building by the employment, as far as possible, of the male prisoners.

If, under existing regulations it is impossible to employ the prisoners, legislative sanction should be obtained for increased diversity of occupation. We suggest that gardening on a more extensive scale should be tried at Deer Island, accompanied by the purchase, if necessary, of fertilizers.

The manufacture of chairs and cheap furniture could be carried on both at South Boston and at Deer Island, as is done in the Concord, (N. H.), Prison. Iron bedsteads and mattresses might also be made. The product of these new industries could be used in the public institutions, without interfering with general trade.

It is, in our opinion, advisable that more attention should be given to the instruction of those prisoners who desire it, and are capable of profiting by it. The school hours could with advantage be extended to four or five hours per day, and more paid teachers should certainly be employed if none of the inmates are sufficiently competent.

Superintendent Whiton of South Boston deserves praise for the condition of his premises, especially in view of the fact that the buildings are very old and inconvenient. Better cell accommodation is much needed, as the cells are much too small, and it is inhuman to keep prisoners in such a small place for thirty-six hours, as is necessary on Sundays. In view of the fact that a new cell-house is imperatively required, that the rest of the buildings are out of date, and that a strong iron fence is needed around the whole grounds, we urgently recommend that a new House of Correction be erected elsewhere, and that these buildings be sold. The site is contiguous to the park system, and as the water front of Boston is naturally limited, the welfare of the city demands that the land be made available for other purposes.

SCHOOLS AND LIBRARIES.

Part 2, Volume III., Census of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for 1895, prepared by the Bureau of Statistics of Labor, treats of schools and school property, libraries and reading-rooms in the State.

THE NEW CHARTER OF SAN FRANCISCO.

On May 26 of this year the new city charter of San Francisco, proposed by the Board of Freeholders, was ratified by vote of the electors of the city. The charter will become a law upon its being approved by the Legislature of California, which convenes in January. The present charter has become almost inoperative by reason of the many changes and amendments to it. A peculiar feature of it is that the city officials are, for the main part, appointed by the Governor.

Among the leading provisions of the proposed charter are the following:

Legislative powers are vested in eighteen supervisors, who are elected at large by the city and county, and who hold office for two years. The Mayor is the presiding officer of the Board. Ex-mayors are entitled to seats therein, and its meetings must be public.

Fifteen per cent. of the electors may petition for the submission of any ordinance to vote of the people. If it receives a majority of the votes cast it becomes a valid ordinance, and can only be repealed by a similar vote of the people. Ordinances granting franchises for light or water, or for the lease or sale of public utilities, or the purchase of land over $50,000 must first receive a majority of the votes of the people.

No contract for gas or electric light for the city shall be for over one year, nor shall it be valid if the price is higher than the lowest price charged to any other consumer.

Street railway franchises can be granted by the supervisors for a term not exceeding twenty-five years. The holder must pay during the first five years of the franchise at least 3 per cent. of the gross receipts at the end of each month; 4 per cent. during the next ten years, and 5 per cent. during the last ten years.

Messages from the Mayor.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

A regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, at 3 P.M., on Monday, December 12, 1898, Chairman Dyar presiding and all the members present.

The following messages from the Mayor were received:

Building for Insane Condemned.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 12, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Insane Hospital Trustees which explains itself, and I feel obliged to recommend the passage of the accompanying order. I am strongly in favor of the policy of providing for the care of our own insane within the limits of the city, rather than placing them in State institutions at a distance, but it is, of course, necessary, in order to enable this to be done, that buildings of a proper character should be provided. I trust that an appropriation to build additional buildings for our Insane Hospital may be passed early during the coming year.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF INSANE HOSPITAL TRUSTEES.

December 8, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: The following letter from the Secretary of the State Board of Insanity has been received by the Insane Hospital Trustees:

Boston, November 19, 1898.

PHILIP COOMBS KNAPP, M.D., Secretary of Trustees of Boston Insane Hospital.

DEAR SIR: The State Board of Insanity visited and inspected the Boston Insane Hospital November 9. I am instructed to forward to you their findings, which are as follows:

The commitment papers were examined and found in due form.

The general conditions of the buildings, both at the Austin and Pierce Farms, were found to be below the standard of modern attainment in similar institutions; and, further, the wooden buildings at Austin Farm are absolutely condemned by this Board as a fire-trap.

The administration of these buildings appears to be excellent, under the limitations referred to, and within the possibilities of annual appropriations as made.

I remain,

Yours very truly,

(Signed) FRANCIS B. GARDNER,
Secretary.

In view of this recommendation from the State Board of Insanity, the Insane Hospital Trustees decided at their meeting on the twenty-sixth of November that they were no longer justified in using the building as a ward of the hospital. It was therefore voted that the buildings be emptied and the patients transferred to the State Hospitals.

In view of the fact that the Corporation Counsel has given his opinion that action by the City Council is required, in order to authorize us to abandon the use of the condemned building (the "A" building, Austin Farm), I am instructed by a vote of the Board of Trustees on this day to ask permission to close the building and transfer the patients to the State Hospitals.

I remain,

Yours very respectfully,

PHILIP COOMBS KNAPP, Secretary.

Ordered, That the Insane Hospital Trustees be authorized to discontinue the use of the building designated as "A" building, at Austin Farm, the same having been condemned by the State Board of Insanity as dangerous and unfit for use.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Appointment of Weigher of Coal.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 12, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

Subject to your approval and confirmation, I hereby appoint Marcellus H. McElroy a Weigher of Coal for the term ending April 30, 1899.

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Laid over under the law.

SNOW REMOVAL FROM ALLEYS.

The following statement has been issued from the office of the Superintendent of Streets:

The matter of snow removal from the alleys recently accepted as public alleys under the new act has caused some embarrassment to the Street Department, and also to the abutters on these alleys. In the last storm these alleys were badly blocked, and partly through the difficulty of a number of people combining to make arrangements to promptly care for the snow the delay in making the alleys passable was considerable. Superintendent Wells of the Street Department is willing to assist in this matter in any way that will be agreeable and fair to the abutters, and that will accomplish the purpose. He calls their attention to the fact that under the act under which these alleys were accepted it is distinctly stated that the city will not remove the snow.

The effect of the act is to put upon the city the burden of keeping them cleaned up, and to give the city the authority to pave or make repairs at the expense of the abutters, and to put in force the ordinances covering the throwing of rubbish and refuse into the roadway, thus making it possible to prevent what in the past has been a most objectionable feature—the throwing of rubbish and filth into these alleys.

As the statute gives the Superintendent of Streets no authority to act in this matter of snow removal, any arrangement that is made must be under agreement between the abutters. Several plans have been suggested by gentlemen interested in the matter, who have consulted the office of the Superintendent, and the most feasible seems to be as follows:

If the abutters on any alley will sign an agreement stating that they will put the matter of snow removal in the hands of the Superintendent of Streets, he can do the work by contract, and assess the cost upon the abutters as follows: One-quarter of the whole cost to be assessed on all the abutters, and three-quarters of the cost to be assessed on those who place their yard snow in the alley; the assessment to be made according to the frontage of the lot, the work to be done under the supervision of the Superintendent of Streets, and the actual cost to be assessed. To insure the payment to the contractor, a bond would be required sufficient to guarantee the agreement.

Of course there is no way to force any one to come into such an agreement if he does not throw his yard snow into the alley, and it would be for the balance of the abutters to decide whether they would proceed with the arrangement without those who refuse to come in.

The matter of throwing the yard snow into the alley can be controlled from the Superintendent's office by requiring a permit to do so; and one condition of this permit would be that it must be shown before its issuance that some arrangement had been made for the removal of snow satisfactory to the Department.

Such a storm as the recent one comes but seldom; but when it does occur, the condition of these alleys is such that it is absolutely necessary that some means be taken to clear them. In the last storm the Street Department office was flooded with letters, some of complaint and some of suggestion. For a week or ten days the removal of the house-wastes, the putting in of coal, and, in the event of fire, the entrance of the Fire Department, were completely blocked.

As the Street Department is not looking for more burdens, the Superintendent would be pleased if on each alley or block the abutters could arrange amongst themselves to take care of this matter; but experience shows that this is almost impossible, and if the above plan, or some modification of it, is desired by the abutters on the public alleys, they will please communicate with the office of the Superintendent of Streets.

The order for the construction of the alleys in the Back Bay was passed so late in the season that the Street Department was unable to accomplish much in the way of putting these alleys into proper condition. Another year, however, will see the alleys in certain sections put in good condition, and thereafter kept clean and sightly by the city.

MEETING OF FRANKLIN FUND MANAGERS.

A meeting of the Managers of the Franklin Fund was held in the Aldermanic Chamber on Tuesday, December 20, 1898. All of the managers, viz.: the Board of Aldermen, and Rev. Charles W. (5.) Ordered, That the Mayor be, and he is hereby authorized, if the Managers of the Franklin Fund shall purchase a building of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to execute an agreement with said Institute; that said Institute shall occupy and use said land and building in connection with instructions in physics, mechanical engineering and electricity, for the term of ninety-nine years, at a rental of $1 per annum, and give courses of free lectures upon one or more subjects, annually, during said term; shall designate said building as the Franklin Building, and shall establish eight scholarships, to be known as the Franklin Scholarships, and to be awarded to graduates of the grammar or high schools of the City of Boston on competitive examinations.

The orders numbered (1) and (2) were passed. Messrs. Charles, Cleary, Conry, Dixon, Norton, O'Toole, Duane and MacLennan voted yes, and Messrs. Berwin, Codman, Lott, Paige, Fresco and Eells voted no on order (1). Order (2) was passed unanimously, Alderman Dyar being absent.

Action on orders (3) to (5) inclusive, and further consideration of the subject was postponed till next year.

The sum appropriated by the Managers of the Franklin Fund, on December 28, 1893, for the establishment of a Franklin Trades School amounted to $322,490.20. On January 31, 1898, the appropriation, with accrued interest, amounted to $355,004.68.

REPORT OF THE HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

The report of the Hospital Department for the year 1897 constitutes Document 15, 1898. The report, which numbers 192 pages, comprises (1) the report of the Trustees signed by their President, Mr. A. Shuman; (2) the report of the Superintendent and Resident Physician, Dr. Rowe; (3) an extensive series of statistical tables relating to the medical and surgical service of the several branches of the Department, viz., the Hospital proper, the South Department, for cases of infectious diseases, the Out-patient Departments, and the Convalescent Home; (4) a statement concerning bequests and trust funds; (5) rules for the administration of the Hospital and the Convalescent Home, and (6) a description of the course of instruction in the Boston City Hospital Training School for Nurses together with a catalogue of the graduates of the school.

Following is a condensed summary of certain leading features of the report.

The total number of beds, 768, were distributed as follows: In the Hospital proper 512, in the South Department 220, in the Convalescent Home thirty-six.

The following table shows certain general facts regarding the population of the Hospital during the year:

	Hospital Proper.	South Department.	Convalescent Home.	Totals.

In addition to the cases treated in the Hospital wards, 22,712 patients visited the Hospital for advice and treatment in the out-patient department, who were classified as follows:

Medical diseases	3,798
Surgical diseases	9,857
Diseases of the eye	1,938
Diseases of the ear	783
Diseases of the skin	1,103
Diseases of women	817
Diseases of the nervous system	606
Diseases of the throat	1,315
Surgical out-patients treated in the accident-rooms, and not included elsewhere	2,495

The patients admitted to the wards of the Hospital during the year were classified as follows:

Medical services	3,578
Surgical services	3,612
Gynaecological service	512
Ophthalmic service	102
Aural service	112
Total	7,916

The following tabular presentation shows the number of patients treated, the number of deaths and the rate of mortality in the Hospital proper in the fiscal years 1892-1898:

	Patients Treated.	Died.	Rate of Mortality.
1892-3	8,236	958	.116
1893-4	8,763	1,153	.131
1894-5	8,599	1,060	.123
1895-6	8,439	881	.104
1896-7	8,393	835	.099
1897-8	8,382	852	.101

The entire amount expended for all departments of the Hospital during the year, was $374,193. Of this amount, $258,903 was on account of the Hospital proper; $79,825 on account of the South Department; $9,180 on account of the eight out-patient departments; $8,438 for the Convalescent Home; $2,057 on account of determining the settlement of paying patients; $8,555 on account of new buildings, and $7,232 on account of pathological building.

From the amount expended for the Hospital proper ($258,903) should be deducted the difference in the amount of stock on hand February 1, 1898, which was $12,154 more than was on hand on February 1, 1897, making the total amount chargeable to the expenditures of the year $246,749. Of the total amount expended, several items were for purposes not within the ordinary yearly maintenance of the patients. There were expended for expense incurred in card cataloguing clinical records, etc., $797.38; medical and surgical reports, $667.76; making a total of $1,465.14, which, deducted from the total expenditures of the Hospital proper, leaves $245,284.09, properly chargeable to current expenses. This amount, divided among 8,382 patients, for 24,920 week's board, gives $9.84 as the cost to the city of each patient per week. The weekly cost of each patient at the Convalescent Home has been $6.27. The Trustees have collected and paid into the City Treasury in cash the sum of $68,992.64, this sum having been received principally on account of board of patients. No allowance has been made for this amount in computing the weekly net cost of each patient to the city.

During the year work has progressed upon the new buildings for which there were special appropriations. The installation of the electric light plant (at a total cost of $75,000) and the coal-pocket in connection with the power-house, have been completed, and the new laundry building is progressing well. The ten estates on the corner of Massachusetts and Harrison avenues, for which there was a special appropriation of $101,000, were taken by the city under right of eminent domain, and the payment for the various estates has been settled, and made within the appropriation. The Ann White Vose Building for Nurses is well under way, and the contract calls for its completion in February, 1899.

In order to reduce the cost of fuel, the Trustees decided to construct a coal-pocket in connection with the power-house, so that the Hospital could purchase and store its coal by the cargo. By the adoption of coal-carriers, the coal can be conveyed from the coal-pocket directly to the mouths of the furnaces. By changing the grates in the furnaces, the finer and cheaper grades of coal can be used. The Hospital has expended during the present year, for coal burned in the main power-house, $24,822. The average cost of the quality of hard white ash anthracite coal is approximately $4.87 per ton of 2,240 pounds, but by purchasing buckwheat coal, at about $2.25 per ton by the cargo, the Hospital will easily save from $6,000 to $7,000 annually.

During the year the Hospital received a special appropriation of $25,000 for the purpose of constructing the coal-pocket. Accordingly, plans and specifications were prepared, and the contract awarded to John H. Procter & Co. for the sum of $24,838. The coal-pocket is ninety feet long by sixty feet wide. The main portion of the building is thirty-two feet high, and the central, or ridge portion, is forty-six feet high. The tower, containing the hoisting machinery, has a frontage of twenty-four feet on the wharf, and is nineteen feet deep and 106 feet high.

Experience has demonstrated the wisdom of constructing the South Department as a special department for the treatment of infectious diseases, and the steady decrease in the death rate of diphtheria is highly significant. The average death rate of all cases of diphtheria in the city for the period of sixteen years was 30.7 per cent. The percentage of deaths in the South Department, for diphtheria alone, last year was 14 per cent., and for the present year 13 per cent.; and the total death rates from cases last year was 14 per cent., and during the present year 11 per cent. The percentage of deaths to discharges was twelve, and to the total number of persons treated during the year, less those occurring twenty-four hours after admission, was eight and one-half.

The terms of service of medical and surgical house officers have been extended from eighteen months to two years.

The Training School for Nurses, established in 1878, graduated fifty-four persons in 1897, making a total of 496 since its establishment. A radical change has been made in the organization of the Training School during the past year. Previously, nurses were admitted the first month of probation without pay, and for the remainder of the first year received $10 per month, and during the second year $14 per month. With the object of affording an optional third year course of training, the Trustees have arranged the nursing service as follows:

Nurses during the first month of probation receive no pay, but during the remainder of the first year $7 per month, during the second year $10 per month, and at the end of the second year they are given a diploma, when they are at liberty to leave the Hospital for private nursing or other occupations.

Nurses remaining for a third year will be given an additional course of class instruction and special lectures on matters pertaining to hospital management, hygiene and allied subjects, which nurses in private practice are not called upon to use.

The Trustees recommend (1) the reconstruction of the Hospital kitchen, which was intended for 550 people and has to provide frequently for over 1,000 persons, and (2) the establishment of a down-town relief and ambulance station for emergency cases in the business section of the city, preferably at some point north of State street, e.g., near the northern opening of the subway.

NEW SOUTH BOSTON BATH-HOUSE.

Operations will be begun at once toward the construction of the new bath-house and gymnasium to be located on East Ninth street, South Boston, Ward 15.

Two lots of land, containing a trifle over 6,650 square feet, have been bought for this purpose by the Baths Department. The City Council has appropriated $12,500 for the bath-house, of which amount $2,760.51, mainly covering the cost of a portion of the land taken, has been expended.

The building, which will contain three stories, will be built completely over the entire lot of land. The plans show the façade on East Ninth street to be of gray brick, with light Indiana limestone trimmings on the first story and terra-cotta on the next two. The main entrance opens into a vestibule, from which the stairs lead by a double flight both up and down.

In the basement is situated the swimming tank, which will be seventy feet in length by twenty-six feet in width, six feet six inches in depth at one end and three feet six inches in depth at the other. The tank-room is situated in the rear, and runs up two stories in height, with a glass roof and large ventilating skylights.

On this floor are also the dressing-rooms. They are sixty-seven in number, each four feet by three feet six inches in area. There are also upon this floor five shower-baths, toilet-rooms, etc., and the boiler-room.

On the first story of the building are the men's and women's waiting-rooms, the attendants' room, the men's locker and bath-rooms, containing 236 lockers, eleven shower-baths, toilet, etc. The women's bath-room contains sixteen showers, four tubs, toilet, etc., and is also located on this floor.

The gymnasium, measuring seventy-eight feet in length by forty-five feet in width, occupies the entire third floor, and is to be fitted up with the usual apparatus. A running track will be placed overhead.

The building is to be heated with steam, and thoroughly ventilated with a fan system. The water for the tanks is to be heated and kept in constant circulation. The plans of the house were prepared by Perkins & Betton, of Boston.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

A regular meeting of the School Committee of Boston was held in the School Committee Chamber, in Mason street, at 7.30 P.M., Tuesday, December 13, 1898. All members were present except Mrs. Ames and Messrs. Calderwood, Huggan and McDonald.

In the absence of the President, Mr. Allen, the senior member, called the Board to order.

Mr. Allen was chosen temporary President.

The nomination of Oliver Kingsbury, to be instructor in military drill, laid over under the rule, was confirmed.

It was ordered, under a suspension of the rules, that the Board authorize the employment of additional teachers in excess of the number or rank allowed under the rules, as presented by the Superintendent at the last meeting.

The following orders, laid over under the rule at the last meeting, were passed:

(1.) That the salary of the teacher of the special class, authorized by the Board November 8 be fixed at the rate of $792 per annum.

(2.) That there be paid to Mary R. Cleaves the sum of $9,250, as payment for a lot of land on Bailey street, Dorchester, containing about 12,000 square feet, purchased for school purposes, upon the said Cleaves giving to the City of Boston a deed for said estate satisfactory to the Law Department, the necessary amount for the purchase of said lot having been appropriated by the City Council.

(3.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute an addition to the contract of Walter S. Sampson & Son, for building the new primary school-house, Thomas N. Hart District, in the sum of $475, for underpinning the stone retaining wall between the yard of the present grammar building and that of the new primary building.

(4.) That of the amount granted to the School Committee under Chapter 408 of the Acts of 1895, as amended by Chapter 442 of the Acts of 1897, the following appropriation be made:

Morton-street School-house lot, grading, $200.

(5.) That the Committee on New Buildings be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute an addition to the contract of G. A. Cahill, for building the new primary school-house at Forest Hills, in the net sum of $340, for fire-proofing staircase.

(6.) That the Committee on School-houses be, and they hereby are, authorized to execute a contract with Heywood Brothers and Wakefield Company, in the sum of $2,635.87 for furnishing the Paul Revere School-house, said concern being the lowest bidder.

The Superintendent of Schools presented the resignations of two teachers, which were accepted. The Superintendent presented the following: The appointments of six temporary teachers, which were placed on file; the appointments of two special assistants, which were laid over under the rule; the appointments of three teachers on probation, which were laid over under the rule; the confirmations of eighteen teachers, which were laid over under the rule; and the transfers of two teachers, which were laid over under the rule. Leave of absence was granted to nine teachers. The employment of one temporary teacher and the transfer of one teacher were approved under suspension of the rules.

On motion of Mr. Eaton, for the Committee on New Buildings, it was ordered:

(1.) That the present buildings upon Munroe street, Roxbury, primary school lot, together with that portion of said lot fronting on Comifs terrace, and containing 1,250 square feet, purchased in 1892, be surrendered to the City Council, the same being no longer required for permanent school purposes, with the recommendation that said land and buildings be sold, subject to temporary occupancy, during the construction of a new school-house on Munroe street, and that the proceeds of such sale be applied to the cost of the new building.

(2.) That the Paul Revere School, Prince street, be accepted by this Board, subject to the terms and conditions of the contract.

Mr. Eaton, for the same Committee, to whom was referred, November 22, a communication from the Board of Aldermen requesting the names of bidders for the erection of the East Boston High School, with the amount of bids, and the name of the bidder who received the contract, reported that the following proposals had been received:

W. H. Keyes & Co.	$259,943
Kerrens Driscoll	253,952
Connery & Wentworth	237,500
John S. Jacobs & Son	237,400
Norcross Brothers	237,263
James Fagan	229,389
Mead, Mason & Co.	226,950
James A. Colson	207,905

Subsequently the specifications were somewhat modified, and the contract was awarded to Mead, Mason & Co. for the sum of $203,006.

Accepted and ordered to be sent to the Board of Aldermen.

Mr. Strange, for the Committee on School-houses, reported the resignations of three janitors, which were accepted; and the appointments of three janitors, which were approved.

On motion of Mr. Eaton, it was Ordered, That an additional grammar school assistant be allowed in the Gaston District.

Mr. Bassett, for the Committee on Salaries, to whom was referred, November 8, an order relative to the salary of the substitute for the instructor of military drill, absent without pay, report that they have duly considered the matter, and, as the Board has approved the appointment of a temporary instructor during the absence of E. M. Weaver, they recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the salary of the temporary instructor of military drill be fixed at the rate of eight (8) dollars for each day of actual service, from December 1, 1898, to April 1, 1899.

Accepted and the order passed under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. Bassett, for the same Committee, to whom was referred, November 22, an order relative to the salary of Edward R. Kingsbury, assistant in the evening drawing schools, reported that Mr. Kingsbury formerly served for four consecutive years in the evening drawing schools, and has recently begun his second term of service, and as the rules do not provide for the allowance of credit for previous service in his position, he has been placed on the minimum salary of $4 per evening. Other instructors, who, under a second appointment, are now teaching as assistants in the evening drawing schools, have, from the beginning of their present terms of service, received the maximum amount of pay, or $6 per evening. Your Committee believe that the same consideration should be shown Mr. Kingsbury, and accordingly recommend the passage of the appended order:

Ordered, That Edward R. Kingsbury, assistant in the evening drawing schools, be placed upon the maximum salary of his rank, to date from October 17, 1898.

Accepted and the order passed under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. Anderson, for the Committee on Rules and Regulations, to whom was referred, November 22, an order that the regulations be amended so as to provide that the evening drawing schools shall have for vacation the two weeks immediately preceding the first school day in January, reported that your Committee have given the subject consideration, and are in favor of the proposed amendment. They therefore recommend the passage of the appended order.

Ordered, That the Regulations be amended as follows:

Section 326. Add the following to the section:

The two weeks immediately preceding the first school day in January shall be vacation.

The report was accepted, the order read twice, and passed.

On motion of Mr. Paul, it was Ordered, That the Committee on New Buildings consider the advisability of surrendering the Winthrop School to the City Council, and consolidating the present districts in the fourth division so as to provide for one less district in that division.

On the motion of Mrs. Keller, it was Ordered, That permission be granted Dr. Clarence J. Blake to examine the ears of all pupils in the Horace Mann School, said examination to be without expense either to the city, or to the pupils and their friends.

At 9.20 the Board adjourned to Tuesday, December 27.

NEXT MEETING OF THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

At its last meeting the Board of Aldermen voted to adjourn to meet on Tuesday, December 27, at 3 P.M., and that all hearings on orders of notice be assigned accordingly.

According to a report made by the Superintendent of Prisons of the State of New York, the total population of the State penal institutions is 3,308.

EXTENSION OF BUILDING LIMITS.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen held on Monday, December 19, 1898, Alderman Lott, for the Committee on Building Department, submitted the following report on the extension of the building limits in the City of Boston, which was referred to the Committee on Public Improvements:

The Committee on Building Department, to whom was referred, April 11, the petition of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters for an extension of the building limits, respectfully report that the Committee have given the subject serious consideration, and submit herewith an ordinance providing for an extension of the building limits so as to include a portion of Roxbury and South Boston. In arriving at this conclusion, the Committee took into consideration the fact that the area submitted was largely covered at the present time, and for that reason very little hardship could accrue to prospective builders by their being forced to construct buildings of the first or second class instead of third class or wooden, as now permitted.

The fire limits of the City of Boston have never been increased from the original establishment in 1871, excepting a small portion which was increased subsequently by extending the line from Charles river through St. Mary's street, Longwood avenue, Bumstead lane, Ward street, and Parker street, to Ruggles street, instead of from Charles river, through Parker street to Ruggles street. Since the original act of 1871, there have been annexed to Boston the adjoining towns of West Roxbury and Brighton, and the City of Charlestown, increasing the area of our city over 30 per cent. At the time of annexation, these areas in Brighton and West Roxbury were largely open fields, but in the last twenty-five years have grown up wooden cities, with a population of 150,000 and upwards.

The advantage of establishing the fire limit is to prevent, as far as possible, the spreading of fire over a protracted area by placing barriers in its way. These barriers are solid brick walls; walls with openings in them, protected by fire-doors; and the internal slow combustion or fire-proof style of construction now in vogue.

The necessity for such a law or ordinance maintaining the safety of the community as a whole, and at the same time protecting the individual interests, has been clearly demonstrated since the establishment at the original limit. The necessity of protecting ourselves against losses by fire has today become a duty, and such a duty that every individual feels the burden of the tax necessary to meet these losses, for loss by fire is an absolute loss to some one. There is no refunding process, by insurance or otherwise, that does not finally find a point where there is no return. Fire underwriters and those engaged in the prevention and extinguishment of fire are well aware of the fact that the real losses come upon the people, that insurance companies are merely distributors of the money collected from the many insured to pay the few who meet with losses, and this money so collected to pay these enormous losses, together with the money in excess of insurance received necessary to replace the building, is just so much capital diverted from trade, where it would give employment to the masses.

All the reasons heretofore argued for establishing our fire limit, together with the added one of growth of our city in population, area covered, and value of property, also the increasing of the fire risk by extending the height and areas of our modern buildings, make it imperative that as far as possible the restrictive area for the construction of wooden buildings should be extended.

The Committee had before them the Insurance Underwriters and the representatives of the Building and Fire Departments. These interests are protected ones, and, therefore, were expected to take advanced ideas in the matter of fire protection.

On the other hand, the objections were made by owners in outlying districts, desiring to utilize their property for selling at the greatest advantage to themselves; by the speculative builder, who saw in this movement the restricting of his business; by the owners of small estates, who, through lack of room and often through lack of funds, find, theoretically, the demands of fire limit construction too heavy a burden to bear.

In the City of Boston for a period of five years, previous to the present one, it is estimated that first and second class buildings have been erected at an estimated cost, in round numbers, of \$36,000,000, and wooden frame buildings at an estimated cost of \$30,000,000, an excess for brick buildings of but 20 per cent. in valuation. The increase in population during this period is roughly estimated at 75,000, and the fire loss for the same period has been estimated—personal property, \$6,800,000; real estate, \$3,300,000; a total of over \$10,000,000. The average assessed value of personal property during this period was estimated to be, in round numbers, \$208,000,000; of real property, above land, \$460,000,000—a total of \$668,000,000. From these figures, it is seen that the percentage in increase of valuation by building and personal property during the period referred to, was about 10 per cent. of the total valuation of the city, and the fire losses were about $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of this valuation; that is, the losses by fire were 15 per cent. of the increase in valuation—an enormous tax.

In addition to this tax must be added the amount of money expended in keeping wooden frame buildings in repair, for every one knows the helpless, sordid, state of decay in which wooden buildings fall unless constantly looked after and repaired. As to the cost of maintaining wooden buildings, insurance men are said to reckon 5 per cent. annually; but if it is but one-half that amount, the original investment will have been sunk in less than forty years.

In comparison to this, fire-proof buildings will have in that time shown an advantage in cash outlay of 80 per cent. on the total investment, as well as proving a barrier to the extension of these immense fire losses. One point to consider is, whether the loss of 15 per cent. of our increased valuation above land by fire is an item of expense that we can continue to bear, a burden we indifferently impose on ourselves as a sort of inevitable one. Or have we become convinced of the necessity, as well as the desirability, of ending this over-burdened and unnecessary load?

Boston is a great and congested city of wooden buildings, so constructed, and placed in such close proximity one to the other, without solid brick walls to prevent the spread of fire, that the present conditions are rightly termed "a menace to our city." It was stated to the Committee by experts that should a fire occur at the present time, and in its spread obtain control, the city would be liable to a conflagration even greater than Boston has ever before been visited with, and this must be apparent to every one who logically deduces his reasoning from the lessons of the past, as they were presented to this Committee.

The Committee is aware that increasing the limit would necessarily occasion hardship to those who desire to alter their property, or improve by building new; yet the hardship so occasioned is as nothing in comparison to the jeopardy in which the entire city is placed by the covering of such immense areas with wooden structures, and without the necessary fire barriers previously referred to. All restrictions of law or ordinance create hardships, but the benefits to the individual citizen must be sacrificed for the good of the whole. While the Committee, in its judgment, differs from the petitioners as to what should constitute the boundary line of such a limit, we still agree that some extension of the present limit should be made.

One of the serious objections to the extension of the limits, is the cost in construction of wooden buildings, as compared with brick, and that the prohibition of wooden buildings in the district under contemplation for extension of fire limits, would cause a decrease in building operations, a decrease in land valuations; and, in consequence, a loss in taxes to the city. On the contrary, it was stated that the prohibition of wooden buildings in Philadelphia has neither ruined the suburban districts, deprived the poorer citizens of homes, nor decreased the land valuations and tax to the city; but, on the contrary, in no great city of this continent are people of small incomes housed so safely and comfortably as in the little brick houses in the outlying parts of Philadelphia.

It seemed to the Committee that this condition of affairs could be safely and profitably copied in the City of Boston. Remonstrants against that portion of South Boston included in the limit, asserted that land there would be rendered almost useless unless wooden buildings could be put upon it; yet brick building at the present time is active in South Boston in that portion which is very close to the business portion of the city, and where huge fire-proof warehouses, with steel frames, are being erected, and are quickly leased.

It is hardly necessary to say that the Committee feels that to construct wooden houses in such close proximity to these great buildings is to injure the whole very seriously, one might almost say to insure their destruction; and it, therefore, is obvious before very long, either the erection of warehouses or of wooden houses in that vicinity of South Boston must stop. Land owners of South Boston, however they may dread the uselessness of their property, it seems to the Committee that they would rather sell their land at warehouse value, which it will probably soon be converted to, than bring it in competition with the outlying districts for cheap wooden tenement houses.

The Committee accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying ordinance establishing the building limits as set forth therein.

For the Committee,
WILLIAM H. LOTT, Chairman.

An Ordinance Relative to the Building Limits.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston as follows:

Chapter 45 of the Revised Ordinances of 1898 is hereby amended in Section 27 by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section, viz.:

Section 27. The building limits referred to in Section 18, of Chapter 419, of the Acts of the year 1892 are established as follows:

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The following special announcement, with regard to stenography and typewriting examination, is made by the United States Civil Service Commission:

Hereafter there will be but one examination in stenography and typewriting for all branches of the service, and that examination will be the one regularly held for the departmental service. Whenever a vacancy occurs in any branch of the service other than departmental—for instance, in a custom house, post office, etc.—a list of eligibles will be prepared containing the names of those who were examined in the particular customs district, post office district, etc., as the case may be, where the vacancy exists, and who have expressed a willingness to accept a position in that service, preference being given to legal residents of the districts. Certification in these cases will be made directly from the office of the Commission in Washington, through the local secretary, the papers in each case to be transmitted from this office with the certification. Requisitions to fill vacancies in custom-houses, post-offices, etc., will be made as usual upon the local secretary, who in turn will transmit the requisition to the Commission, and the certification will be issued as indicated above.

The Commission announce the following examinations:

Beginning on January 10, 1899, commencing at 9 A.M., examination will be held at Boston, and any other city in the United States where it has a Board of Examiners, for the position of clerk to the United States Naval Constructor, at Port Royal Naval Station, S. C., at a salary of $4 per diem.

Two days will be allowed for this examination. This position is one of responsibility, and one requiring experience in the handling of an untrained office force, and in keeping accounts of time, cost of work, etc., according to prescribed regulations. A more or less definite knowledge is therefore necessary in regard to the nature of the work carried on at navy yards, of technical terms in connection therewith, of the trades employed, of the manner of disbursing appropriations under titles and sub-titles, of the methods of purchasing and expending material, of employing and discharging labor, of distributing the time on various job orders, and obtaining accurately the cost thereof, etc.

Beginning February 7, 1899, at 9 A.M., examination will be held at any city in the United States where it has a Board of Examiners, for the positions indicated below, at the salaries mentioned:

One ship draftsman, Crescent Shipyard, Elizabethport, N.Y., $5 per diem; one ship draftsman, Newport News, Va., $5 per diem; one ship draftsman, office of United States Naval Constructor, Maryland Steel Company, Sparrows Point, Md., $5 per diem; two ship draftsmen, Construction and Repair Department, Mare Island Navy Yard, California, $3.28 per diem; one ship draftsman, Construction and Repair Department, Mare Island Navy Yard, California, $4 per diem; one assistant ship draftsman, office Supervising Naval Constructor, "Gas Engine and Power Company and Charles L. Seabury & Co., Consolidated," Morris Heights, N.Y., $4 per diem; one assistant ship draftsman, Newport News, Va., $4 per diem; one assistant ship draftsman, Richmond, Va., $4 per diem; one assistant ship draftsman, Baltimore, Md., $4 per diem; one assistant ship draftsman, Wilmington, Del., $4 per diem.

Four days will be allowed for ship draftsmen examinations and three days for assistant ship draftsmen. The age limit is twenty years or over.

All persons who desire to compete should at once write to E. E. Stebbins, Secretary of the Board of Civil Service Examiners, Post Office Building, Boston, Mass., for application blanks (Forms 304 and 375), which should be properly executed and promptly forwarded to the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D.C.

Messages from the Mayor.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, at 3 P.M., on Monday, December 19, 1898, Chairman Dyar presiding. Absent—Aldermen Paige.

The following messages from His Honor the Mayor were received:

Increase in Salaries of Policemen—Veto.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 15, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I return herewith without my signature the order raising the salaries of inspectors, lieutenants, sergeants, patrolmen and assistant keepers of the city prison, under the Police Department, by the sum of $200 each per annum.

In spite of the unanimity with which this order was passed by both branches—no opposition to it being recorded in the Board of Aldermen, and only three votes being cast against it in the Common Council—and of the further fact that the order cannot take effect without concurrent action on the part of the Board of Police, it becomes none the less my duty to consider whether the proposed increases of salary are either practicable or proper—whether the financial condition of the city will permit the proposed increases, and whether such increases are proper, upon their merits, in comparison with salaries paid in other departments of the city; for it is of course obvious and has been repeatedly demonstrated by experience, that the salaries of public officials and employees have a close relation to each other, and that an increase in the scale of salaries for one class of public servants will surely lead to demands, which may be resisted for a time, but are likely to succeed in the long run, for a corresponding increase in other branches of service. I have not the slightest hesitation in taking the position that the proposed increases are inadmissible from every standpoint, and while I need express no criticism upon the members of the City Council, who voted for the order with such unanimity, I venture to say that there are few, if any members of either branch who would be prepared, after any sort of an inquiry into the facts, to assume the sole responsibility of putting it into effect. The financial system of the city has been changed none to soon through the establishment of the Board of Apportionment, if this order is to be taken to represent the financial wisdom of the City Council.

The number of patrolmen now on the rolls of the Police Department is 894, and the inspectors, lieutenants, sergeants and assistant-keepers of the City Prison number 117, making a total of 1,011 persons whose pay is increased under this order, involving a total increase of \$212,400 in the expenditures of the Police Department, or an increase of 12 $\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. over the expenditures for the last financial year, which amounted to \$1,667,887.26.

No one at all familiar with the difficulty which is now experienced in carrying on the business of the city departments, and meeting the additional requirements imposed from year to year by the growth and development of the community within the limits of a $9 tax rate, of which $2.85 is set aside for the support of public schools, can be led to believe that it is possible to make this increase without seriously hampering the equally important work of other departments, and restricting the service of the city in a manner which would lead to just complaint on the part of citizens. It is only with great difficulty that the city can make both ends meet at the present time in carrying on its business, under the limited tax-rate established by the law of the Commonwealth, and the proposition to increase salaries by the sum of $212,400 in one year in any single department of the city, or even in all the departments put together, is one which, upon financial grounds alone, cannot be entertained.

I might rest my objections to this order entirely upon the foregoing ground, but it may be as well to state some others. Even if the business of the city did not have to be managed within the limits of a $9 tax-rate, I should not believe it proper to increase the taxes levied upon our citizens in order to add to the present pay of the police officers. In the first place, the order as it stands would do away with the gradation of pay as now established by the Board of Police, under which a patrolman gets $1,000 during his first year of service, $1,100 during his second year and $1,200 during his third year and thereafter, and every patrolman would, from the beginning of his service, have to receive the same salary. Secondly, the conditions of service in the Police and Fire Departments are so far similar, that there should be a certain general correspondence of pay.

Regular hosemen in the Fire Department now receive $1,100 per year, and, if the pay of patrolmen were raised by $200, there would certainly be a strong demand for the increase of the rate of pay in the Fire Department, and one which might rest upon relative justice. Thirdly, in comparing the pay of policemen with that of other municipal employees, two important distinctions must be remembered; the policeman is protected against removal except for cause, being outside the sphere of ordinary administrative or political changes, and he has the right to be retired from service at the age of sixty-five or in case of disability incurred in the actual performance of duty, and he may be so retired on account of any physical disability after fifteen years of consecutive service, receiving upon such retirement a pension equal to from one-third to one-half of his pay. While I recognize the peculiar and responsible nature of the duties of a policeman and fully believe in the wisdom of providing a retiring pension, I believe that the fact that such a pension is paid should be taken into account in determining what annual salary should properly be paid. Fourthly, a comparison of the salaries paid to patrolmen in Boston with those paid in other large cities of the country shows that the salaries paid here are already larger than in any city of the country of similar size, with the single exception of New York, where the maximum salary, established by a special Act of the Legislature, is $1,400, though the minimum salary of a patrolman is only $800.

The following table contains this information, which has been secured at my request through the courtesy of the Board of Police:

CITIES.	Number of Patrolmen.	Salary.	Population.	Clothing.
New York . .	6,437	$800 to $1,400	3,480,000	Not allowed
Chicago . . .	2,500	$1,000	1,875,000	Not stated
Philadelphia .	1,899	$2.75 per day	1,250,000	$40 allowed
St. Louis . . .	824	Not stated	700,000	Not allowed
Boston	894	$1,000 to $1,200	530,000	" "
Baltimore . .	670	$18 per week	510,000	" "
Cincinnati . .	398	$85 per month	420,000	" "
Detroit	403	$900	349,000	" "
Pittsburg . . .	295	$2.50 per day	300,000	" "
Washington . .	500	$900 to $1,080	280,000	" "
Denver	112	$80 per month	168,000	" "

I need only add that salaries in New York, both in public and private employment, are notoriously higher than in any other city in the country, and that living expenses are also greater in that city.

The cost of raising our municipal salaries generally to the New York standard would impose an unwarrantable burden upon our tax-payers, and one which they would not for a moment submit to. Allowing for the difference in the standard and cost of living in the two cities, I believe that our patrolmen are about as well off with a salary of $1,200 as those of New York with a salary of $1,400.

Another conclusive objection to the proposed increase remains to be mentioned, and it is one of such force that it must have escaped the notice of members of the City Council, — particularly those who represent the outlying wards. There is a constant pressure upon the Board of Police to afford additional police protection, to keep up with the growth of the community, and the Board has repeatedly taken the ground that its service requires a larger number of patrolmen than it now has. The sum which it is proposed to devote to increasing the salaries of police officers would provide for 177 additional patrolmen, or an increase in the present force of nearly 20 per cent. at the full rate of $1,200 per annum. If it is possible (which in my opinion it is not) for the city to increase the appropriation for the Police Department by such a sum as $212,400, there can be no question that a large part of this amount should be devoted to increasing the number of the police force, in order to meet the growing wants of the community, rather than to an increase in existing salaries.

I may call attention, in conclusion, to the fact that in the last eleven years the expenses of the maintenance of our Police Department have increased by 51 per cent. (from $1,104,256.44 in 1886-87 to $1,667,887.26 in 1897-98), while during the same period our population only increased by 30 per cent. (from about 400,000 in 1886 to about 520,000 in 1897). This would seem to indicate that the expenditures of the Police Department have already increased fully as fast as the growth of our population will warrant, without the large addition which this order proposes.

I trust that the position which I feel it necessary to take upon this order will not be taken to indicate any lack of appreciation on my part of the excellent character of our police force, considered as a body, or of the faithful services performed by its individual members. I fully realize that there are special hardships and dangers attaching to police service, and if I felt that the position of the city finances and of the resources of the community justified the proposed increase at the present time, it would be much more agreeable for me to approve the order than to interpose the obstacle of an executive veto. But I am confident that any fair-minded members of the police force, who will look into the matter, will themselves recognize, as citizens as well as public servants, the impossibility at the present time of giving practical effect to the irresponsible generosity of the City Council in voting away the public money. I might also have left the unpleasant duty of preventing this increase to be performed by the Board of Police, whose concurrent action is required before the order can take effect, for while I have had no consultation with the Board upon the subject, I do not doubt that the considerations above mentioned, or some of them, would have led it to withhold its approval of the order; but it has seemed to me necessary in order to place the City Government in a proper attitude before the citizens, and with a view to affecting possible future action, that this order should not leave City Hall with favorable action upon it if I could prevent it.

It has been suggested to me that the passage earlier in the year of the order providing for an increase in the salaries of police captains has been one of the moving causes which led to the adoption of the present order; if this is the case, and particularly if the passage of the former order has given any just grounds for this movement in favor of increasing the salaries of patrolmen, I can only express regret that I did not at least endeavor to prevent its passage. The increase of the salaries of captains, however, only involved an additional expense of about $11,000, and the Board of Police has not yet found it possible to provide out of its appropriation even this amount, so that the increase has not yet gone into practical effect.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Police Department.

Appointments by the Mayor.

Communications were received from His Honor the Mayor making the following appointments, subject to confirmation by the Board:

(1.) Frank G. Webster to be a member of the Board of Commissioners of Sinking Funds for the term ending April 30, 1900, in place of Henry R. Reed, resigned.

(2.) Horace Dennie and George M. Locke to be Constables of the City of Boston for the term ending April 30, 1899.

(3.) William F. Stewart to be a Weigher of Coal for the term ending April 30, 1899.

Severally laid over under the law.

Boxing of Tree — Veto.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.

City Hall, December 16, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I return herewith without my approval a vote passed by your Board, granting permission to Harry J. Meghran to box a tree at 494 Broadway, Ward 14, for the reason that permission cannot legally be given to place a sign around a tree.

I assume that the proposition in boxing the tree is to furnish a support for a sign, as it would not be necessary to get permission from the Board if it were simply intended to place a suitable guard around the tree for its protection.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The vote whereby the said permission was granted was reconsidered, and the question came on again granting permission, the objections of His Honor the Mayor to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Board refused to grant permission.

Receipts for Care of Soldiers.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 19, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

The Trustees of the City Hospital have been at a large extra expense, amounting in all to some $20,000 in providing for the care of the large number of soldiers who were received in the Hospital, and as there is no margin in the regular appropriation for the Hospital Department to provide for such an extra expenditure, it becomes necessary that it should be met in some manner. The Hospital has been reimbursed for a portion of such expenditures by the Commonwealth, and expects to receive further partial reimbursements from the War Department, but there is no authority at present for crediting such amounts to the Hospital Department appropriation. I therefore desire to ask for the passage of the accompanying order for such purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That all sums received by the city from the Government of the United States, from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, or otherwise, for the care of soldiers in the City Hospital, be credited to the appropriation for Hospital Department.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Loan for Various Purposes.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 19, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

It now appears by the Auditor's statement for December 1 that the actual borrowing capacity of the city for the current year exceeds the borrowing capacity as estimated at the beginning of the year by $65,592.02. As various extraordinary expenditures have had to be incurred during the latter part of this year, among which may be mentioned the cost of taking care of a considerable number of soldiers at the City Hospital and that of removing snow after the recent heavy and unseasonable storm, it is very necessary, in order to properly close the accounts for the financial year, that loans should be authorized at once out of this additional borrowing capacity, to provide for certain expenditures properly chargeable to loans which various departments have been obliged to make, and to meet, for the time being, out of their maintenance appropriations. I therefore desire to ask for the passage of the accompanying loan order, and if any items do not explain themselves, I should be glad to furnish any additional detailed information which may be desired.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Old Small-pox Hospital.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 19, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

The Board of Health having no further use for the building and grounds on Canterbury street, known as the small-pox hospital, recently asked to be relieved of their care, and they were accordingly placed in the hands of the Street Commissioner. I am now in receipt of the enclosed communication from the Insane Hospital Trustees requesting that this property, which borders upon Pierce Farm, be transferred to their Department, and I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

INSANE HOSPITAL TRUSTEES.

December 12, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor:

DEAR SIR: By a vote of the Insane Hospital Trustees, on the eighth of December, 1898, I am instructed to ask that the building and grounds on Canterbury street, formerly occupied by the Board of Health as a small-pox hospital, be transferred to this Board.

The property in question borders upon the grounds of the Insane Hospital at Pierce Farm, and is a part of the square which the Trustees desire to obtain for the further development of the Hospital. It is therefore urgent, in their opinion, that that property should not be devoted to other purposes than the use of the Hospital.

I remain,

Yours respectfully,

PHILIP COOMBS KNAPP, Secretary.

Ordered, That the land and buildings on Canterbury street, formerly used by the Health Department as a small-pox hospital and now in the custody of the Street Commissioners, be transferred to the care and control of the Insane Hospital Department.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Locations for Street-light Posts.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 19, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I transmit herewith a petition of the Boston Electric Light Company for locations for electric lamp-posts, to be erected by it in substitution for the iron lamp-posts belonging to the city, upon which electric lamps are now placed. This petition is presented in accordance with the contract between said company and the city, which is printed in City Document 117 of the present year, and which provides that the company is to erect, at its own expense, wooden lamp-posts of a new and improved pattern, to carry the enclosed arc type of lamp, in place of the old style iron lamp-posts belonging to the city. I can see no objection to the granting of these locations, and I therefore desire to recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

TO THE HONORABLE THE MAYOR AND ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF BOSTON:

The Boston Electric Light Company hereby petitions that it may be granted locations in the streets, squares and other public places of the City of Boston for wooden posts for the transmission of electricity and the support of electric lamps in substantially the same places as those now occupied by the iron lamp-posts belonging to the city, and as indicated on a map dated December 19, 1898, bearing the written approval of the Superintendent of Lamps, which map shall be deposited in the office of the Superintendent of Streets; and that the locations of posts, as designated on said map shall be, and be deemed and taken to be, the true locations thereof.

Boston Electric Light Company,

By SAMUEL S. SIAS, Treasurer.

Ordered, That the Boston Electric Light Company be, and is hereby, granted locations in the streets, squares and other public places of the City of Boston for wooden posts for the transmission of electricity and the support of electric lamps in substantially the same places as those now occupied by, and in substitution for, the iron lamp-posts belonging to the city, and as indicated on a map dated December 19, 1898, bearing the written approval of the Superintendent of Lamps, which map shall be deposited in the office of the Superintendent of Streets; and the locations of posts as designated on said map shall be, and be deemed and taken to be the true locations thereof.

Expenses Incurred by Hearings on the Franklin Fund—Veto.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 19, 1898.

TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

I return herewith without my approval an order passed by your Board on December 12, providing that the expenses incurred in connection with the public hearing given by the Managers of the Franklin Fund be charged to the appropriation for Contingent Fund, Board of Aldermen. It seems to me that this expense should more properly be charged to the Franklin Fund, and this can be done as soon as the votes passed by the former Managers of the Fund are rescinded.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

The vote whereby the said order was passed was reconsidered, and the question came on again passing it, the objections of His Honor the Mayor to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Board refused to pass the order over the Mayor's objection, the vote on its passage being—Yeas, 0; nays, 10.

Building Construction Department.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, November 26, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

While it seemed to me desirable that the work of executing repairs and improvements upon city buildings by the direct employment of mechanics in the different building trades should, at the start, be placed in the hands of a division of the Public Buildings Department, rather than in a new department created for that purpose, I believe that this branch of municipal work has now become so well established and of such magnitude that it should be placed in the charge of a separate department. The connection between the Public Buildings Department and the Repairs Division is largely a nominal one, and I see no reason why it should longer exist, particularly in view of the fact that the office and shops of the Repairs Division are necessarily at a distance from those of the Public Buildings Department, and the mixing of the finances of the Repairs Division with those of the department to which it is nominally attached tends to cause confusion. I believe that it will tend toward greater simplicity of administration and be for the advantage of both these branches of work to separate them entirely, and I therefore desire to recommend the passage of the accompanying amendment to the Revised Ordinances of 1898, drawn by the Corporation Counsel, for the accomplishing of this object.

It has seemed to me better to give the proposed new department a broader name than that of a repair department, and I therefore suggest that it be called the Building Construction Department, which properly indicates its scope and function.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

AN ORDINANCE TO ESTABLISH THE BUILDING CONSTRUCTION DEPARTMENT.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. The Building Construction Department is hereby established and the same shall be under the charge of the Superintendent of Building Construction, who shall execute all repairs and improvements on buildings, or parts of buildings, belonging to or hired by the city, whether used for city or county purposes, and all constructions of new buildings, except such constructions, repairs and improvements as are required by law to be made by contract, and such as can be made by the regular employees of the department, or departments, having the charge of the building or part of building; said work shall include all work coming within any of the building trades, or connected in any manner with the building trades, except electrical construction and electrical repair work, and the same shall be done by said Building Construction Department when requested by the officer in charge of such other department, such request in the case of new construction to be approved by the Mayor. Said Superintendent shall execute all such work by competent mechanics employed directly by him, and he shall purchase all the materials and supplies needed in connection with such work.

Section 2. The City Auditor at the close of each month shall transfer the amount of all bills allowed by him for materials furnished and work done by said Superintendent as aforesaid for another department to the appropriation for the Building Construction Department, to be used as a part of such appropriation.

Section 3. Said Superintendent shall be appointed annually by the Mayor, subject to confirmation by the Board of Aldermen; shall give a bond in the sum of three thousand dollars, and shall receive an annual salary of thirty-five hundred dollars.

Section 4. Section 1, of Chapter 32, of the Revised Ordinances of 1898, is hereby amended by striking out in the fourth line thereof, the words "and repairs," and by striking out in the ninth and tenth lines thereof, the words "make all repairs and improvements, and."

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Civil Engineers in Building Department.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 17, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

The Building Commissioner has for some time urged the need of appointing one or more civil engineers in his Department, and a recent death in his force makes it possible to add one civil engineer at the present time without increasing the total salaries paid by the Department. Section 3 of Chapter 419 of the Acts of 1892, authorizes the appointment in this Department of "such number of building inspectors and civil engineers as the City Council may from time to time by ordinance determine." The present ordinance authorizes the appointment of twenty-four building inspectors, but makes no provision for civil engineers. I therefore desire to recommend the passage of the accompanying amendment.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER 8 OF THE REVISED ORDINANCES OF 1898.

Be it ordained, etc., as follows:

Section 1 of Chapter 8 of the Revised Ordinances of 1898 is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "and may also appoint not exceeding two civil engineers."

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Federal Square.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 12, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

In view of the disappearance of the name of Federal street, on account of the rearrangement of the streets in the vicinity of the new Southern Union Station, it seems to me desirable that this name, on account of long association, should be perpetuated in some manner, in this locality, and I therefore desire to suggest the passage of the accompanying order, giving the name of Federal square to the area in front of the station, at the intersection of Summer street and Atlantic avenue.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the open space at the junction of Summer and Federal streets and Atlantic avenue be named, and hereafter known, as Federal square.

Referred to the Committee on Public Improvements.

Regulation of Peddling.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 19, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

I desire to recommend the passage of the accompanying ordinance, the effect of which is to transfer the regulation of peddling from the Board of Health to the Street Department. Heretofore, there has been a Superintendent of Peddlers under the Board of Health, and the Street Department also found it desirable a year or more ago to appoint an officer of its own to look after peddlers' licenses. There is at present a vacancy in the position of Superintendent of Peddlers, and the Board of Health agrees with the view that it should be relieved of any supervision of peddlers, and that this duty should be transferred wholly to the Street Department.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER 18 AND 38 OF THE REVISED ORDINANCES OF 1896.

Section 1. Section 1 of Chapter 38 is hereby amended by striking out, in the twenty-first, twenty-second and twenty-third lines thereof the following: "and shall appoint a Superintendent of Peddlers, and require him to see that every hawker and peddler conforms to law."

Section 2. Section 2 of Chapter 18 is hereby amended by striking out in the twenty-first, twenty-second and twenty-third lines thereof, the following: "and shall appoint a Superintendent of Peddlers, and require him to see that every hawker and peddler conforms to law."

The ordinance was given its first reading and laid over to the next meeting of the Board.

The total income of these trade unions for the year 1896 was £1,693,150 or an average of £1 12s. 8d. for every member, equivalent to a contribution of 7½d. per week. INTERIOR DIVISION.

Inspections made	225
Notices of new work received	115

Inspections have been made of the temporary wiring at the various theatres, and at one of them changes were found to be necessary in the interest of safety.

Fires reported to be due to electrical causes at 324 Beacon street, 445 Boylston street and 1141 Washington street, have been investigated. With reference to the first mentioned place no evidence was found to warrant the statement that the fire was due to electrical causes. The fire at 445 Boylston street was due to a broken wire between partition walls, the current arcing between the two ends of the same, igniting the insulation on the wire, which communicated fire to the adjacent woodwork. The fire at 1141 Washington street was on the outside wall of the building, and was due to a poor connection in an arc-light cut-out. The damage was confined to cut-out and wall-block on which it was mounted.

Investigation was made with reference to a shock received by a man at 1176 Washington street, while operating a switch on a secondary circuit inside a building. Cause: burn-out of transformer on outside of building, primary current entering building over secondary wires.

The Department responded to alarm from from box 211, December 14, for a fire at 4 Willow park.

Of the great universities of the country only four provide courses of study intended to fit a person for a business career. They are all of more or less recent development, but possibly the most complete is the College of Commerce established in connection with the University of California.

Included in the list of ten courses provided at the new college may be mentioned the following studies: Political economy, foreign and domestic exchange, currency and banking in all countries, commercial usages, studies of the history of commerce and industry, legal and political studies of different nations, geographical studies, technological studies concerning transportation and materials of commerce, and linguistic studies.

The annual meeting of the Association of Massachusetts Assessors was held at the State House, Boston, on Wednesday, December 21. A committee was appointed to draft appropriate resolutions on the death of the late Joshua S. Duncklee, for a number of years a member of the Board of Assessors of Boston.

WINTER LOAD-LINE REGULATIONS.

Prominent commercial organizations of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, for several years past have been agitating the question of securing favorable action by the British Board of Trade toward the abolition, or equalization, of the existing winter load-line regulations applying to the loading of vessels trading between Great Britain and the above-mentioned ports. Word was received by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, on Tuesday, that the Board of Trade had approved the revised tables submitted by its committee relative to the matter.

Although vessels plying between Great Britain and ports in the Chesapeake pursue practically the same route in crossing the ocean as vessels running to ports north of the Chesapeake, and are subject to the same perils and conditions, yet the load-line regulations have provided that in winter vessels of the latter class shall not load as deeply as those of the former class. This has seemed a discrimination against the ports of Boston, New York and Philadelphia in favor of Baltimore and Newport News, and the equalization of the regulations places all ports along the eastern North Atlantic seaboard on an equality in the matter of the loading of vessels of a length approximating a tonnage of 2,000 tons and over. This limit will not affect, in any way the regular steamships running to Boston, for the reason that the carrying capacity of practically all of them exceeds 2,000 tons. It is understood that the new regulations will go into effect at once.

Preliminary estimates show an increase of 2,868 miles during 1898 in the railroads of the United States, the largest increase reported since 1892, when 4,419 miles were added. More than one-third of this increase was supplied by nine roads.

Ten roads in Canada have built 448 miles and ten roads in Mexico have built 412 miles, in both cases there being a substantial increase over the number of miles built in 1897.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY BUILDING.

The improvements in the Public Library Building, provided for out of the special appropriation granted last spring, are now nearing conclusion. These improvements are: Increase and rearrangement of space for readers, and for administration, additional machinery and administrative equipment and furniture, and improvement in the system of heating and ventilating.

READING ACCOMMODATIONS.

The Boylston street driveway has been enclosed to form with the adjacent room a periodical-room. The present periodical-room on the north-east corner has been enlarged and will become the newspaper reading-room. The use of the periodicals and newspapers, which is so closely allied, will thus be provided for in three large rooms conveniently en suite. The room now occupied by the newspapers will be released for other purposes, and the newspapers will be in a room directly accessible from the main vestibule, not necessitating, as heretofore, the transit of a third of the building.

Children's room and patent-room—The present children's room has been relieved of the registration-desk, which has been removed to the delivery-room. The children's department is to be augmented also by the addition of the present patent-room adjacent to it. This is to be fitted up as a children's reference reading-room, with a good reference library, including maps, photographs, etc., useful to children in their school work. In the gallery of this room will be a kindergarten library for teachers, augmented from the present collection.

The collection of drawings and specifications of patents is to be removed to a room in the west wing reached from the court-yard and from the special libraries floor. This room has been enlarged and provided with galleries. Besides the collection of patents, it will provide in part for the work of the statistical department recently established, being directly adjacent to the collection of documents on the special libraries floor. It has also been connected with the bound volume newspaper-room containing the most important of the files of newspapers.

ADMINISTRATION.

Delivery-room—On the Blagden street (south wing), the Librarian's office adjacent to the Abbey room, has been thrown into the old tube-room so called, from which books are issued. The space for the issue of books has thus been doubled. With it the delivery counter has been doubled, and provides now distinct divisions for the return and for the issue of books. The registration desk, formerly in the children's room, has also been provided for at this point; an essential, as its work is intimately connected with that of the delivery department, and its remoteness from that department heretofore has forced the public to traverse the whole width of the building for needs that properly should be treated together. The old system of pneumatic tubes, involving fifty-six stations in the building, has been overhauled and new and improved terminals substituted. The twenty-eight terminals in the delivery-room, formerly stretching in a line, have been grouped in a circle for more speedy operation. In addition, an auxiliary system of improved tubes (operating by suction instead of by pressure) has been installed, which not only connects the delivery-room with each one of the six stacks and with the special libraries floor, but connects every stack with every other stack, so that slips may be sent from stack to stack without being returned to the delivery-room. In addition, a piece of apparatus has been installed in the delivery-room, itself novel to library use. This is a "Pick-up Carrier," so called. Its purpose is to transport the various slips between four points in the delivery-room, doing business with one another, the issue and return desks, the record trays, and the pneumatic terminals.

The carrier is a little cable railway operated by electricity. At fixed points at intervals upon the cable are carriers, which as they reach a station pick up a batch of slips waiting their arrival, carry them forward and deposit them at such succeeding station as may be their destination. The carrier is not a box, but is more in the nature of a hand which clasps the batch of slips by closing the thumb and fore-finger, and releases them automatically by the opening of these two. The automatic precision with which this work is carried on is quite remarkable. The convenience of the apparatus for use in this connection is that it keeps the flow of application slips practically continuous, whereas when transported by hand they can be transported only in batches at intervals, to the disadvantage of any slip that may be undermost.

A new set of rooms has been created for the Librarian and executive department, consisting of an anteroom, main office, private office, and a room for records and files. This suite of rooms has been connected with the Trustees' room through a lobby formerly open to Blagden street, so that the whole series of rooms representing the general administration is now in proper relation en suite.

The Librarian's office is still, however, very conveniently accessible to the public, being reached directly from the delivery room by a corridor left open on the Blagden street side.

The new administrative offices occupy a part of stack five on the Blagden street side. A part of stack one and of stack two have also been equipped for administrative uses. In stack two, space has been fitted up for the work of the branch division, so called; this is the department at the Central Library having to do with the responsibility of the general administration of the outlying departments of the Library system which includes the twenty-eight branches and delivery stations, and the work connected with the issue of books to twenty-three engine-houses, certain of the reformatory institutions, and various schools. This division also deals with the applications from these outlying departments for books at the Central Library and the system of delivery of those books. At the time the Library moved to Copley square the circulation of books from the Central Library through the outlying departments had become very meagre; within the last four years it has greatly increased.

In addition to the circulation of books upon specific application there is now also a system of deposit collection made up at the Central Library and sent out to each of all the outlying departments except the branches, which have permanent collections of their own. The enlargement of the old work, together with these new undertakings, has instituted the organization of a considerable department, the head of which is the Supervisor of Branches. The space assigned to the work of the branch division when the new building was opened was but 216 square feet; the space now assigned for it in stacks one and two is 1,766 square feet. In stack one is the shipping-room where all the books enter and from which they are despatched. It is reached from a window opening from a sidewalk, to which the teams back up. In stack two is the provision for the administrative and clerical work, with shelving for the collection of books drawn upon more specially for deposit use.

The adaptation of portions of stacks two and five for administrative purposes has necessitated enlargement of the whole series of windows on the Blagden street side at these levels, from two feet three inches to four feet ten inches in width.

The stacks from the basement to the special libraries floor have been connected at the south-westerly corner by a staircase. Inter-communication between the stacks has also been secured by the auxiliary pneumatic-tube system, above indicated, and by the electric book-lift mentioned below.

The ordering department has been more than doubled in size by the addition to it of corridor and other space. It has also been greatly improved as to light, and forms now a most admirable space for the business of securing and receiving books and preparing them for the catalogue and shelf departments.

On this wing, also, have been arranged offices for the chief janitor (formerly near the main vestibule), and for the custodian of stock, so called, the official who has the responsibility of purchasing the 200 odd articles, from pencils to towels, in current use, and the duty of distributing them to the several departments upon requisition approved by the Librarian. In the basement a large space has been fitted up as a stock-room for the storage of these articles. Adjacent to the stock-room is a space fitted up with shelving for the duplicate-room, where duplicate books not needed for library use may be sorted and arranged for exchange, distribution and sale.

Elevators—Two electric elevators have been installed in this wing, one a passenger and freight elevator for service use, with a capacity of 1,500 pounds at 150 feet a minute. This has been installed in the centre of the service staircase, which has been more or less remodelled for the purpose. The fact that this elevator has twelve landings within a lift of fifty-nine feet indicates the business that it will be called upon to do. The second lift is an electric book-lift traversing the stacks and reaching the Special Libraries floor, which carries only small lots of books, and is operated by the attendant despatching the load; that is to say, it carries no attendant, but may be called to any point and despatched from it by the pressure of a button. When being loaded at any point, it is automatically exempt from call to any other point.

HEATING AND VENTILATION.

The building had been adequately heated except that the fresh air drawn in from the court-yard and forced up through the ventilating ducts, although passed over hot-water coils, had failed to reach a living indoor temperature. In consequence any discharge into any room had tended to offset rather than to assist the work of the local radiators. This portion of the ventilating plant has been revised; a ten-foot metal fan revolving at a high speed has been substituted for the eighteen-foot fan revolving at a low speed. Steam coils have been substituted for the hot-water coils, through which the fresh air is passed. The cotton bags, through which the air was forced to be sifted, have been done away with, the air from the court-yard at least being as pure as that necessarily taken into the building through open windows on the outside. In place of a maximum discharge through the ventilating tubes of 40,000 cubic feet of fresh air per minute, it is expected there will be secured a discharge of over 70,000 cubic feet per minute.

The exhaust fan, also, which is under the roof and draws out the foul air, has been overhauled and its efficiency increased.

The above improvements will, it is hoped, materially improve ventilation in the various reading-rooms. Perfect ventilation in all of such rooms, occupied by a number of persons, becoming excessive at short intervals, is not to be hoped for.

In addition to the above, special ventilating apparatus in the way of fans have been installed for special local service, as in the public lavatories, the engine-room, etc.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON INSPECTION OF PRISONS.

The following report for the Special Committee on the Inspection of Prisons in the County of Suffolk was presented to the Board of Aldermen at its last meeting by Alderman Cleary, and ordered to be printed as a public document:

The Special Committee of the Board of Aldermen appointed to visit and inspect the prisons in the County of Suffolk, having made the inspection required by the Statutes of the Commonwealth, respectfully submit their second semi-annual report.

SUFFOLK COUNTY JAIL.

This Institution was visited by the Committee on Wednesday, December 21, and found in its usual clean and healthful condition. The inmates were questioned as to the treatment, food and cleanliness, and each one spoke in high praise of the management, and the kindness shown them by those in charge. The Committee were impressed with the cleanliness of the Institution and the quality of the food furnished. They again recommend the erection of a new building for the detention of women, in which provision could be made for a modern laundry, and a part of the same building could be fitted for hospital work. At the present time, if inmates are taken sick, they have to be treated in their cells. An appropriation for the construction of a brick wall, to take the place of the wooden fence that partly surrounds the jail, should be made at once.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION, SOUTH BOSTON.

The House of Correction in South Boston was visited on Wednesday, December 21, and the Committee feel that something should be done this coming year, or at least a start made toward the erection of a new institution to take the place of this one, either on the mainland or on one of the islands in the harbor. The buildings are antiquated, and to appropriate any money to repair them would be a wasteful expenditure. The management of this place was commendable under existing conditions, and the Committee feel that everything that can be done for those unfortunate enough to be confined there is being done. The prison building, so called, where the cells are located, is not fit for human beings to live in, and immediate steps should be taken for the sake of humanity. The calisthenic drill and the school established here have both proved successful under their competent instructors.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION, DEER ISLAND.

The visit of the Committee on Inspection of Prisons to Deer Island, Boston Harbor, was made Thursday, December 22. The Institution and its inmates showed to the satisfaction of the Committee that its management was of the best. Cleanliness in every branch of it prevailed, and the food served to the inmates was good.

The hospital and its management was closely inspected, and the inmates asked as to their care and comfort. The replies received were confirmatory of the good opinion formed by the Committee of its supervision, and they were pleased to find that those confined there joined with them in that respect. Everything about the place showed that care and attention was afforded the unfortunate sick.

A new building, containing 500 cells, should be erected as soon as possible for the women prisoners. A new laundry and an additional dynamo should be placed at this Institution, and the Committee recommend to His Honor the Mayor an appropriation for the new building for women, the new laundry and the additional dynamo.

RAINSFORD ISLAND.

The Committee visited Rainsford Island, where stands the House of Reformation for Boys, on Thursday, December 22. In the opinion of the Committee the first recommendation to make relative to this Institution, is that the Trustees establish discipline in the class-rooms of the school, as a woful lack of that discipline and unanimity of purpose, which is essential to the welfare of such an institution, was plainly shown upon this visit. The Committee are of the opinion that this may be due, in part, to the fact that the number of Trustees is so large as to make impossible the unanimous feeling which is necessary for the proper government of the Institution. An institution of this kind would be improved by having it located on the mainland. Its present location should be abandoned. Its buildings are old, and not adapted for the successful working of a reformatory institution. For the above reasons the Committee recommend that a male teacher be employed as head of the educational work, and that a new location on the mainland be procured.

PARENTAL SCHOOL.

The Parental School was inspected December 23, and found to be inadequate for the number of boys sent there by the courts for truancy. Additional land, and the erection of new buildings for dormitories, besides a rearrangement of the school-rooms are recommended by the Committee. A new administration building should be built on the site of the present so-called administration building, for Superintendent's house. A new barn should be built, and the land now covered by water should be drained off by the building of a sewer through it.

REMARKS.

The Committee believe that the Children's Institutions, under a one-headed salaried official, would be better managed than under the present system of a board of seven.

The Penal Institutions, managed by a single commissioner, won the admiration of the Committee. The amount of money necessary to bring the various institutions of this County up to the standard will be large, and the Committee recommend to the new Board of Estimate and Apportionment their favorable consideration to the many suggestions presented in this report.

The Committee are indebted to Commissioner Marshall, Sheriff O'Brien, Deputy Sheriff Bradley, Trustees Lamb, Dacey and Mrs. Quinn and the officers in charge of the different institutions, who afforded the Committee every opportunity for a careful inspection.

With cedar on plank, principally used for paving in 1889, it cost the City of Detroit $55,990 to clean 133 miles of paved streets, while in 1898 it cost the city $68,660 for cleaning 248 miles of paved streets.

TRADE AND THE FLAG.

In the current number of the "Contemporary Review," Lord Farrer considers the question, "Does Trade Follow the Flag?" In support of his contention that it does not, certain significant statistics relating to the trade of Great Britain with foreign countries and the British colonial possessions, respectively, are adduced.

The gist of Lord Farrer's argument may be summarized in his own words as follows:

The aggregate amount of the external trade of the United Kingdom was in 1854, £249,000,000; and of this, £181,000,000, or 72.7 per cent., was with foreign countries, and £68,000,000, or 27.3 per cent., was with British possessions. The aggregate amount of the external trade of the United Kingdom was in 1895, £643,000,000, and of this £477,000,000, or 74.2 per cent., was with foreign countries, and £166,000,000, or 25.8 per cent., was with British possessions. So that, comparing the first and the last years in the return, the proportion of the trade which the United Kingdom does with foreign countries has slightly increased, and the proportion which it does with British possessions has slightly diminished.

If, instead of taking two single years, we take the averages for quinquennial periods, we find that the percentages of the trade of the United Kingdom with foreign countries and with British possessions are as follows:

Quinquennial Periods.	Trade with foreign countries.	Trade with British Possessions.
1855-59 . .	73.4	26.6
1860-64 . .	69.4	30.6
1865-69 . .	74.7	25.3
1870-74 . .	76.6	23.4
1875-79 . .	74.0	26.0
1880-84 . .	72.4	27.6
1885-89 . .	72.6	27.4
1890-94 . .	73.4	26.6

The striking feature in these figures is the persistency of the proportion. It was 73.4 to 26.6 at the beginning and 73.4 to 26.6 at the end of the time—exactly the same; and in the meantime it had varied very little. In the above figures the re-exports of foreign and colonial goods from the United Kingdom are not included. If they were included, the proportion of our trade with foreign countries, as compared with that carried on with British possessions, would appear to be rather larger than is shown by the above figures.

The above figures give the comparative amount of trade reckoned in values. It will be interesting to make a similar comparison of the amount and growth of the trade of the United Kingdom to places within and without the empire, reckoned in the tonnage of shipping, which, roughly speaking, gives some indication of quantity, not value.

Comparing the entries and clearances in the United Kingdom of ships bound from and to foreign countries with those of ships bound from and to British possessions, we find the proportions to be as follows:

Annual Average for	Percentage of Entries.		Percentage of Clearances.
	From Foreign Countries.	From British Possessions.	To Foreign Countries.	To British Possessions.
1855-59	78.9	21.1	78.3	21.7
1860-64	79.2	20.8	78.1	21.9
1865-69	82.5	17.5	81.6	18.4
1870-74	84.9	15.1	82.3	17.7
1875-79	85.8	14.2	81.7	18.3
1880-84	86.6	13.4	81.6	18.4
1885-89	87.7	12.3	82.3	17.7
1890-94	88.0	12.0	84.3	15.7

Let us now sum up the result of these figures. What do they prove? I do not for a moment suggest that the natives of foreign countries, with wants and habits different from those of Englishmen, will buy and use as large a quantity of the things produced in England as people of English origin and habits would buy and use. I do not suggest that the trade of the United Kingdom would not have been larger if the British dominions had been larger, and if the Union Jack had waved over all the countries now dominated by the tricolor or by the double-headed eagle. Still less do I suggest that the protective and prohibitory tariffs of foreign nations, not to mention those of our own colonies, have not made the volume of the trade of the United Kingdom less than it would otherwise have been. What the above figures do prove is, that the trade of the United Kingdom with foreign nations is three times as great as the trade of the United Kingdom with countries under the British flag; that this proportion has been substantially maintained for the last half-century—in fact, for the whole period for which we have trustworthy statistics; that it has remained the same, or nearly the same, in spite of changes of all kinds; in spite of the enormous increase of the British Empire; in spite of wars and alterations of boundaries; in spite of changes in the internal policies of the nations; in spite of the partial adoption, and in spite of the subsequent relinquishment by other nations, of the principles of free trade. In short, these figures prove conclusively that extension of empire is not necessary for the maintenance of the foreign trade of the United Kingdom, and that there is some fundamental fallacy in the doctrine, so dear to jingoes and protectionists, that "the trade follows the flag."

THE PHILADELPHIA COMMERCIAL MUSEUM.

The Philadelphia Commercial Museum was established by ordinance of the City Councils in 1894, although in 1893, at the close of the World's Columbian Exposition, $10,000 were appropriated by the city to defray the necessary expenses connected with bringing together a collection of the products of the world, to illustrate the commerce of the United States with foreign countries. Since 1893 additional appropriations, amounting to about $420,000, have been made by the city for maintenance, equipment and enlargement, besides $50,000 for building purposes, appropriated by the Pennsylvania Legislature during its 1897 session. The offices and exhibition rooms of the Museum cover sixteen acres.

The objects of the institution are to gather from all parts of the world, and to make available to business-men, full information concerning trade conditions and trade connections; to place on exhibition manufactured products from other countries; to bring before the manufacturer, dealer and consumer of the United States samples of the products of the world; to make examinations of those products, and to publish information concerning them. The management of the Museum is placed in a Board of Trustees, consisting of the Governor of the State, the Mayor of the City, the President of the Select and Common Councils of the city, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the State Commissioner of Forestry, the President of the Board of Public Education of the City, and the Superintendent of the Public Schools of Philadelphia, ex-officio, together with fourteen life members appointed by the Councils. To aid the work of the institution, a National Advisory Board, composed of members elected by commercial organizations throughout the United States, and a Diplomatic Advisory Board, consisting of heads of Legations at Washington for Latin-American Republics, was organized.

The work of the Museum is carried on and distributed through two distinct departments, viz.: (1) Scientific Department and (2) Information Department. They occupy over one hundred rooms and employ one hundred and twenty-five people.

Over nine hundred American firms are now regular subscribers to the Information Department, and are availing themselves of its facilities.

The area of Chicago is 193 square miles and its population is estimated at 1,850,000. The number of persons in the Police Department is 3,785; the salaries paid amount to $3,771,130.

CONTRACT WITH THE MASSACHUSETTS TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

Mayor Quincy has signed the order passed by the Board of Aldermen authorizing the Massachusetts Telephone and Telegraph Company to establish a new telephone system, with underground wires, after securing the execution by the company of the following contract to further strengthen and add to the obligations imposed upon it by the terms of the order. (See THE CITY RECORD, page 733.)

Article 3. Said Massachusetts Company shall construct its system of underground conduits so as to provide a suitable duct for carrying any electric wires for low tension currents that may be required by said city for its fire-alarm or police-signal systems, or for other municipal uses, and shall allow said city the use of such duct, with reasonable opportunity of access thereto, without any charge or rental therefor.

Article 4. Said Massachusetts Company, its successors and assigns, shall, as fast and as far as its telephone system is installed, furnish to said city, and to each and every one of the departments and offices thereof, such telephone service over its lines as may be required by the Mayor, without making any charge of any name or nature therefor.

Article 5. Said Massachusetts Company shall, within such reasonable time as is necessary to establish and connect the station applied for, furnish telephone service to any applicant therefor in said city.

Article 6. Article 7. Said company shall not sell or assign any right which may be granted to it to lay and maintain wires in the streets of said city without the consent of the Mayor and Aldermen of said city, shown by the vote of the Board of Aldermen, approved by the Mayor.

In witness whereof, said Massachusetts Telephone and Telegraph Company has caused these presents to be signed, and its corporate seal affixed thereto at said Boston this twenty-third day of December, 1898.

Massachusetts Telephone and Telegraph Company,

By ZEPHANIEL S. HOLBROOK,
President.

INDEX TO THE CITY RECORD.

There will appear in connection with next week's issue, a supplement containing a complete index to THE CITY RECORD for the year ending December 29, 1898.

There are 700,000 telephones in use in the United States; 140,000 in Germany and 116,000 in England.

According to a recent report from Manila made to the Supervising Surgeon-General of the United States Marine-Hospital Service, small-pox broke out about the middle of September among the United States troops stationed in that city. The reporting surgeon attributes the outbreak to the natives "who suffer from the disease with about the same frequency as children in the United States do from measles, as vaccination among them is entirely neglected. The cases seem to be of a virulent type, as the mortality has been about 50 per cent."

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE AND CARE OF MILK.

On December 22, the following regulation was passed by the Board of Health:

Whereas, in the opinion of the Board of Health of the City of Boston, infectious diseases are spread by the distribution of milk produced, stored and distributed under improper conditions, it is, therefore,

Ordered, That the following regulation be, and hereby is, adopted:

Article I.—Section 1. All persons in the City of Boston engaged in the production of milk for sale, or in the business of selling, delivering or distributing milk in said city, shall, annually on the first day of May or within thirty days thereafter, make written application to the Inspector of Milk on forms prescribed by the Board of Health for a license.

Section 2. No person in said city shall engage in the business of producing milk for sale, or in the sale or distribution of milk in the City of Boston, without a license so to do, under these regulations and such other conditions as the Board of Health may impose, said license to be revoked if the licensee fails to comply with the conditions of his license or the regulations of this Board.

Section 3. The conditions under which every cow is kept whose milk is brought into the City of Boston, or kept, delivered, distributed, sold or offered for sale in said city, shall be made known by the licensee to the Inspector of Milk in such detail as the Board of Health may require, and shall be approved by said Board, and no milk, except that derived from such cow, shall be brought, kept, delivered, distributed, sold or offered for sale in said city.

Section 4. No milk shall be sold, offered for sale or distributed in the City of Boston unless the cows from which it is derived have, within one year, been examined by a competent authority and shown to be free from diseases dangerous to the public health, but this shall not be construed as forbidding the sale or use of milk from cows not tested with tuberculin.

Section 5. All persons having a permit or license to sell, deliver or distribute milk in the City of Boston, shall keep a copy of the license constantly posted in a conspicuous place on the premises, and shall have his name and the number of his license marked in plain uncondensed Gothic letters, not less than one inch in height, on vehicles used by him in the conveyance and sale of milk.

Article II.—Section 1. No milk for sale or distribution shall be stored in that portion of a building which is used for the stabling of horses, cows or other animals, or for the storing of manure, or in any room used in whole or in part for domestic or sleeping purposes.

Section 2. No person in the City of Boston engaged in the business of producing milk for sale, and no person engaged in the business of storing or delivering milk in said city, shall store, cool or mix said milk in any room which is occupied by horses, cows or other animals. All rooms in which milk is stored, cooled or mixed, shall be provided with tight walls and floor and kept constantly clean. The walls and floors of said rooms to be of such a construction as to allow easy and thorough cleansing. The room or rooms aforesaid shall contain proper appliances for washing or sterilizing all utensils actually employed in the storage, sale or distribution of milk, and all such apparatus and utensils shall be washed with boiling water or sterilized by steam regularly after being so used.

Sect. 3. No urinal, water-closet or privy shall be located in the rooms called for in the preceding section, or so situated as to pollute the atmosphere of said rooms.

Sect. 4. All milk produced in the City of Boston for sale shall be strained, cooled or stored as soon as it is drawn from the cow.

Article III.—Section 1. Milk kept for sale in any store, shop, restaurant, market, bakery or other establishment, shall always be kept in a covered cooler, box or refrigerator, properly drained and cared for, and while therein shall be kept tightly closed and only in such locations and under such conditions as shall be approved by the Board of Health.

Article IV.—Section 1. All cans, bottles or other vessels of any sort used in the retail sale, delivery or distribution of milk to the consumer, must be cleaned or sterilized before they are again used for the same purpose, and it shall be deemed a sufficient reason for forfeiture of license for any milk dealer to fail so to do.

Sect. 2. No person shall use in any way a milk vessel for any other substance than milk, and any licensed milk dealer who shall so misuse such vessel shall be liable to forfeiture of license.

Article V.—Section 1. Every person engaged in the production, storage, transportation, sale, delivery or distribution of milk shall immediately on the occurrence of any case or cases of infectious disease either in himself or in his family, or amongst his employees or within the building or premises where milk is stored, sold or distributed, notify the Board of Health, and at the same time shall suspend the sale and distribution of milk until authorized to resume the same by the Board of Health. No vessels which have been handled by persons suffering from such diseases shall be used to hold or convey milk until they have been thoroughly sterilized.

Auctioneer's Licenses.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 15, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Board of Police in reply to your order asking information as to the "extent to which business is conducted in this city by auctioneers who are not duly licensed, and what means should be adopted to remedy the matter."

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF POLICE.

December 14, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

DEAR SIR: The Board of Police has received the order passed by the Common Council on November 18, making inquiries in relation to the extent to which business is conducted in this city by auctioneers who are not duly licensed and what means should be adopted to remedy the matter.

In reply I would say that the city has been canvassed by the different police divisions and we find that there are no persons doing an auctioneer business without a license. Some of them, however, hold State licenses other than those granted by the Board of Police, and under the law they have a right to do business in the City of Boston without obtaining a license from the city or from this Board. We do not know of any remedy for this matter except to change the statute law of the Commonwealth, which gives auctioneers holding State licenses authority to sell in any city or town of this Commonwealth. If you desire we can furnish you with a list of auctioneers doing business under a State license and those doing business under licenses granted by the Board of Police.

Very respectfully,

A. P. MARTIN, Chairman.

Sleighting on Main Thoroughfare.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 15, 1898.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Superintendent of Streets, in reply to your order requesting information as to the possibility of keeping one of the main thoroughfares running from the South End to the market district in a condition fit for sleighing.

Yours respectfully,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

STREET DEPARTMENT.

December 14, 1898.

HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

SIR: In reply to the inquiry contained in inclosed order of the Common Council "if it would be possible to keep one of the main thoroughfares running from the South End to the market district in a condition fit for sleighing," I would say that, under good sleighing conditions, this is always done. If a soft spell comes, however, the snow on the crossings is melted down to the stone, and may make travelling difficult; but I think there is no trouble, as stated above, under good sleighing conditions, in finding a route across the city by avoiding Washington street.

Respectfully submitted,

BENJ. W. WELLS,

Superintendent of Streets.

Lease of Unused School-house.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

City Hall, December 12, 1898.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

The Street Commissioners now have under their charge an unused school building on Thomas street, which they are willing to lease to be used as a temporary home for destitute Jewish children, and a charitable organization formed for the purpose is ready to take the building and make the necessary changes in it to adapt it to such use, if it can be given a lease for five years. This requires authority from the City Council, and believing that there is need of a home of this character, I gladly recommend the passage of the accompanying order giving the necessary authority to make the lease.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSIAH QUINCY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Street Commissioners be authorized to lease the old school building on Thomas street, now in their charge, for a period of not exceeding five years, at a nominal rent, to be used as a temporary home for destitute Jewish children.

The message was sent up and the order passed. Sent up.

In the period, 1855-59, Great Britain's imports from British North America averaged £5,000,000 annually, or 3.3 per cent. of her total imports. In 1890-94 they averaged £13,000,000, or 3.3 per cent. of the whole. British exports to British North America averaged £4,000,000 annually in 1855-59, or 3.1 per cent. of her total exports, while in 1890-94 they averaged £7,000,000, or 3 per cent. of her total exports.

The aggregate imports of Great Britain from Australia and New Zealand have very largely increased, both absolutely and proportionately in the last fifty years. They averaged £6,000,000, or 3.3 per cent. of total imports in 1855-59, and £30,000,000, or 7.3 per cent. of total imports, in 1890-94. British exports to those colonies increased from £10,000,000 on the average in 1855-59, to twice that sum on the average in 1890-94. But the percentage of such exports to Great Britain's total export trade has not increased. It was 8.4 per cent. in 1855-59, and 8.4 per cent. in 1890-94. Nor has it been steady. It was as low as 6 per cent. in 1870-74, and as high as 10.2 in 1885-89.
